What Makes Fat Ladies?
San Francisco Days.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

MR. SUNDERLAND, Connecticut's commissioner of state police, sends a sample blank application for stock in a concern called the "Gray Goose Airways, Inc." On the blank is written:

"Arthur Brisbane said: 'The first capable man, acting on a thorough realization of the flying machine's future, will establish for his stockholders and for himself such a fortune as would make the Vanderbilts, Hills and Huntingtons look like small financial crumbs'."

Quite true, but the writer wishes to add that he never heard of the GRAY GOOSE AIRWAYS, Inc.; never authorized the use of his name in its stock selling, and advises careful investigation of any stock offered, especially airplane stock.

The writer requests Gray Goose Airways, Inc., to cease using his name in connection with stockselling enterprises immediately.

SCHLESWIG, in Germany, thinks the Bible story of Abraham taking his son Isaac up the hill to cut his throat as a sacrifice to the Lord, and changing the plan when a ram was miraculously provided to take the place of the son, shows a conception of God that is "un-German."

It isn't in the least un-German if you go far enough back. There was a day when all gods were supposed to like sacrifices, especially human sacrifices, and to cut the throat of your own son to please God, and forward your own interests was not unusual.

Everybody remembers how Agamemnon, to pacify the Goddess Diana, who had becalmed the Greek fleet, was about to immolate his daughter Iphigenia, when Diana carried her away at the last moment and made her a priestess in her temple. Euripides tells you about that most dramatically.

AND DIDN'T German pagan god Wotan, who is almost Hitler's grandfather, put his own daughter Brunnhilde to sleep surrounded by flames? She might have caught fire at any minute.

Needless to say, the Christian God, who is also Jehovah of the Hebrews, would not for a moment permit human sacrifice.

Our feeble brains are permitted to assume he wanted to find out whether Abraham would obey, and apparently Abraham would have done so, and much to his credit, for who has a right to neglect a Divine command?

WHILE SCHLESWIG bars the interesting story about Abraham, Isaac, the burning bush, and the convenient ram, Weimar, where Goethe once represented intellect different from that of the Nazis, had "prohibited and dissolved the Free Christian Scientists' Union."

The government, as it confiscates the property and funds of the Christian Science Union, says it is done "for the protection of the state and the people."

GOBIND BEHARI LAL, science editor, says women can be reduced in size by eliminating excess water from the billions of cells that make up their bodies.

Authority no less than the Mayo brothers clinic is back of this statement in favor of "dehydration."

As individuals, we eat, drink, breathe, go through the process of digestion. Not all know that every one of the billions of cells in our bodies must do the same, eat, drink, breathe, eliminate waste.

Some cells absorb too much water, because the water-controlling hormone from the posterior pituitary glands are too active. This too-active hormone, in many cases, produces the fat women. The dehydrating, or drying, process reduces size and weight greatly. But don't try it on yourself, it takes skill.

MERCHANTS everywhere will be interested in San Francisco's two "make a job days," September 29 and 30. San Francisco intends to make these last two days of September the biggest buying days since 1929.

W. R. Hearst's San Francisco Examiner originated and is sponsoring this prosperity drive, the NRA administrator is promoting it. The idea is "spend a dollar and make a job," and it ought to spread.

THE STOCK EXCHANGE in Paris, friendly but cautious like all wise French institutions, decides not to admit United States securities to trading with other foreign stock "because the condition of the American dollar makes everything so uncertain."

Americans, remembering a time when American dollars, to the tune of many billions, were going to Europe, to stay there, with nothing uncertain about THEM, are reminded of an old Italian proverb:

"The animal with long ears, after having drunk, gives a kick to the bucket."

WEDNESDAY'S violent and sudden drop in the value of United States bonds might convince the government that when an administration undertakes to to "manage the money of a great nation, merely kicking it off of the gold standard is not quite enough.

When you first make your dollar CHEAP, and then make it SCARCE, you are not exactly "helping prosperity."

Look what happened to stocks, wheat and cotton yesterday when the rumor spread that timid Washington would balk at reasonable inflation.

Belgian Police Seize Men Trying to Pass Ransom Money

International News Service.

ANTWERP, Belgium, Sept. 22.—An attempt to change American banknotes—identified by police as some of the bills paid out by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh in a fruitless effort to ransom his kidnaped and murdered son—has resulted in the arrest of three men here, it was learned today.

One of the prisoners was a Pole, another a Belgian and the third a man of undetermined nationality whose name was said to be Kmuler.

While police maintained strict secrecy concerning the case, International News Service learned the men were taken into custody on their second attempt to change the money at a local bank.

The Polish prisoner, who was said merely to have been picked up by the others in the streets here, was the man actually accused of attempting to change the bills. Kmuler was arrested in the corridor of the bank while the Belgian prisoner was taken into custody as he stood outside the door, apparently on watch.

KIDNAPING DENIED

Denying any knowledge of the Lindbergh kidnaping, Kmuler and the Belgian said they received the money from a Dutchman in Paris. The Dutchman, they declared, claimed to have stolen it in the French capital.

Police based their identification of the money on the list disdistributed by the United States Treasury following the kidnaping, in which the numbers of all the bills comprising the $50,000 paid by Col. Lindbergh to an alleged

Spencer Tracy Does Real 2-Hour 'Stretch'

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Spencer Tracy, film actor, who starred recently in "Twenty Years in Sing Sing," spent two hours in the county jail yesterday, sheriffs deputies said, secured by handcuffs and leg irons after he had been booked on a charge of drunkenness.

The officers arrested him as he was attempting to back a car out of a driveway. Friends paid his bail of $20.

State Quiz On Vote Devices

Two committees, one local, the other state, were named today to investigate the breakdown of voting machines in Allegheny County at Tuesday's primaries.

The County Commissioners announced the appointment of State Senator Frank J. Harris, Attorney William B. McFall and Edward O. Tabor as a committee to probe the failure of many of the machines to operate, thereby causing confusion and delay in scores of districts.

STATE BOARD

From Harrisburg came word that Secretary of the Commonwealth Richard J. Beamish had selected a state board to re-examine the Poole Company machines in use here.

The board consists of H. A. Everett, of State College; George Hebert, of Philadelphia, and Alexander W. Luce, of Lehigh University. This board, according to Beamish, will examine "two or more" of the machines in Pittsburgh October 3.

Last year one state board refused to approve the Poole ma-

BOARD TO HUNT LOST VOTES

The county commissioners today swore in 80 persons as the Returning Board to count what is probably the most confusing and incomplete election in Pittsburgh history.

One of its jobs will be to find the "lost battalion." The mysterious group may include from one to 32,000 votes which have not been accounted for. It was understood that complete returns would not likely change the winning list of candidates.

Many city election boards, it was learned today at the Elections Bureau, confused over the ballot—machine debacle failed to make complete returns. The most notable was said to be the Twenty-ninth Ward, where six of the 10 districts' returns are incomplete.

MANY ERRORS

In many other districts, the boards sent in the voting machine count, or the ballot count, instead of sending both.

Approximately 32,000 registered city voters failed to vote or their votes were unrecorded, or untotaled.

Football Player Dies From Injury

WALLACE, Idaho, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Injured in a football game, Malcom Dale Crabaugh, 14, died in a hospital here yesterday.

A knee was lacerated a week ago and blood poisoning developed. The actual cause of death, a physician said, was pneumonia, induced by the boy's weakened condition. The youth, a student of Mullan High School, was hurt during practice.

Brother and Sister Join In Double Elopement

There was a problem for a Solomon here in Pittsburgh today in the unraveling of the relationships of two young men and two young girls who eloped to Wheeling, W. Va., last night.

The unraveling process was thrown in the laps of the police by indignant parents of one of the boys and one of the girls last night—brother and sister—but the police could do nothing about it.

Wilson Boone, 25, a cooper, had married Elizabeth Boul, 17. Boone was a roomer in the home of Elizabeth's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Boul, of 135 Creek street.

To keep it in the family and make it go double, Elizabeth's brother, Carl, 19, took Catherine Ritter, 18, on the trip and married her at the same time.

The two girls are high school students.

The indignant Ferdinand Bouls asked police to do something about the double wedding, but the police were helpless—everything was according to law, as the two couples had obtained proper licenses before wedding.

The newly-weds were understood to be at the Boul home today with the next step up to the parents. And while the parents pondered on the next step, they ejected all newspapermen from the home.

U. S. TO GIVE SURPLUS TO NEEDY

Roosevelt Plan Means Distribution of Clothes, Food

The text of the presidential message on food relief appears on Page 5.

By EDWARD B. LOCKETT
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—President Roosevelt moved today to bring the rich surplus of food and staples yearly produced in this country to the man and woman unable to buy necessities of life.

He wants the program under way within 30 days.

The President directed his great agricultural recovery organization, first to spend about $75,000,000 for beef, dairy and poultry products, cotton and cottonseed. He ordered Relief Administrator Harry Hopkins to take over these vast stores, once they are purchased, and distribute them to the needy.

CONFERENCES HELD

He believes this program will in some measure correct what he views as a basic economic maladjustment in the American economic scheme. The move came as a result of conferences between the President, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, Agricultural Adjustment Administrator George N. Peek and Hopkins.

With his aides, the President considered the national economic structure before acting. They saw, on the one hand, a land rich in every life necessity, and on the other a considerable element in that land unable to obtain food and clothing. The combination surplus removal and relief program was the result.

Agricultural recovery and federal relief funds will bear the finance burden of the new program about equally in the end, under the President's scheme.

The Agriculture Department will spend the money first. Then, these purchases will be resold to the relief administration under Hopkins—probably at prices lower

Chilly Weather Heralds Autumn

Lenthening nights and lessening days today reached the stage where the end of Pittsburgh's summer could be officially proclaimed. Tomorrow will be the first day of fall. But, cold weather or no cold weather, topcoats and fur neckpieces on the street today couldn't convince the weatherman that summer was ended until the sun today crossed the equator to begin spring and longer days for the southern hemisphere.

PATROLMAN JOHN SPEZZANO CONSTANTINE GIANA, 42

Patrolman Spezzano in West End Police Station today with his prisoner, a man arrested for investigation in connection with a 23-year-old slaying that climaxed a quarrel over a Carnegie woman. Patrolman Spezzano, as a boy in Italy, heard from neighbors of how their relative, John Russi, had been slain, vowed to come to America, become a policeman, solve the mystery of the crime. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

WOMAN BEATEN BY BURGLARS

Entering the kitchen of her home to investigate a noise, Mrs. Stella Lindsey, 45, of 770 Anaheim street, was seized by two burglars, knocked unconscious and left bound and gagged on the kitchen floor. The intruders ransacked the house and stole Mrs. Lindsey's purse containing $3.

More than an hour later, the husband, Albert W. Lindsey, returning home from work, found his wife still unconscious. He worked 45 minutes attempting to revive her and then summoned a physician. Mrs. Lindsey regained consciousness under the care of the physician and was put to bed.

Mrs. Lindsey said she was in the house alone at the time, sitting in her living room listening to the radio. She heard a noise in the kitchen and went to investigate. As she reached for the electric light switch she was seized. She said:

"I felt someone grab me and heard a voice say, 'get her.'"

The husband told police that he was working about two blocks away in a chain store of which he is manager. He said he believed the burglars may have been under the impression that he took the store receipts home each night.

Schwab in Hospital, Suffers 'Fatigue'

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the board of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, is a patient at Doctors' Hospital, suffering from "fatigue."

A statement issued by the hospital today said he had not been well since the meeting of the Iron and Steel Institute last spring, and emphasized that he was not seriously ill. The statement said:

"Charles M. Schwab has not been well since the meeting of the Iron and Steel Institute last spring. He is now in Doctors' Hospital under the care of Dr. S. A. Brown and Dr. H. R. Geyelin. Mr. Schwab is not seriously ill. It is expected that he will be up and about in a week or ten days. He came to Doctors' Hospital for quiet and rest.

"He is suffering from no specific ailment, merely fatigue."

Schwab entered the hospital last week. He is 71 years old.

Friends recalled today that at the meeting of the American Iron and Steel Institute, of which Schwab is chairman, last June he became faint while reading his speech and had to sit down and rest.

Eugene G. Grace, president of Bethlehem Steel, took up the reading until Schwab had recovered and was able to finish the address.

W. VA. GUARDS AGAINST MARCH

Rumor of Importation Of Workers Stirs Coke Region

By AL GOUGH
Staff Correspondent.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Sept. 22.—A border war between Pennsylvania's holiday miners and West Virginia authorities loomed today.

On the Pennsylvania side thousands of men were being mobilized for a march on Monongalia County mines tomorrow. In West Virginia, Sheriff Charles T. Hickman and a force of deputies and state police kept a 24-hour armed vigil to repel invasion.

Today saw the greatest force of pickets yet assembled in the Connellsville coke region. Practically every mine in the district had its quota of men standing guard under an American flag and banners telling their allegiance to the United Mine Workers of America.

FRICK MINE WATCHED

Two concentration points, one in the Frick-owned Colonials and the other at the Frick-owned Edenborn mine, boasted more than 10,000 pickets. Between 5,000 and 6,000 men lined the highways in the vicinity of Edenborn, near the scene of the most recent disorders in the present walkout.

It is rumored that the H. C. Frick Coke Company has imported several hundred Alabama Negroes to operate this mine, and the holiday celebrants are determined to oppose it. Details of state police patrolled the roads from 4 o'clock this morning until after 9.

The pickets marching back and forward behind their banners kept on the move of their own volition, with chill winds sweeping down from the hills to penetrate their worn and ragged clothing.

Even the troopers, buttoned up to their chins in their close-fitting uniforms, found it more comfortable to keep on the move, and the casual observer, if he could

ROOSEVELT URGES MAYORS TO RUSH PUBLIC WORKS

THREE BILLIONS READY FOR USE, MEET TOLD

President Promises To Match Speed With City Heads

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt told Mayors of the nation's largest cities today to bring in their plans for using the $3,300,000,000 federal public works fund and the government would allocate the money with all possible speed.

The President's message was read at the United States conference of Mayors just as Mayor John F. Dore, of Seattle, had finished a declaration that the Pacific Northwest was slipping deeper into depression because of delay in allocating the public relief money. Dore declared:

"The impetus of recovery is collapsing. The reason is that we can't get help from the public works fund. I don't believe the President knows it, but the NRA, so far as the Pacific Northwest is concerned, has ended."

PLEDGES SPEED

Mayor James M. Curley, of Boston, president of the conference of Mayors, read Mr. Roosevelt's message to the approximately 80 Mayors in attendance.

The President's message read in part:

"We are at the point now where the states and municipalities interested in public works projects should come forward quickly with proposals which will give immediate work to their unemployed.

"We will match speed with you. The money is available and we want to put men to work."

BACKS NRA

The Mayors were called upon to do everything within their power to speed the program of the National Recovery Act.

Mayor Curley told the executives that such action was their duty:

"The need of the hour is to provide employment for those who are without it. The success of the NRA means a larger measure of happiness and better living conditions for all the people. We should do all that we can to speed it forward."

COUZENS ASKS BANK REFORM

DETROIT, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—United States Senator James Couzens in a public statement urged a "united, intelligent and militant public opinion" for banking reform, and declared that he plans to bring "several aspects" of Detroit's banking situation to the attention of the Senate in December.

The statement was the third since the close Monday of the grand jury investigation into the closing of the First National Bank-Detroit and the Guardian National Bank of Commerce. In his first statement the Senator charged he had been "prevented" by Judge Harry B. Keidan, who sat as a one-man jury, from giving further evidence he held concerning holding companies of the two banks.

The Senator's statement said:

"Criticism of the grand jury may be undignified, but in my nearly 20 years of public life I have not stood upon dignity in my efforts to eradicate evils in industry, banking and public service."

Window Posters Launch U.S. War on Crime Here

President Roosevelt's command to war on crime reached Pittsburgh today, when local police officials sent out 25,000 posters for window display, instructing the citizenry what to do to aid in the fight against crime.

The posters show a woman calling police on the telephone, and also two scout car patrolmen speeding to the scene. The police phone number is identified as Court 0300. Residents are urged to call that number if they see a crime committed or behold suspicious persons loitering around.

The posters explain that the Pittsburgh police radio functions so that a scout car with officers, armed with rifles, shotguns and small arms will hurry to the spot.

Director Harmar D. Denny, Jr., of the Public Safety Department, and Supt. F. T. McQuaide explained that in co-operation with President Roosevelt's drive, Pittsburgh is making its biggest drive on crime.

BANDITS FLEE WITH PAYROLL

International News Service.

SCRANTON, Pa., Sept. 22.—Four dapper bandits armed with revolvers and shotguns held up a mill superintendent and his aide at Blakely today and fled with a payroll of $8,160.

The holdup took place within a stone's throw of the John Dunlap plant, where more than 300 employes were working. Less than a block away about 15 men were at work.

The gunmen forced Adam Laskansky, the superintendent, and John Berenter from their car and stood them against a fence. Two grabbed the canvas bag containing the money and the other pair tore the ignition wires from Laskansky's car and threw away the key.

The quartet escaped in a sedan. As the bandit car disappeared in the direction of Scranton, Laskansky hurled a rock through one of the mill windows, sounding the alarm and bringing the workers to the scene. State police took up the chase.

Ben Shalansky, 36, of 2030 Bedford avenue, was held over in Center Avenue Police Court today by Magistrate P. J. Riley, in connection with an alleged attempt to enter a chain store at 2114 Wylie avenue.

CLEANERS HOLD STRIKE PARLEY

Nearing what both sides admit to be a crisis in their differences, striking dry cleaners and operators were making an effort to reach an agreement this afternoon in the Chamber of Commerce board room.

A four-hour morning session had failed to bring the opposing sides nearer a settlement.

Confronting the strikers today was a restraining order granted by Judge James H. Gray yesterday to prevent intimidation by strikers at the plants of Crandall, McKenzie and Henderson, Inc., Oswald Werner & Sons Company and D. H. Seruset Company.

On the other hand the operators were aware of an ultimatum laid down by Selig Morov, president of the cleaners' union, giving them a last chance to negotiate together as an association.

Morov warned today:

"If they can't get together, we will deal with them separately and sign individual agreements after today."

The union leader also disclaimed any responsibility for apparent strike activities yesterday which were climaxed by the throwing of a crude bomb into the Liberty Cleaning and Dyeing Company's plant at 3801 Liberty avenue. No one was injured.

INFLATION HELD LIKELY BEFORE WINTER

Roosevelt Silent, Intimates Predict Use of Power

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—President Roosevelt is maintaining a studied silence concerning currency inflation, but his closest intimates believe it is coming.

They differ as to when and how, some predicting 30 days, some 60 and some 90, but nearly all believe it will be found necessary before the winter is well advanced.

The inflation storm has raged unceasingly around the President's ears this week. It has been mostly of southern and western origin.

It is apparent that Mr. Roosevelt is extremely loath to embark upon direct currency inflation.

His present policy is plainly to try everything else first. To that end, responsible administration officials have appealed to the bankers to loosen up on credit; the Reconstruction Finance Corporation has advanced $150,000,000 to the Agricultural Adjustment Administration to finance farm mortgages; the government embarked upon an ambitious hog-buying campaign, and now the Agriculture Department has been given $75,000,000 with which to go into the surplus commodity markets and buy relief stores.

In addition, the government is considering the plan advanced by Southern cotton growers for federal purchase of about one-half the cotton crop at 15 cents a pound.

It has other ambitious schemes on the laboratory table for examination, including one of financing purchases in the field of heavy industries, such as steel and railroads.

bracing 70 per cent of the bituminous coal tonnage—signed for the operators. John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, was the third signer. The three said in a joint statement:

"Its sponsors believe it marks the beginning of a new era in the task of stabilizing and modernizing the economic processes of this basic industry. Its sponsors in submitting it for approval commend it, not only to the President, but to the people of the United States."

Completion of the soft coal labor agreement which the three signers said was accomplished with the "inspiring help of President Roosevelt" coincided with the disclosure of NRA plans looking toward a permanent organization under which industry will regulate itself with the least governmental interference.

C. E. Lesher, executive vice president of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, explained that President Morrow of the coal company had signed the code in Washington in behalf of the Northern Coal Control Association, which includes virtually all production in Ohio, North West Virginia and Western Pennsylvania. This did not include the "captive" mines, Lesher said he understood.

The Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Company is not a member of this group.

10,000 PICKETS MASS ON FRICK COAL MINES

COLONIALS PICKETED

Another group of about 5,000 pickets swarmed about the three Colonial mines. Their ranks stretched from Colonial No. 1 at Smock more than five miles through Rowes Run, where the entrance to Colonial No. 3 is located, to Colonial No. 4 at Grindstone.

A motley assortment of uniformed Frick company deputies, some of them dressed in khaki and some in dark gray, similar to uniform of the state police, paraded the company property. Scattering groups of nonunion employes were in evidence, but nothing untoward occurred.

Everywhere in the picket lines could be heard talk of plans for the morrow. The word was passed:

"On to West Virginia. All set for tomorrow."

The concentration point for the march is a farm near Bobtown, a few miles from the state line. A few miners already were reported awaiting the main body due to arrive by daybreak tomorrow.

The marchers' objective is Scotts Run where two mines, both reported organized 100 per cent, are still operating.

Workers in both mines are reported to have voted to take a holiday beginning tomorrow unless they are given a wage increase from 36 cents a ton for loaders and $3.60 a day for outside day laborers.

If the loaders are granted a higher ratio in the agreement signed at Washington yesterday, leaders say, the proposed strike may be called off.

INVASION OPPOSED

Sheriff Hickman, taking personal charge of the situation, declares he is prepared to repel any invasion of Pennsylvania miners with force if necessary. Prosecuting Attorney John V. Sanders, of Monongalia County, declared the forces of the county would be brought to oppose any invasion and "to keep the peace."

Reinforcementts of state police were being rushed into Morgantown today from other parts of West Virginia and Sheriff Hickman was prepared to swear in more deputies "if the occasion made it necessary."

Pennsylvania state police were watching the situation closely today. A detail of Troop "D" was sent into the vicinity of Point Marion and Bobtown this morning with instructions to report any movement towards the state boundary. Beyond that they had no instructions except to "preserve order" on the Pennsylvania side.

Pittsburgh Miners Stay on 'Holiday'

The miners' "holiday" continued today in the Pittsburgh district, with little prospect of immediate change in the situation.

Representatives of the men have voted to remain out until full recognition is granted the United Mine Workers by leading coal producers of Western Pennsylvania, particularly the H. C. Frick Coke Company.

John O'Leary, international board member of the United Mine Workers and one of those signing an order asking the men to go back to the pits, addressed a meeting of 800 men at Harmarville yesterday, urging them to return to work.

John Murray, of Curtisville, who presided, answered that it was "impossible to convince the men their interests would be protected without contracts."

O'Leary said he believed the men would return as soon as contracts are signed in Washington.

CUBA'S LEADER TO APPEAL TO U. S. BY RADIO

Grau San Martin for Copying American NRA Program

BULLETIN.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—The United States government will make representations to Havana authorities as a result of the looting of an American citizen's home there.

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service.

HAVANA, Sept. 22.—President Grau San Martin planned today to make a direct appeal to the American people by radio tonight, asking United States recognition of Cuba.

Following the tactics of President Roosevelt in using the radio to state his position, the Cuban chief executive prepared to explain the aims of his government and to promise to use the American NRA as an example in dealing with capital, labor, wages and working hours and conditions.

The President will make his broadcast over the Columbia chain. As a result of his exile in America under the Machado regime, he speaks fair English and should have no difficulty in making himself understood.

At the same time, the administration launched a counter-attack on "enemy propagandists" by ordering a roundup of alien agitators and raiding the homes of alleged conspirators.

The number of arrests made was not known, as the government refused to give out detailed information about the raids.

Meanwhile, the city hall of Manguito, in Matanzas province, was seized today by a group of politicians who ousted the Mayor, an appointee of the sergeants who gained control of the Havana government in overthrowing President des Cespedes.

The government of President Grau San Martin described the incident as a "peaceful seizure."

BUYING OF COAL FOR POOR URGED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Representative Boland (Dem.), Pennsylvania, said today he would discuss Tuesday with Harry L. Hopkins, federal emergency relief administrator, a plan to purchase 10,000,000 to 12,000,000 tons of coal for distribution to the needy this winter.

The purchase, which would be made by the administration's state authority in Pennsylvania from funds already obtained for that state from Hopkins' organization, would result in re-employment of some 30,000 miners, Boland estimated. The cost of the coal, he said, probably would run from $6,000,000 to $7,000,000.

Boland added that he understood Gov. Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, looked with favor on the project.

SLEUTH HERE TRAILS OLD MURDER FROM HIS NATIVE ITALY

MAN ARRESTED IN SLAYING OF 23 YEARS AGO

Suspect Denies Crime Laid to Row Over Carnegie Woman

Patrolman John Spezzano, of West End Station, today was working to solve a murder mystery involving a former Carnegie woman 23 years ago, of which he first learned when a lad in his native town of Pallogori, Italy.

Spezzano as a boy was told by a neighbor that the latter's relative, John Russo, had been shot to death in a feud over a woman.

When Spezzano came to America, 21 years ago, he bore the murder in mind and later upon becoming a policeman, he determined, if possible, to solve the slaying.

SUSPECT ARRESTED

Today, held in Mt. Washington Police Station, is Constantine Giana, 42, of 677 Independence street. He is charged with being a suspicious person and is detained as a suspect in the Russo murder, police say. He was held over today by Magistrate Patrick Riley.

Giana has not been informed of the suspicions against him, Patrolman Spezzano said.

On the records of West End Station is a statement to the effect that Giana has been identified as the man named by the dying Russo as the one who shot him. Russo was on his way to the home of a neighbor when he was shot, police said. He is said to have revealed the name of his slayer to the neighbor.

WOMAN TO BE QUIZZED

Patrolman Spezzano and several fellow officers were to go to Steubenville, O., where the woman in the case is believed now to reside to question her if she can be found.

Police assert that following the slaying Giana disappeared and was not seen in the vicinity of Carnegie for a long time.

Giana was arrested last night at the home of a friend.

Officer Spezzano said he learned Giana had been in trouble in Italy over a woman and subsequently came to this country several years before the shooting of Russo, also an immigrant from Italy.

YEGGS CRACK AUTO SAFE

The safe in the offices of the factory branch of the Chevrolet Motor Company, 300 North Braddock avenue, was cracked and emptied early today by three yeggs who unarmed, beat and tied up the watchman, according to a police report.

In the basement, which they had entered through a cellar window, the yeggs laid in wait until the watchman, F. H. Webb, passed on his hourly patrol, police said. After a blow on the head felled him, Webb was unarmed and beaten severely, then bound, gagged and tied to the cellar steps.

Three hours later, after he had struggled to a point of exhaustion, Webb said he freed himself, made his way to the first floor and telephoned police. It was learned the yeggs had forced entrance to the offices where they opened the safe by hammering off its combination. From it $300 and an unknown quantity of postage stamps were stolen, police were told.

Livermore Kidnap Plot Linked to Ship Slaying

Doheny, Oil Magnate, Also Gang's 'Target,' Suspect Says

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—An alleged plan to kidnap E. L. Doheny, California oil magnate, and Jesse L. Livermore, New York stock broker, entered today into the investigation of the slaying of Buell Dawson, youthful gangster, aboard the gambling ship Johanna Smith, anchored off Long Beach.

James Walsh, former convict who the Federal agents claim has confessed yesterday's slaying of Dawson, allegedly told the investigators the killing resulted from a dispute over the plans for kidnaping Doheny and Livermore.

The federal agents, however, were inclined to discredit the story and sought another motive.

Dawson was shot while 200 persons were aboard the pleasure ship, drinking, dancing and gambling. All persons aboard the ship were held for several hours and each questioned. Agents said Walsh confessed to the crime when confronted with a revolver found in a washroom aboard the vessel.

The United States District Attorney's office here, after reading the confession made by Walsh in Long Beach, issued a complaint charging him with murder on the high seas, the gambling ship having been anchored more than three miles off shore. Walsh was immediately arraigned and ordered held pending trial.

Walsh is 22 years old and is known by the alias of Norman Lorraine. Dawson was 25.

LUER KIDNAPING DEFENSE SPLIT

Norvell's statement caused a stir among other attorneys defending their respective clients and gave rise to the belief that the defense would present no unified front at the trial.

Norvell was the first witness as the defense began its efforts to save the five men and a woman from the electric chair—which the prosecution has indicated it will ask for them.

U. S. IN FINAL BOUT WITH BAILEY

Federal Aides to Rest Case at Urschel Kidnap Trial

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Prosecutors hurled their last shafts of accusal today at the dozen persons on trial for conspiracy in the kidnaping of Charles E. Urschel for an oil fortune in ransom.

District Attorney Herbert K. Hyde, bearing the burden of the government's attempt to bring the life-term provisions of the "Lindbergh" kidnaping law to bear against those charged in the plot that cost the Oklahoman $200,000, said his remaining witnesses would complete the case today.

Having already presented the bulk of its evidence against Harvey Bailey and Albert Bates, the outlaws, and the three Shannons, owners of the Texas farm where Urschel was kept for more than a week last July, the government moved today to connect seven Minneapolis and St. Paul men with its story of conspiracy.

SEVEN DENY GUILT

The seven Twin Cities men are Isadore Blumenfield, Sam Kronick, Pete Valder, alias Hackett and Nelson, Clifford Skelly, Edward (Barney) Berman, Charles Wolk and Sam Kozberg.

The government says $5,500 of the Urshel ransom was found in their possession and the defense is that the men were ignorant of its origin. The government contends the men knew well that the money was "hot."

Testimony relating to the disposition of part of the $200,000 with which Urschel was ransomed was admitted over strenuous objections of counsel for the seven Minneapolis and St. Paul defendants.

Ralph Hagen, teller in the Hennepin State Bank, Minneapolis, told of intercepting part of the ransom at his bank. His testimony brought the Minneapolis and St. Paul defendants into the trial by name for the first time.

RANSOM MONEY

The prosecution has $1,500 obtained in the Twin Cities which it identified as part of the ransom for return of Urschel.

The return of this sum brings the total recovered to $2,840, and leaves $197,160 outstanding on the "abduction account."

Hagen testified that on August 5 he issued a cashier's check for $1,300 to Sam Frederick, payable to S. H. Peters. Part of the $1,800 presented by Frederick, described as a truck driver and "errand boy" for the Wolk Transfer Company, was in $20 bills identified as ransom money.

Frederick testified that Charles Wolk sent him to the bank with the money in company with two men.

Abel peterson, teller in the First National Bank and Trust Company, of Minneapolis, then took the stand and told of cashing the check for Pete Valder.

James H. Mathers, counsel for Bailey, saturnine jailbreaker, said he would file a score of motions to dismiss charges against his c[illegible]

12 Murder Charges Face Man Held in Kidnaping

O'Connell Abduction Suspect Called 'Killer-for-Hire'

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—On the hunched shoulders of Leonard Scarnici, young bad man, police sought today to place the guilt for 12 murders.

The indications were that Scarnici would go first to Troy to face trial on a charge of the murder of a detective in a robbery of the bank of Rensselaer last May.

He was seized Wednesday with four other men and two women in connection with the kidnaping of John J. O'Connell, Jr., of Albany, whose politically powerful family bought him back for $40,000 ransom.

Called a 'killer-for-hire.' Scarnici is also wanted in Woodbridge, Conn., for a filling station robbery in which two men were murdered.

Other slayings the police sought to connect him with were:

The machine-gunning of Vincent Coll, Bronx desperado; the ride killings of Marcel Poffo, Max Parken, Anthony Russo, and Joseph Caliegro, whose bodies were found near Harrison, N. Y.; the killing of Joe Ruggiero, believed to have followed a quarrel over the loot from a New York bank robbery; the "sack murders" of William Price and Edward Flanagan in Brooklyn, and the "sack murder" of Da[illegible] Feiner, who had been arrested with Scarnici for a robbery of the postoffice at Salisbury, Conn.

OFFICER SLAIN IN HOLDUP

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Five machine gunners, laying a smoke screen, robbed four Federal Reserve Bank messengers of mail sacks in the heart of the financial district early today, and later killed a policeman as they wrecked their speeding car.

W. C. Bachman, cashier of the Federal Reserve Bank, said the bags contained "nothing but canceled checks, worthless to anyone but the banks."

Postal inspectors, city and state police threw a cordon of guards around the city to prevent the exit of the band, and government criminologists studied the two automobiles abandoned by the robbers in the hope of finding clues to the gunners.

Suspicion focused on George (Machine Gun) Kelly and Verne Miller, Southwestern bandits. Highway maps well thumbed in the Texas-Oklahoma region were found in a bullet-proof car and in the swift and daring execution of the robbery the police saw the expert hand of the notorious outlaws seeking defense funds for Harvey Bailey on trial for kidnaping.

SENATOR DAVIS WAITS RULING

By WILLIAM PFARR

Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Senator James J. Davis' array of counsel today put forth its best efforts to prevent the government from trying to show that the Pittsburgher profited by $173,000—or, for that matter, by a single penny—from the alleged $3,000,000 lotteries conducted by his Loyal Order of Moose in 1930 and 1931.

If Attorney Charles Margiotti, for Davis, can convince Judge Johnson Hayes that the jury should not hear the evidence along this line, then a Davis celebration will be in order.

The Senator isn't charged with profiting from the so-called lotteries. The indictment accuses him only of shipping lottery tickets from Pennsylvania into New York.

But his counsel would much rather not have the jury hear any testimony purporting to show that he did make a profit.

This is a legal argument that, for some reason or other, was not brought up at the Senator's first trial a year ago. And upon its outcome hinges much.

Lyrical Wife Sues 'Noble Viking' For Divorce

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Mrs. Maizelle Edwards Eichman, 22, employed a bit of poetic prose in her divorce bill to describe how a high school romance wilted.

She said she was "kept a virtual prisoner in a lofty tower of the rocky shores of the Atlantis by a noble Viking lord."

Her husband is Edward C. Eichman, former football captain at Geneva (Ill.), High School, whom she wed in 1931. Since then, she charged, he has struck her and kept her prisoner like a maiden of old.

HIT-RUN DRIVER KILLS 1, HURTS 1

William Auberger, 22, of 3328 East street, was dead today and his friend and neighbor, Andrew Gurst, 21, of 3324 East street, was in Presbyterian Hospital in a serious condition, both victims of an alleged hit-run driver.

Another neighbor, H. Nauman, of 3411 East street, a witness to the crash, commandeered a passing automobile, chased the fleeing automobile and caught a motorist, who, police said, gave his name as Robert E. Polk, of Royce avenue, Mt. Lebanon. Nauman chased the fleeing machine a mile, he said.

The injured men were standing at the door of another machine when they were hit.

GIRL'S SLAYER GETS CHAIR

International News Service.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 22.—Richard (Big Slim) Bach, 22, found guilty of the slaying of Rose McCloskey, today was sentenced to die in the electric chair by Judge Harry S. McDevitt, who overruled a plea for new trial.

Bach muttered glumly when Judge McDevitt inquired whether he had anything to say before sentence was pronounced:

"Go ahead!"

Attorney Harry H. Johns, counsel for Bach, announced he will appeal to a higher court on the grounds of after discovered evidence tending to show Bach was innocent.

Rose, a pretty store clerk, was battered to death as she kept a tryst in a lonely section of Fairmount Park with Dennis Boyle, her sweetheart, who was badly beaten by the slayer.

SUSPECT'S GRIN DISTURBS NAZI FIRE TRIAL

Dutch Youth Held Sane Despite Laughter In Courtroom

By QUENTIN REYNOLDS

International News Service.

LEIPZIG, Germany, Sept. 22.—Despite his wavering political career and unintelligent appearance in court, the youthful Dutch radical accused of firing the Reichstag Building in Berlin is sane, an expert witness testified today in the high treason trial of five alleged Communists.

This belief was expressed by Ferdinand Bonhoeffer, a noted psychologist, who declared he considered the accused youth, Marinus van der Lubbe, of right mind despite his "insane grinning" at the trial.

Van der Lubbe's actions during the court proceedings were the result of nervous exhaustion, the witness declared, adding the 24-year-old boy, who was arrested at the scene of the Reichstag Building blaze, was "different" outside the courtroom.

Bonhoeffer also declared it was "impossible" that Van der Lubbe had set fire to the building while under any hypnotic influence.

'A MODEL FIRE'

He then recounted a previous conversation he said he had held with Van der Lubbe, in which he claimed the accused told him his alleged act in firing the building was a "model action."

This, said the witness, was meant to imply that the burning of the building "invited imitation."

A mild sensation was caused in the crowded chamber of the Supreme Court, Germany's highest tribunal, when Police President Heines, of Breslau, sent a telegram to the court asking protection because of reports he was responsible for the Reichstag fire.

The message stated that Heines was in Silesia on February 27 last, when the blaze occurred.

AMERICAN'S AID REFUSED

So far, Van der Luebbe has been the center of the proceedings. Also accused with him are Ernest Torgler, former Communist floor leader in the Reichtag, and three Bulgarian radicals.

Prosecutor Werner announced that Van der Luebbe's family, through Dutch newspapers, had appealed to President Von Hindenburg to permit Dr. Benno Stomps, Dutch lawyer, to defend him. Immediately after this announcement, Judge Buenger abruptly adjourned the court for half an hour.

Arthur Garfield Hays, famous New York attorney, was an interested spectator at the trial, and after the day's session ended, he revealed he offered his aid to the defendants, but it was refused.

HITLER DEEDS PROTESTED

Led by Carl Hacker, district secretary of the International Labor Defense, a committee representing workers' organizations, protested against actions of the Hitler government to John E. Loibl, German vice-consul here, yesterday. Loibl agreed to forward any letter of protest to the German Ambassador in Washington.

Communists on trial in Leipzig, Germany, for the Reichstag fire will receive a fair trial, Loibl averred.

NRA PREPARING PERMANENT STAFF

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—The huge job of shifting the Recovery Administration from an emergency to a permanent organization has been begun by Hugh S. Johnson, the administrator.

Looking forward to the time when he hopes to have all industry operating under codes of fair competition, Johnson is endeavoring to work out a plan for the self-regulation of industry with the least governmental interference consonant with the protection of the public interests.

Thomas S. Hammond, executive director of the President' emergency re-employment campaign and until mid-summer a prominent Illinois manufacturer, was reported today to be drafting the proposed permanent set-up of the NRA at the request of Johnson.

CODES STUDIED

Besides the staff reorganization, there also is under way an examination of existing codes for revision of weak spots and merger wherever possible of as many additional industries as possible under master codes.

This merging into as few charters as possible constitutes the heart of the proposed permanent set up of the NRA as now proposed by Hammond and those assisting him.

Meanwhile, a general reorganization of the NRA key men and the creation of a policy board was disclosed with the appointment by Johnson of Robert W. Lea, a deputy administrator, as assistant administrator for industry. He succeeds Dudley Cates, Chicago insurance man, who resigned after difference with the administrator.

Lea and Johnson worked together as army officers in the division of supplies during the World War and have been business intimates and friends since.

BOARD LISTED

Headed by Hammond, the new policy board includes the following: Lea, Alvin Brown, administrative assistant to Johnson; Edward F. McGrady, assistant administrator for labor; Charles Michelson, chief of public relations; Malcom Muir, deputy administrator; Donald R. Richberg, general counsel; Mrs. Charles C. Rumsey, chairman of the consumer's advisory board; Dr. Alexander Sachs, chief economist; K. M. Simpson, a deputy administrator; Nelson Slater, liason officer between the NRA and the Agricultural Adjustment Administration; Walter C. Teagle, chairman of the industrial advisory board; Dr. Leo Wolman, chairman of the labor advisory board; C. C. Williams, deputy administrator, and Robert K. Straus, who has been designated liason officer between divisions of the administration.

DUTIES ASSIGNED

The permanent administrator, who will succeed Johnson when the emergency work is completed and the new organization created, would be the mainspring of the new order. Working below him in the self-regulation plan, would be a deputy administrator and the code authority for each group of industries. Upon these latter two designates would fall the burden of enforcing compliance with the codes, handling disputes and carrying on the venture in industrial co-operation. The administrator, under the plan, would step in only when necessary.

To create the industrial board for the bituminous coal industry, Simpson and Richberg today started compiling a list of possibilities for presentation to President Roosevelt. The chief executive will appoint five or eight members of the board as he chooses and the two officials were seeking suggestions from the industry.

Ickes Orders Court Test Of Powers as 'Czar' Of Oil Industry

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—The first court test of NRA's power to enforce its codes was in contemplation today by Secretary Ickes.

Louis Glavis, an Interior Department investigator, is in New York ready to prosecute persons he is convinced have cut prices or are handling oil produced in violation of state allocations.

Meanwhile, the Secretary approved the appointment of between 600 and 700 persons to the regional committees on oil production, marketing, transportation and refining. These will help guide the industry in its effort to stabilize itself.

Yet to be announced are several hundred more persons for various state committees.

Secretary Ickes disclosed few details of his plans for prosecution of oil code violators. He said:

"We are ready to proceed, and I am instructing Mr. Galvis to proceed."

Asked if gasoline dealers who had bought gasoline at cheap rates were guilty of illegal practice in selling such gasoline at low prices, even though it might net them a profit, the secretary said a dealer should be capable of making the "shrewd guess" that such gasoline was made from illegally produced oil and that he was thus selling "bootleg" merchandise.

The duties of the various regional committees were not specified, but it was said they would collect statistics, settle disputes, correlate price data, and suggest production ratios, among other things.

Oil control committees named for regional district No. 1 were:

FORD TO ADOPT 35-HOUR WEEK

DETROIT, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—The Ford Motor Company, now operating on a 40-hour work week, shortly will place its employes on a work-week within the 35-hour week provisions of the NRA automobile code, which Henry Ford has not signed.

Details of the plan for reducing hours for the 50,000 Ford employes—possibly as low as 32 hours a week—are now being worked out by the company. A Ford official said today.

"Mr. Ford intends to conform with the code by working his men an average of 35 hours a week. He does not intend to violate the NRA code."

Retail Price Fixing Studied, Foes Predict 'Consumer Revolt'

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Hugh S. Johnson, the NRA chief, today began his preliminary study of the retail and drug codes to the accompaniment of protests and indorsements from business.

The president of the Pennsylvania Retailers Association and the head of the National Association of Better Business Bureaus urged approval of the master retail code as it was submitted by Arthur D. Whiteside, deputy administrator.

On the other hand, representatives of leading mail order houses and some large retail establishments forecast a "consumers' revolt" if the two codes are made effective.

Johnson was reported as seeking the reaction of the country before going deeply into the charters.

William H. Hager, of Lancaster, Pa., president of the Pennsylvania Retailers' Association, and Harry Van Horn, president of the National Association of Better Business Bureaus, urged approval of the master retail code as submitted.

Hager stressed the importance of retaining in the code the "stop loss" provision under which a merchant could not sell at less than wholesale cost plus 10 per cent.

Hager said this section was designed to protect the retailer from the small minority "who would like to continue their unfair predatory and ruthless underselling practices, unfettered, unhindered, and under the Blue Eagle emblem."

E. M. Schnadig, president of the Mail Order Association of America, said at a meeting held here that the provision that merchants must sell at 10 per cent above the highest wholesale price paid by any store in each marketing area means that the price level would be controlled by the corner store buying in the smallest quantities.

He assailed also the provision in the drug code requiring that goods not be sold at a discount of more than 21 per cent from the manufacturers' list prices. He said:

"These price fixing provisions are utterly uneconomic and unworkable. They will curtail distribution, reduce employment and seriously mitigate against national recovery.

"I have no patience with the suggestion that these price-fixing provisions be approved by a period of 'trial and error.' You may as well suggest that poison be taken to demonstrate the result."

U. S. WILL GIVE CLOTHES, FOOD TO NEEDY

than the cost of the products to the Agriculture Department.

Some of the money thus expended will be returned to the government in the processing taxes now operative. Finally, however, the federal government will bear a considerable portion of the loss.

What quantities of each of the commodities will be acquired has not been determined. It will be some time before the scheme is operating, according to officials at the Agriculture Department. Prices paid will depend on market quotations.

UNIQUE FEATURE

The new move embraces one entirely unique feature. Not only will the government buy cotton under the plan—it will have the cotton processed and clothes manufactured. Through what channels this machinery will operate has not been decided. The President has called for all possible speed.

Hopkins will throw the food and staples into localities where direct relief is needed most. It was pointed out at the White House that mining sections will probably benefit considerably. In many such localities, local and state relief facilities are well nigh exhausted. All benefits under the new plan will be in addition to, and not a substitution for, local and state relief, the President ordered.

Agriculture department chiefs, wrestling with the problem of over-production in almost every commodity, greeted the new plan with hearty approval. Officials in the department conceded that expenditure of $375,000,000 would come nowhere near purchasing all surpluses. They indicated more founds may be thrown into the program if necessary.

Latest figures revealed approximately 3,500,000 families now on relief rolls through the nation, and that relief already afforded is far from adequate. An effort will be made to reach as many of these destitute people as possible under the new program.

President Roosevelt dscribed the program to his aides as one of the most direct blows yet struck at economic maladjustment in the United States.'

ROOSEVELT PLAN TO AID NEEDY

Text of Statement Outlines His Program

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—The text of a statement by Stephen T. Early, one of the President's secretaries, outlining his plan to buy surplus foodstoffs for distribution to the nation's needy, follows:

The President today announced a program to help correct one of the most flagrant maladjustments of American economic well-being. Through his action much of the oversupply of important foodstuffs and staples will be placed in the hands of the destitute unemployed who are living on the short shrift of public unemployment relief.

Following conferences with Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, George N. Peek, agricultural adjustment administrator, and Harry L. Hopkins, federal emergency relief administrator, the President announced that the Agricultural Adjustment Administration is preparing to make further purchases of surpluses for distribution by the Federal Emergency Relief Administration to the unemployed in the various states.

PORK ALLOCATION

The announcement followed the recent allocation by Mr. Hopkins of 100,000,000 pounds of cured pork which had been processed recently from millions of hogs purchased from surpluses by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. The meat will go to the various state relief administrations for distribution to the unemployed on their relief rolls.

Additional products under consideration for similar handling include, among others, beef, dairy and poultry products and products of cotton and cottonseed.

There are approximately 3,500,000 families now on relief rolls throughout the country. It is known that even with recent improvements in relief administration resulting in higher standards of relief, the amounts of food and clothing given the destitute are still inadequate.

On the other hand, in large part, because these millions of potential consumers are not able to purchase a normal amount of commodities, huge surpluses of basic food products are glutting the markets and making their production unprofitable to farmers.

MAJOR OBJECTIVES

By using funds of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, and the nationwide network of state and local relief administrations for distribution, a real effort to bridge the gap between supplies and consumption will be made. In this way two major objectives of the recovery program will be promoted—feeding and clothing the unemployed more adequately and hastening the agricultural recovery.

It was emphasized that the commodities given the unemployed will be in addition to amounts they are now receiving, wherever they are now inadequate, for the purpose of giving them reasonable standards of sustenance. They will add to and not replace items of relief already provided.

In removing the surpluses from the market, carefully applied safeguards will forestall any disturbance of the regular channels of production, processing and distribution.

ECONOMIC PARADOX

The President said he considered the program arranged between the Agricultural Adjustment Administration and the Federal Emergency Relief Administration one of the most direct blows at the economic paradox which had choked farms with an abundance of farm products while many of the unemployed have gone hungry. He has directed the departments concerned to expedite in every possible way their combined attack on the food surplus and hunger problems.

President Hits at Paradox of Want Amid Plenty

While this joint effort is being made to increase domestic consumption of surplus farm products, the Agricultural Adjustment Administration will intensify its program of preventing accumulation of farm surpluses so great that they cannot be consumed, but result only in ruinous prices to farmers, destroying purchasing power and aggravating rural and urban distress.

ROOSEVELT OUT OF N. Y. FIGHT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Reports that the national administration might take a hand in the New York City mayoralty situation were countered at the White House today by word that President Roosevelt was staying out of participation in any local politics.

It was said for the President that he was "giving no approval to any local candidate in any state."

The apparent intent was to discount both the report that he might throw support to the former aldermanic president and one-time acting Mayor, Joseph V. McKee, or that the administration might eventually say a word in behalf of the Tammany city ticket, headed by Mayor O'Brien.

THREE POWERS REACH ARMS ACCORD

PARIS, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—A complete three-power accord among France, Great Britain and Italy on disarmament and arms control was authoritatively said to have been reached today, but the question of penalties still was unfinished.

Norman H. Davis, American disarmament representative, was expected by the French to give general support to the plan, thus making possible a four-power front at the impending Geneva arms conference.

FRENCH PROPOSALS

A meeting of Davis, Foreign Minister Joseph Paul-Boncour, of France, and Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon, of Great Britain, was arranged for this evening.

France's proposals call for:

1—Doubling Germany's army from the present 100,000 to 200,000 and increasing small arms proportionately.

2—Transforming European armies into militias with but few months' service and abolishing professional armies and semi-military groups.

3—A strict control scheme with sanctions against violators of the treaty.

4—Limiting arms to present levels for four or five years, called "a test period for control," during which no armaments would be built.

5—Actual scrapping of heavy guns and tanks at the end of the test period, provided the control plan proves workable.

SEE GERMANY RE-ARMING

ROME, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—While Italian officials study results of disarmament conversations in Paris, the idea seems to be growing among Italians that France must make concessions in order to prevent Germany from rearming.

Italians seem certain that Germany will not agree to the five-year test period in which her armaments are to remain as at present—if France insists on it, this view says, the German reply will be to re-arm, and the Italians ask who can prevent her.

ASK EQUALITY

BERLIN, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—A continental peace on a basis of [illegible] and [illegible] rights, it is authoritatively stated, will be Germany's proposals to what is regarded here as the "fish or cut bait" session of the disarmament conference.

That Germany will not hesitate to leave the conference table if what Germans call "the spirit of the Versailles Treaty" hovers over the discussions has been frequently repeated publicly.

BRITISH VIEWPOINT

LONDON, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—The British government, considerably closer to the American viewpoint on disarmament as a result of the conferences here of United States Ambassador Davis, now appears ready to go far toward meeting the French demand for a trial period of arms supervision.

Great Britain is sympathetic with the American view as expressed by Davis that any disarmament plan is not practical without a demonstration of practicability as the first step.

The British are anxious to avoid any form of control that might have a humiliating aspect for Germany.

LEAGUE OPENS 76TH SESSION

GENEVA, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—The seventy-sixth session of the League of Nations Council began today under the presidency of Dr. Johan Mowinckel, premier of Norway.

It was announced previously that Dr. Raoul A. Amador, Panama's minister to Paris, will preside at the seventy-seventh session which begins early in October after the election of three new council members. Dr. Amador was consul-general in New York for a long time.

The famous glass room of the League building was crowded as the meeting began with prospects of a period of intense activity.

The state of political tension existing in Europe was exemplified as Swiss detectives from many cities began mobilizing to reinforce Geneva police. The purpose was said to be primarily to protect the lives of German delegates.

EVIDENCE IN TAX FRAUD STOLEN, SQUIRE SAYS

Declaring that evidence of the existence of fraudulent tax receipts in the Twenty-fifth Ward had been stolen from his office, Alderman W. G. Headley has postponed disposition in the case of Patrolman Joseph Reindle and Joseph Stackhouse, of 2149 Charles street, who had been arrested on charges of violating the election laws.

Headley has refused to make known the name of the person bringing the information against the two men, and pending further developments, the officer and Stackhouse are at liberty under $2,500 bond each.

OFFICE ENTERED

Headley stated that someone had broken into his office through a window and a perforating stamp removed from his safe. The stamp, Headley declared, is similar to those used in the County Treasurer's office for perforating tax receipts.

Monday night, an investigator from the office of Leo A. Riordan charged before the Registration Commisisoners that there were many fraudulent tax receipts in the Twenty-fifth Ward. The investigator said that there were many receipts in existence which, according to records in the Treasurer's office, had not been purchased.

EVIDENCE USELESS

A further check in the Treasurer's office brought to light the counter foils of the receipts issued, all having been properly stamped and perforated. The investigator then admitted his evidence would be worthless.

Headley is known to have appealed to Riordan to bring the informations against Stackhouse and Reindle, but Riordan told Headley to bring the information himself.

The alleged robbery in Headley's office was blamed on political enemies. Headley was defeated Tuesday for the Republican nomination to succeed himself.

VOTE PUZZLE UP TO BOARD

amines every ballot, checks every vote machine and compares these with the registration lists, no one will ever know how many people voted in the 1933 fall primaries.

Chairman of the Commissioners C. McGovern, wrathful at the confusion, became vigorously descriptive as he addressed the new members of the Returning Board. He told them:

"You got to help us. God knows the election's bad enough as it is. We don't want any more trouble. Work hard, and don't stand around gossiping like old maids."

RAPS ORGANIZATION

McGovern was asked to allow the Republican organization to place 12 observers in the room. He had parcelled his one-third of the appointments to leading members of all factions. To the request he answered:

"To hell with the organization. If we're going to permit all these people in here to watch, we'd better take the thing to Schenley Park."

It was considered possible that many of the confused minds on the election boards would be brought in to explain the incomplete retruns, but this will depend on the County Commissioners.

County Commissioners.

Election Bureau attaches pointed out that changes in the positions of the candidates by complete returns, if ever obtained, would be unlikely. Some checkups revealed their ratios would be maintained.

McGovern added that where the return sheets show discrepancies, the ballot boxes will be opened and examined, but that a complaint of cheating in any district will be ignored unless discrepancies can be shown, or are apparent.

emissary of the kidnapers were contained.

(Editor's Note—The $50,000 paid by Col. Lindbergh consisted of American banknotes of small denominations—$5, $10 and $20, the latter being the largest. A Paris dispatch told of the efforts of the three men to change $1,000, indicating they may have attempted to negotiate the bills in a lot of this amount.)

Some days ago, it was learned, the Belgian prisoner appeared at the bank with the object of changing the money, apparently wishing to obtain Belgian currency.

TRAP IN BANK

Some delay ensued and the Belgian left the institution, in what was reported to be a nervous state. He took the money with him.

Two days ago, the "Polish confederate" came back to the bank bearing the same money. Police were watching for the man, however, and detectives had hidden themselves in the lobby.

As soon as they appeared, the detectives emerged from their hiding places, arresting the Pole and the two other men.

The money in question was immediately subjected to an investigation, and local police came to the conclusion it was part of the Lindbergh ransom. Under questioning in their cells, the Belgian suspect and Kmuler furnished the name of the Dutchman supposed to have handed them the money in Paris.

French police officials were informed of the arrests and efforts were begun to locate the Dutchman.

While reports have been received from time to time of Lindbergh ransom notes being circulated in Europe, these were the first arrests made by European police in this connection.

Paris Probe Credited In Lindy Bill Trap

PARIS, Sept. 22.—(INS.)—The three men arrested in Antwerp charged with attempting to pass Lindbergh kidnap ransom notes were taken into custody on information furnished by the Paris police, International News Service learned today.

The French Secret Service, it was learned, has been engaged in trailing marked Lindbergh notes for the last four months. Police, however, refused all information, saying:

"We cannot afford to compromise success at this stage."

Schwartzkopf Asks Data On Lindy Case Captures

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 22.—(INS.)—Col. H. Norman Schwartzkopf, of the New Jersey state police, who directed the investigation of the Lindbergh kidnaping, was informed by International News Service today of the arrest of three men in Antwerp, charged with passing bills which were part of the ransom money paid to the kidnapers.

He immediately got in touch with the State Department at Washington, asking to be informed on development of the case.

Col. Schwartzkopf's men have been investigating the circulation of bills of the denomination paid by Col. Lindbergh ever since the kidnaping, more than a year and a half ago.

STATE QUIZ ON VOTE MACHINES

chines, but later a second board gave approval on condition that changes in the machines be made.

The local committee is expected to begin at once its investigation. It will seek information from citizens, the County Bureau of Elections and from any other source that will throw light on the breakdown of the machines.

HARRIS STAND

Senator Harris, chairman of the Allegheny County voting machine committee, has stated that the committee is convinced of the practicability and desirability of voting machines. The committee blamed Tuesday's failure to use of "untried" machines. The committee opposed purchase of the Poole decives.

Blaming the breakdown of voting machines at the polls Tuesday on a disposition on the part of the public to do away with the machines, County Commissioner C. C. McGovern today threatened to oppose printing of any emergency ballots for the November election.

M'GOVERN FIRM

McGovern said:

"If the evidence shows that the failure of the machines was due to a disposition on the part of the public to do away with the machines, I'll feel like recommending that no ballots be printed for the November election.

"If no mechanical defects are found I will make that recommendation."

McGovern said he believed that the machines were mechanically correct.

McGovern was informed yesterday that District Attorney Andrew T. Park had taken him to task for the confusion Tuesday, Park's alleged statement being to the effect that McGovern could successfully run a county fair but not an election.

SCORES PARK

To this McGovern answered:

"He (Park) is the last man in the world who should open his 'physog.' There have been lots of dishonest elections held but when we make an attempt to run an honest election he criticizes.

"He has nothing to do with elections except where there are violations of the law. He hasn't done anything about the last election yet, and we turned over hundreds of cases to him."

INDICT BURGESS OF LATROBE IN DOPE CASE

ERIE, Pa., Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Dr. J. E. Peebles, aged burgess of Latrobe, is under indictment by the federal grand jury on charges of violating the narcotics law.

Peebles was arrested recently by government agents who testified at a hearing in Pittsburgh that he sold them narcotics and failed to keep required records of narcotic transactions.

The physician recently successfully resisted an effort to oust him from office because of advanced age. The indictment was returned in Federal Court yesterday.

Yee Haw Sick and Jee Onn, Chinese laundrymen who pleaded guilty to charges of violating the narcotics law, were sentenced to a year and a day in Leavenworth prison.

Indictments returned include:

Edwin S. Hingst, Sewickley, postal violations; Marie Offel and Frank Paul, of Pittsburgh, liquor violations; Wilthia Buford, alias Welthia S. Buford, Coraopolis, violation federal compensation laws; Fred Hartstein, of Mifflin Township, Allegheny County, liquour violation; Daniel Lee Meik and Rose Marie Pavilinko, alias Rose Marie Clark, both of Pittsburgh, counterfeiting; John Gallo, Joe Ford, John Scilliano and Vincent Scilliano, all of Johnstown, stealing funds from the United States Narcotic Bureau.

PINCHOT'S WIFE TALKS IN IOWA

DES MOINES, Ia., Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Mrs. Gifford Pinchot, wife of Pennsylvania's Governor, last night appealed to Iowa farmers to "get together" with labor and help themselves to a "new deal."

"The farmer and the worker have failed to realize their common interest," she told a large crowd of Iowa Farm Union members.

She added:

"That must go. Each must be able to sell to the other that which he produces. Depression has shown us that the thing labor wants most of all is a market and the thing the farmer wants most of all is a market. The best market for labor is the farmer; and the best market for the farmer is labor.

"Nothing could do us so much good in this country as for the farmer and laborer to get together."

BOULDERS FALL ON VILLAGE

PORTSMOUTH, O., Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Four huge boulders rolled off a hillside and upon the nearby village of New Boston yesterday, threatening the lives of residents, tearing off the corner of a house and damaging paved streets and trolley tracks.

The largest of the boulders was estimated by Charles E. Stevenson, Portsmouth city engineer, to weigh 50 tons.

Traffic on the line of the Portsmouth Public Service Company was disrupted.

Joe Frizzell and his family saw the rocks coming and dashed into the back yard as one, estimated to weigh 30 tons, carried away one end of his porch and a corner of the house. Officials said dynamite must be used to remove the boulders. The rocks apparently were loosened by recent rains.

HEIRESS FACES TRAFFIC COURT

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—Saturday night's social calendar will suffer the absence of Mrs. Margot Couzens Chewning, daughter of the Michigan Senator, for the Detroit and Washington woman has made a "date" with the Mayor and police judge of Falls Church, Va., a suburb of the capital.

Mrs. Chewning has been cited before Mayor L. P. Daniel, for causing unnecessary noise with her automobile horn.

Traffic at the town's main intersection was halted to allow fire department apparatus to pass. Impatient motorists honked their horns, and the daughter of Senator James Couzens was one of them.

Town Sergt. Alton Shumate gave Mrs. Chewning a traffic ticket. Then followed great gobs of conversation, reports of which are rather conflicting.

The woman is reported to have called the place a "hick town," and asked the sergeant:

"Do you know who I am?"

The sergeant is reported to have slapped her on the wrist.

LEGION REUNION MAY DEMAND HINES OUSTER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—(AP.)—A quiet drive among some groups of American war veterans for removal of Frank T. Hines, veterans' administrator, will culminate at the national convention of the American Legion in Chicago, October 2 to 5.

A survey of the actions of state Legion conventions, preparatory to the national conclave, yesterday disclosed the move against Hines was one of the major issues to be fought at the Chicago convention, together with a demand for restoration of veterans' benefits cut by the economy act.

The study of state convention actions showed that the demand of ex-service men for cash payment of the bonus, which reached a climax with the nine-to-one favorable vote at last year's Legion convention, had largely abated.

FEW DEMAND BONUS

Only five state conventions have called for cash payment of the bonus, an almost complete survey showed, whereas nearly all have favored in one form or another the four-point program advanced by the legion's national rehabilitation committee for liberalizing the economy law.

This program does not call for repeal of the economy law, but centers upon a demand for restoration of full benefits to service connected cases and free hospitalization of all honorably discharged veterans who are not reasonably able to pay for it.

Legion officials indicated they will carry on their own fight independent of other veterans' organizations, some of which are standing for more liberal plans. The Veterans of Foreign Wars has invited other groups to join in a united stand for repeal of the economy law.

DEMAND HINES QUIT

Four state conventions have acted on resolutions calling for the removal of Hines, assuring its consideration at the national meeting. Two of them asked his removal outright, one adopted a resolution asking for an investigation of his administration and the fourth voted down the removal proposal.

Veteran opposition to Hines centers on the accusation that Hines' recommendations were responsible for what the veterans regard as the "drastic" economy legislation.

It is charged in some veterans' quarters that Hines' cost estimates and other figures in connection with the economy battle before Congress recently were "misleading."

Chicago to Enlist M.P.'s for Duty at Legion Meet

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—They've been designated the "service committee," but they'll probably be "MP's" to the doughboys.

When the American Legion convention gathers here next month 500 military police will be on deck to see that the old army game doesn't flourish too actively.

Hugh Dalvey, of the Sheriff's office, said they would be picked from legionnaires of the city police department, the Sheriff's office and the state highway police force.

They are to wear red overseas caps so the veterans will be able to spot them.

PREPARE CAMPS FOR WINTER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—Employment will be furnished about 45,000 men in the civilian conservation corps camps to be operated in Pennsylvania forests during the winter, according to plans being studied today by Robert Fechner, director of the corps.

The present camps will be continued with the addition of several other areas in the Keystone state. Enrollment of workers will take place during October. On November 1 the camps will be opened under the winter status. Frame barracks and large buildings for indoor recreation will be erected during the next six weeks.

JOBLESS TEACH NIGHT SCHOOLS

By eliminating the use of regular school teachers for night classes, the Board of Education is providing employment for many teachers not heretofore employed. Dr. Ben G. Graham, superintendent of schools, said today that already 333 of the 476 jobless teachers have been employed in the night classes which opened Monday.

In the past teachers regularly employed taught the night classes, receiving additional pay for their services.

Pennsy Prepares For Standard Time

Schedules of Pennsylvania Railroad express trains, effective with the changing of time Sunday, were announced today. Few changes will be made, it was said, as most will be adjusted to standard time on practically the same schedule as at present.

A change in the "Duquesne," daylight express between Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, will be made, the train leaving here at 2:15 p. m. instead of 2 p. m.

It's making people talk!
"higher anti-knock!"
"more power!"
"quicker starting!"

Last week alone, 12,700 people told us

"Your new Gulf gas is a real value"

"Higher anti-knock"..."more power"..."quicker starting"... that is what motorists are telling us about the new and better Good Gulf Gasoline.

They have tried it themselves... and they like it!

In just one week 12,700 of these motorists sat down and wrote letters telling us about their experiences with Gulf's great new motor fuel. And here is what some of them said:

"Made the knock in my motor disappear like a magician's handkerchief!"..."Power? Oh, boy! It takes me up hills like a shot out of a gun"..."Fired at the first touch of the starter" and "As smooth a pick-up as you ever saw"...That's what they are saying about Gulf's latest and greatest achievement...That new and better Good Gulf Gasoline!

Try it today. You'll get more power, more miles and more value for your money!...Stop where you see the "sign of the Orange Disc."

CHICKEN-COOP HOME OF 10 STIRS FIGHT

The chicken-coop home of a destitute family of 10 figures in an injunction suit now pending in Common Pleas Court.

Mr. and Mrs. Emanuel Gonzales want to live in their chicken-coop in Harmening street, Baldwin Township. The Baldwin Township Commissioners, however, are of another mind and want to evict them for violating the zoning ordinances, with which the shack doesn't comply.

LOST HOME

Gonzales—a Mexican by birth—formerly owned a house and lot adjacent to that on which he and his family now live. The depression came along and he lost it through foreclosure. He purchased the lot he now uses and converted the chicken-coop into a two-room home for his family.

The eight children range from 16 months to 19 years in age.

Three beds and a cot provide sleeping facilities.

Welfare workers report the family a problem case and say the family can't be persuaded to move elsewhere.

One worker said:

"They're no worse off than a number of families in Allegheny County. It's just that Township Commissioner W. E. Armstrong wants to get this family and another like it over the township line into another jurisdiction. He's out to clean up Baldwin Township."

UPHOLDS ACTION

Armstrong said:

"We must pay attention to the moral protest of people in the community and we're obliged to take some action. While we're in complete sympathy with anybody in circumstances such as these, we must protect the interests of the community rather than of individuals.

"Their condition of living is in direct conflict with the building code and zoning laws. The original protest of the neighbors was made in June, 1932. We gave them until the following June to get out, and the family agreed."

Miss Eleanor Hanson, of the Family Society, said:

"We have put in much intensive work on the case and if they're evicted, I suppose we'll just have to care for them. But I don't see how their condition, in these times, could be much bettered by their having to move. It's a trying problem for everyone concerned."

JAPAN WARNED BY SOVIET

MOSCOW, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—The Soviet government made a sharp protest today against Japan's alleged intention to violate [illegible] treaty rights in the management of the Chinese Eastern Railway.

The specific charges were:

That Manchurian authorities, under the direction of the Japanese government, "intend rudely to violate the rights of the Soviet manager of the railway, making him dependent on a Manchurian assistant.

"At the same time Manchurian authorities under the direction of Japanese agents are planning a series of police measures against Soviet employes of the railway.

"The Soviet government accordingly warns that a realization of such measures will be regarded as a violation of treaty obligations and as an inadmissible attempt to seize the railway."

Negotiations for the sale of the C. E. R. by Russia to Manchukuo were started in Tokio several months ago.

Japs Order Chinese General From Field

PEIPING, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—The Japanese army sent an ultimatum today to Gen. Fang Chen Wu, an "irregular" commander in Chahar Province, to withdraw his 1,000 followers from Haiju, within the demilitarized zone north of Peiping.

Woman Educator Believed Drowned

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Missing nearly 24 hours, Mrs. Mabel Smith Douglas, 54, former dean of the New Jersey College for Women, today was believed by state police to have been drowned in Lake Placid.

A rowboat from Onondaga Camp, which she owns, was found empty near Pulpit Rock, one of the deepest parts of the lake.

Busch, Brewer, To Marry Again

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—August A. Busch, Jr., vice president and general manager of Anheuser-Busch, Inc., and Mrs. Elizabeth O. Dozier, of St. Louis, obtained a marriage license today.

Busch gave his age as 34 years and his home as St. Louis. His first wife died in 1929.

Mail Plane Down In Channel Safe

SOUTHAMPTON, England, Sept. 22.—(INS.)—Forced down by headwinds and gasoline shortage in the English Channel, a mail plane of the liner Bremen arrived here early this afternoon after refueling.

Widespread search had been made for the craft when it failed to arrive on schedule.

'Finger' on Her

PEGGY ANN LANDON

GOV. LANDON KEEPS GUARD

TOPEKA, Kan., Sept. 22.—(AP.)—The family of Gov. Alf M. Landon remained under heavy guard today following the Kansas Chief Executive's revelation that his 16-year-old daughter, Peggy Anne, had been marked for kidnaping in a plot to liberate members of the notorious Bailey-Underhill gang from the State Penitentiary at Lansing.

While her elders took precautions, such as placing a guard armed with riot guns about the Governor's mansion, Peggy Anne was nonchalant about the threat of abduction. She said:

"Oh boy! Wouldn't that be a lot of fun!"

Harvey Bailey, leader with Wilbur Underhill in the escape of 11 convicts from the Kansas prison last Memorial Day, is on trial at Oklahoma City for the $200,000 ransom kidnaping of Charles F. Urschel.

OHIO ASSEMBLY ENDS IN ROW

International News Service.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 22.—In scenes of mutiny and near riot, while fists were brandished and cries of "gag rule!" were shouted at Speaker Frank Cave, the special session of the Legislature came to a wild and stormy end early today without a penny being raised for state-aid schools.

Open rebellion, climaxed by a "rump session," broke out against Cave in the House when he refused to allow debate or roll-call on a Senate resolution to adjourn, and then declared the resolution passed before the startled legislators knew it had been put to a vote.

The adjournment means that state-aid schools are destined to operate "on faith and credit" for the remainder of 1933.

SON OF CLERIC BURIED HERE

Funeral services are being held this afternoon for Norman Wilfred Broening, 24, who died Wednesday, at the home of his parents, the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. George H. Broening, of 2834 Shady avenue. His grandfather was the Rev. Andrew Scott, of Wilkes-Barre, and the young man, like his father and grandfather, had planned to enter the ministry.

Born in Ashley, Pa., he had attended Newark Academy and Schenley High School and this fall intended to begin his study for the ministry. His father was formerly pastor of the Greenfield Presbyterian Church.

Dr. Louis H. Evans of the South Presbyterian Church, Negley avenue, is conducting the funeral service.

WAR HERO GETS FORD JOB

DETROIT, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Edgar M. Halyburton, whose defiance of the enemy as the first Yankee captive during the World War, was perpetuated in a statue and on liberty loan posters, has been mustered out of the army of the unemployed.

Out of a job since he lost his barber shop during the banking crisis here last spring, he will go to work Monday on one of the 5,000 jobs the Ford Motor Company has offered Detroit war veterans with good records.

A German camera snapped Sergt. Halyburton as, with clenched fists, he shouted to his captors, "Shoot and be damned." The picture created a sensation when it was smuggled out of Germany to the United States.

CHILD POISONED SEEKING 'CANDY'

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa., Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Four-year-old Louise Holdsworth wanted some candy.

She had seen her grandmother frequently take what appeared to be candy from the drawer of a sewing machine. When no one was looking, she stole to the drawer and helped herself.

The child died today of an overdose of medicine.

She had taken pills her grandmother used for a heart ailment.

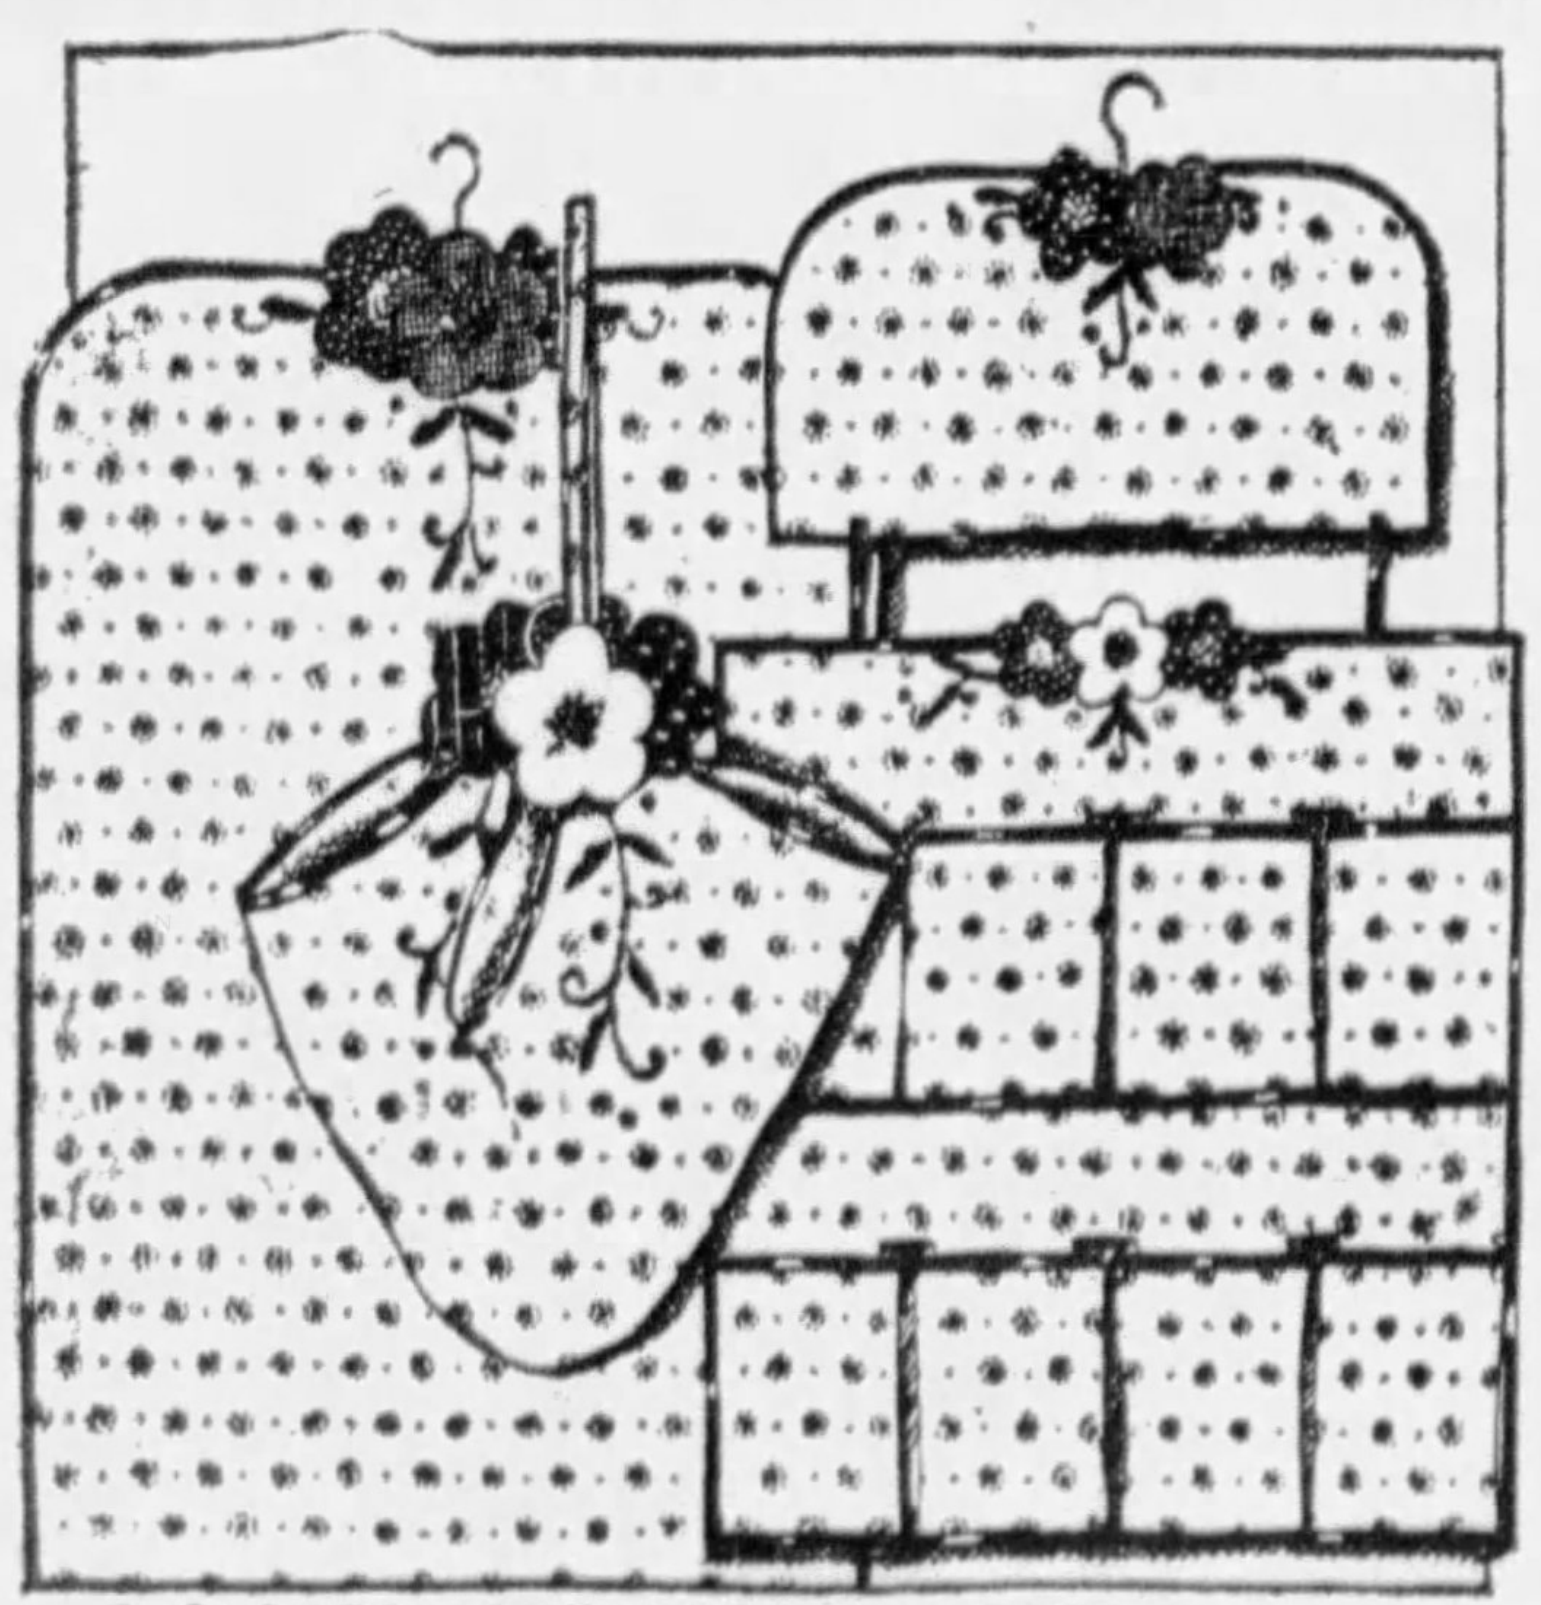
DES MOINES, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Seven weeks ago Pete Norman finished a 10-year term for a holdup. He arrived in Des Moines recently with a bright new topcoat. A holdup man accosted Pete, and took the coat. Pete did not report the affair to police.

DRESS UP YOUR CLOSETS



CLOSET ACCESSORIES PATTERN 504

By LAURA WHEELER

In the next weeks, housewives will be busy getting their homes in order for the winter. The closets are usually the first point of attack. The fastidious housewife will welcome these accessories that will aid her in keeping closets in order and a delight to look at as well. There is the ever necessary clothes bag—the practical hanger-cover—a laundry bag easy to make and to launder—a shoe bag. Each article is decorated with flowers in different scraps of material to which simple embroidered leaf sprays are added. The flowers are made from a flower pattern and are two pieces of material sewn together with an embroidered center as a finishing touch. The thrifty housewife will not only want these articles for her own home, but will find them ideal for that not-so-distant bazar. Pattern 504 comes to you with a transfer pattern of the flowers and leaf sprays, and detailed directions and yardages for making each article.

Send 10c for this pattern to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth avenue, New York City.

Democrat Lineup In Mt. Lebanon Nearly Perfect

Mt. Lebanon Democrats had an almost perfect record in protecting their primary, according to official returns. For the 39 offices for which nominations were made, only one Republican, Robert Foley, candidate for commissioner in the Fourth Ward, broke through. He won nominations in both parties.

Attorney Andrew G. Smith, who was a candidate for nomination to Common Pleas Court, acted as chairman of the Mt. Lebanon Democratic organization which for the first time functioned actively.

Milk Bottle Falls Out Window on Baby

OAKLAND, Cal., Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Little Nancy Shepard, 15 months, didn't fall out of a window, but she received such a bump that hospital attention was necessary. She sat under the window and the milk bottle fell out.

NORTH DAKOTA VOTES ON BEER

FARGO, N. D., Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Beer, Sunday motion pictures and a sales tax were high lights before voters in a special election throughout North Dakota today.

One measure being voted on would permit sale of 3.2 per cent beer in this state, which has been bone dry since 1889, when North Dakota was admitted to the Union. If adopted, it would become effective October 22 and would impose a tax of one-half cent a pint. A state beer commissioner would enforce the law and issue licenses.

Another measure on today's ballot provides for a 2 per cent sales tax, while a third would permit moving pictures and other theatrical performances to be held on Sunday. Such performances have been banned by law since 1911.

BUTTONS FINDS REAL JOY OF GIVING

There is one thing in particular that "Buttons," has discovered—the real joy of giving. As he makes his rounds every day distributing $15 in cash the Sun-Telegraph is awarding to readers to start them on the "Spend a Dollar . . . Make a Job . . . Buy in September and Save" campaign, he gets a happy reception wherever he rings a doorbell.

"Buttons"

He doesn't have to tell the person who answers the ring that he is "Buttons"—his natty pageboy uniform indicates his name and the purpose of his call. Everybody seems to be looking for "Buttons" and everybody will be glad to know that he is going to distribute a lot more money before he quits his part of the recovery campaign in Pittsburgh.

The best way to find out whether or not "Buttons" is going to ring your doorbell and hand you some real cash is to watch for your name in the daily list on the Want Ad pages of the Sun-Telegraph. If you have been "paged" the Sun-Telegraph pageboy will make the welcome call at your home.

"Buttons" distributes $15 for the Sun-Telegraph every day, one $5 award and 10 awards of $1. You may get the thrill of finding your name in the Sun-Telegraph today. Take a look and see. If not today, it may be there tomorrow or the next day.

TROLLEY KILLS SCHOOL GIRL

Just a month from the day Louis L. Kaufman, Sun-Telegraph Globe Trotter, had wished her a happy eighteenth birthday over the radio, Margaret Barr, taking a short cut in order to get to school earlier, was struck and fatally injured by an outbound Charleroi interurban street car, a short distance from her home at Hillcrest. She died soon afterward in the South Side Hospital.

The girl, a sophomore in Bethel High School, was one of four Hillcrest girls who had to walk the two miles to school since the bus only carried children under 16. Yesterday, thinking she would shorten the distance, she took a short cut over the tracks which eliminated about a quarter of a mile of walking. It was here that she was hit.

According to Principal Buck of the Bethel High School, Margaret was unusually punctual in attending classes and had a perfect attendance last year.

She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Barr, of Hillcrest.

MRS. IAN KEITH

WIFE OF ACTOR FEARS NAZI IRE

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—The proposal of Chancellor Adolf Hitler's film organization to recall motion picture notables, Mrs. Ian Keith, wife of the actor, said last night, is an attempt to keep the German movie industry from collapse.

Mrs. Keith, who as Fern Andra was a star in German films and in the theater, is an American citizen and was born in the little town of Watseka, Ill.

Despite this, she said, she recently was approached in New York by Nazi agents and asked to return to Germany. This she refused to do and now she fears her property there, a film studio, a theater and a home, may be confiscated by the government.

Mrs. Keith said:

"When Chancellor Hitler restricted activities of Jews in Germany, the film business suffered. New directors, new actors, new officials had to be found. Now it apparently is Hitler's idea to recall players and directors in an attempt to bolster the industry."

Fund Being Raised For War Mothers

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Asserting no mother who gave a son to war service should ever be dependent on public charity, the national executive committee of the American War Mothers organization went into session here today to develop a plan for an endowment fund to meet such situations.

The committee hoped to find a way to raise sufficient money to endow the two homes they already own in order to take care of dependent war mothers. One home is in Washington, and the other in Denver.

IT'S EASY TO REDUCE THE WELCH WAY!

Would you like to recover your slender, girlish figure? By a simple, natural reducing plan that will actually make you feel better than you've felt in years?

Scientists now insist that Welch's Certified-Pure, Pasteurized Grape Juice should be on every reducing or weight-control diet, because its non-fattening grape sugar forces the body to burn up its fat. It satisfies that craving for sweets and rich, fattening foods. And when taken in connection with low-calory diet, it will enable you—if overweight—to get rid of that ugly fat in the safest, most pleasant way you could imagine.

Welch's contains minerals vital to one's health. It helps make red blood. It contains more Vitamin B than orange juice. It cleanses the entire system. People everywhere report that after following the Welch way to weight reduction they feel more vigorous and alert than they had felt in years.

Start today. Drink a glass of Welch's with and between low-calory meals, and before retiring. Welch's may be diluted with one-third water. Continue—and experience the wonderful difference.

Send for booklet, "Keeping Your Weight Down," yours free for the asking.

If You Have Children

Welch has published another booklet, called "Red-Blooded Children." It describes a wonderful method of building up run-down youngsters. If you will send your name and address to The Welch Grape Juice Co., Dept. 1625, Westfield, N. Y., you will receive either or both of these booklets FREE.

IMPORTANT: Insist on Welch's. It is the exclusive Welch Process that retains in the bottled juice the healthful properties of ripe grapes so essential to the system. Only Welch's is Certified Pure and Pasteurized. It contains no adulterants, no synthetic flavors, no artificial coloring, no preservatives, no water, and above all, no tartaric acid crystals. It is selling at the lowest price in 35 years, and is even cheaper by the case. Send for free booklet TODAY.

Radio Clings To Hopes in News Field

By AIRCASTER

Possibly long association with radio broadcasting has made me old-fashioned and a bit gullible. I have gone along all these years believing benignly that the relationship between the radio stations and the press were not only pleasant but durable and based on a pretty, if tacit friendship.

I refused to allow my simple faith in this Utopian situation to be shaken when, some months ago, the radio executives worked up an ambition to become reporters and began borrowing and swiping news from the established press services, and broadcasting it in advance of the first editions.

I attributed this to boyish enthusiasm, although I knew it wasn't doing my beloved profession any good. I thought, when the press suddenly decided to prohibit the release of news bulletins to the networks, the radio fellows would laugh it all off and go back to their original and somewhat important job of entertaining the public.

NBC Ethics

It was very nice indeed, as all the gentlemen of the press thought and said, when, just a few days ago, the NBC turned away a sponsor because he wanted to put on a series of programs based on news flashes. It was a sweet and cordial gesture.

The newspapers had been kind to radio. They have and still give large gobs of space daily to the industry. They exploit the stars of the air and the chains that breed them. It was to be expected that the radio gentlemen would appreciate this and strive to avoid any deliberate competition aside from the wooing of legitimate advertisers.

CBS Scheme

But at the local CBS offices, it was another matter, and still is. Imagine my surprise, and the shock of it, when just recently I discovered that CBS was quietly setting up its own news-gathering agency for the purpose of selling such news flash programs to the same sponsor, which NBC rejected, and others.

Of course, such programs and such news-collecting organizations would do no particular harm to newspapers. But one always remembers that there is such a thing as ethics to be considered. The radio never can hope to duplicate journalistic service.

It is physically impossible, for instance, for a radio outlet to waft the entire contents of a newspaper within the limits of a broadcasting day.

Subtle Slam

Thus, while I was still clutching at my simple faith, and figuring that the head men of CBS were only human and prone to error, and eventually would sense the futility of their new enterprise, I was virtually floored when I listened to the latest of the Columbia executive messages Tuesday night.

In his smooth way, the announcers read a script which, as I understood it, was aimed at belittling other forms of reporting than radio. He pointed out with calm confidence that in the beginning of things, man had found it easier to listen than to read. Cold type, as one might say, lacked power and emphasis and thrills.

Globe-Trotting

—By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN—

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

An observer who has been attending several of the meetings of the striking cleaners and dyers wonders why their difficulties were not smoothed over long before this.

Outside the meeting various groups congregated and discussed the NRA, the coal code, the gold standard and inflation. Unquestionably, these groups solved all of these problems facing the national government. The cleaners and dyers problems are still unsolved.

Vindication, sweet vindication. No more remorse. No more regrets. Self-confidence restored. Courage returned. All because I don't have to feel badly any more about mixing the recipes and advising vinegar for biscuits.

Mrs. C. A. Boone, Turtle Creek, says she always uses vinegar for her doughnuts. She pours it into the lard so the doughnuts will not soak up the grease. It makes them light and fluffy. A teaspoonful of vinegar for every pound or two of lard, in case you want to risk my household advice again.

Pick and Pat have plenty of minstrel entertainment ready for their quarter-hour show at 8:30.

Dr. Springer is moved back again to 8:45 for his "Forum" broadcast.

ALL-AMERICA KICKOFF -:- Christy Walsh Famous Coaches -:- ON NETWORK

Big Football Broadcast Tonight

Football hits the air in a big way tonight, when the All-America Football Show makes the kickoff in its new fall series.

The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph's galaxy of gridiron experts who comprise the All-America Board of Football, headed by Christy Walsh inaugurate the new season over a nationwide CBS-WJAS hookup at 9:30.

Tonight, in the first show, Walsh interviews the wisecracking Jimmy Crowley, new football boss at Fordham, and most celebrated of Notre Dame's Four Horsemen. On the same program, Walsh picks up five other football celebrities in widely separated parts of the country, each pointing out gridiron highlights in his respective sector—Howard Jones, Southern California; Dan McGuigan, Vanderbilt; Hunk Anderson, Notre Dame; Harry Kipke, Michigan, and Andy Kerr, of Colgate.

Jones, Kipke and Kerr went through last season without a loss, and speak as champions. Anderson and McGuigan sound off their hopes for this year.

The series of broadcasts will include, in addition to interviews with the country's most famous coaches and stars, a dramatization of the outstanding game played the Saturday before, and stirring college medleys.

Duquesne University coaches, Joe Bach, Buff Donnelli, Harry Sullivan, Ben Pawlina and Lou Skender, (if the Dukes don't win it won't be for lack of 'em), are heard in Jimmy Murray's Football Forum tonight, over WJAS at 8. The program comes direct from the Forbes Field dressing rooms, "Where," as Jimmy puts it, "the Dukes meet West Virginia Wesleyan."

Dragonette

Beethoven's "Moonlight Sonata" has been specially arranged for presentation by Jessica Dragonette, Fred Hufsmith, the Cavaliers and Rosario Bourdon's orchestra tonight, over WCAE at 8; "Carme," by de Curits, and "Hushed Is the Song of the Nightingale" are among Miss Dragonette's solo numbers.

CLUB SUPPORTS HEARST VIEWS ON HIGHWAYS

The highway committee of the Pittsburgh Motor Club today lauded William Randolph Hearst's recent statement asking federal and state governments to build several up-to-date trans-continental motor highways.

The club's road group said 1933 automobiles are many years in advance of the average highway now provided for their operation, and that the general progress of American motoring is hindered by the lack of adequate high-type, extra-width thoroughfares. The club declared:

"Pennsylvania and the Pittsburgh district in particular would derive considerable benefit from a modern trans-continental road. City streets and boulevards would be relieved of the congestion which through traffic brings, and local motorists would have the advantage of a high speed highway from the east border to the west.

"Pennsylvania now has less than 10 miles of extra-width, high-type roads on its state system. It is time that the main roads get a new deal."

"Those Shirts can't be mended Any More!"

This is the thirteenth illustrated editorial—of a series now appearing in the Hearst Newspapers—on the importance of the Buy Now movement as a contribution to National Recovery.

It's time to stop False Economies . . . start buying Now the things you need!

ONCE THIS MAN WOULDN'T have worn a shirt a single day after the first thread broke. Once his dresser drawer was stocked with good linen—always in good condition.

Then he got panicky. "Playing poor" became fashionable. He preached economy to his wife and all the time he had extra money he wasn't spending.

At last his wife has objected. She has seen things in a new light. She's through with pinching and scraping when they can afford to buy new things.

And she is right. For here's what this man doesn't realize. When he stopped buying shirts as often as usual—his haberdasher had to stop ordering shirts in as big volume as usual.

When the manufacturer didn't get orders from the retailer—he gave fewer orders to the mill for cloth. And all three of them—haberdasher, shirt maker, cloth weaver—finally had to lay off men.

There wasn't enough buying to keep them busy.

That's the situation the Recovery program has set out to change. It began by talking to the manufacturers and the merchants—all the businesses of the country.

It asked them to shorten hours, add help, fix wages at a definite level. That, said the Government, would create new buyers. New buyers would stimulate business. New business meant more money in circulation and a return to normal business volume.

BUT YOU CAN see the catch. It all depends on buying. Unless people buy shirts, how is the haberdasher going to pay his new clerks? How is the shirt maker going to meet his bigger pay roll? How is the weaver going to keep his re-employed workers on the job?

The answer is—they can't—IF YOU FAIL THEM!

But—if you begin to buy—if you get back to normal in your spending for things you can afford—the road to recovery is clear and certain.

NRA
MEMBER

WE DO OUR PART

That's one reason we say BUY NOW! That's the big nation-wide reason for our BUY IN SEPTEMBER drive.

But there is another reason. YOU benefit as much as anyone from buying RIGHT NOW. You get new things to enjoy—new shirts, new shoes, new radios and cars and furniture—for money that isn't doing you any good lying idle.

You get new satisfaction out of life—with money that in all probability will buy a lot less in a few months than it does today.

For either of these reasons, then—buy in September. Be patriotic or be selfish. Buy to help the President—buy to help yourself. Actually you will be doing both. Your dollars have the power to bring business back to normal.

BUT BUY—AND BUY NOW! That's the road, the quick road, to true National Recovery!

Durant Surprised By Crelliman While At Gertie's Place

(Republished from Cosmopolitan Magazine and starting today at Loew's Penn Theater, a Cosmopolitan Production made by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.)

CHAPTER XIV.

"I thought of that. I told the man that trailed you to see that someone watched out for Waxted. That's why you weren't followed this morning. He hung around your place to look after her. I think she'd better stay where she is."

"We'd arranged that," said Durant. "I'm going to her apartment now to get her things. But good God, Tony, this sort of thing can't go on!"

"What do you want me to do? I'll take a chance and have Crelliman rubbed out today if you say so."

Durant shook his head. "That wouldn't make it any better for Siddall, and I've got to think of him."

"And of Miss Leonard," suggested Tony. "Say, it wouldn't look so good to her, Waxted's living with you."

"Tell me something else to brighten the summer morning for me," said Durant dryly. "I think I'll send Miss Waxted out of town."

"You'd better go yourself," said Tony.

Durant shook his head again. "I'll leave town when Crelliman's arrested, charged with Montagne's murder."

"You'll have a nice long beard," said Gazotti.

"Maybe so. But I got you off when it didn't look good."

"You was only bucking the police then, Mr. Durant. Now, you're bucking a big shot."

"Which makes it all the gayer," said Durant.

"Where are you going now?" asked the gangster.

"To get Miss Waxted's things."

"And I'll be seeing you?" asked Tony.

Willing to Help

Durant shrugged. "I suppose so," he sighed. "This is a tough case, Tony."

"It'll get tougher," said Tony. "If I were you I'd let this Siddall guy fry. It may improve your health to keep out of it."

Durant glared at him in sudden anger. "You wouldn't cross me, would you? If I thought you would I'd think up a frame for you that would stick, Tony."

Gazotti grinned. "And I'll bet you could dope up a beaut." Then his smile faded. "You're the only person in the world I'll never double-cross. Only, with the case they've got against Sid-

Synopsis

Jackson Durant, young lawyer, has alienated his society friends and lost his fiancee, Sue Leonard, because of his success as the "mouthpiece" who won the acquittal of the notorious Tony Gazotti. Miss Leonard then becomes engaged to Tom Siddall, youthful broker. Shortly afterwards Siddall is arrested, charged with the murder of Mimi Montagne, who was shot dead on the terrace of a penthouse owned by Jim Crelliman. Sue begs Durant to get busy in Siddall's behalf. Durant believes the broker is innocent and secures the aid of Gazotti, who introduces him to Gertie Waxted, closest friend of the murdered entertainer. The lawyer takes Gertie to his apartment for questioning. She agrees to help Siddall's defense. Durant borrows her ring and visits the pawnshop of Levitoff, pawnbroker, who told police he sold a gun to Siddall. Durant sees Gazotti who tells him that Levitoff was shot to death shortly after the lawyer left the pawnshop. Durant is worried; he realizes Gertie Waxted must be in great danger.

SCHOOL LOOTING CHARGE AIRED

SCRANTON, Pa., Sept. 22.—(AP.)—A grand jury investigation of School Director James W. Flannagan's charge that "a million dollars has been stolen from the school district" ended yesterday.

Directors Frank McGovern and William C. Bruning were directors quizzed by the jurors. After hearing them, it was announced that no additional witnesses would be examined.

The day's proceedings were enlivened by a statement from Flannagan in which he took exception to an additional charge to the jury by President Judge E. C. Newcomb, who ordered the investigation. The court said the jury has no authority to make a recommendation for an audit.

Not like any other cigarette
Chesterfield

The United States Government granted Liggett & Myers Tobacco Company the right to use "Chesterfield" for cigarettes

THIS means that the Chesterfield formula—that is, the leaf and the manufacturing formula—is different from that of other cigarettes.

For a cigarette to be milder and to taste better, it has to have in it ripe, mild, mellow tobacco, and the right quantity of the right kinds of Turkish tobacco. Then the cigarette has to be made right.

You can prove for yourself that Chesterfields are not like other cigarettes. They're milder . . . they taste better.

PLEA FOR U. S. TO MEET COST OF FLOOD CONTROL BACKED

FRIENDS FETE BISHOP HAYES AT RECEPTION

Parishioners Wish Him God-Speed and Present Purse

Bishop Ralph Leo Hayes, first native Pittsburgher to be elevated into the Roman Catholic hierarchy, today turned his eyes toward the West. In Helena, Mont., two weeks hence, he will be installed as its fourth bishop.

To Helena will go with him, Bishop Hugh C. Boyle, who yesterday was consecrator at ceremonies in St. Paul's Cathedral.

And helping him on his way will be a purse, presented last night by the Rev. James O'D. Hanlon, who, representing parishioners and friends in Beechview and the South Hills, wished him god-speed.

PUBLIC RECEPTION

At a public reception last night in the South Hills High School auditorium, these friends and parishioners gathered. Bishop Hayes thanked them, and Bishop Boyle and others spoke. As Father Hayes, the new bishop served as pastor of St. Catherine's Church, Beechview, for a number of years.

During the afternoon, Bishop Hayes was honor guest at a dinner at which more than a score of bishops and archbishops and 600 priests from Western Pennsylvania and dioceses scattered over this country attended. Speakers were Bishop Bernard J. Mahoney, of Sioux Falls, Ia.; Bishop Boyle and the Very Rev. Joseph M. Gilmore, chancellor of the Helena diocese. Bishop Hayes responded to their toasts. The Rev. Paul E. Campbell, superintendent of parish schools, was toastmaster.

PAEAN OF PRAISE

The consecration by Bishop Boyle and co-consecrators, Bishop A. J. Smith, of Nashville, and Bishop J. A. Griffin, of Springfield, Ill., took place in the cathedral shortly after 11 a. m.

Preceding it, a procession of altar boys, priests, and monks and bishops, among them two archbishops, moved from the Synod Hall on Craig street to the main entrance of the cathedral. The huge bells awakened the Oakland district to the ceremonial, and inside an augmented choir of 40 men and 20 boys sang—first a processional, then an old Pigani mass, and finally, that historic paean of praise to Christ—the Te Deum.

The music was directed by Father Carlos Rossini, who made special arrangements for the day.

PLEDGES LOYALTY

The consecration itself occurred shortly after mass began. Prior to this, the bishop-elect was subjected to a catechism, in which he pledged his loyalty to the church and the line of Peter. Symbol of humility, he prostrated himself before the altar while priests and choir sang the Litany, and then, kneeling before the three bishops, he felt the Book of Gospels touch his neck, and the six hands on his head.

Hardly had the organ tones died away, and the Litany over, than the consecrator pronounced, in Latin, "Receive ye the Holy Ghost." Then a chaplain bound the new bishop's head with a cloth, and the ceremonies continued.

CEREMONY ENDS

During the course of it, the new bishop was given the miter and crozier, the last the shepherd-like staff; the episcopal ring and the gloves, the kiss of peace, two barrels of wine, two loaves of bread and two torches. The little barrels were decorated with the coat of arms of Bishop Boyle and the new bishop.

After the mass, Bishop Hayes walked down the aisle, filled with priests, nuns and laymen, to the main entrance of the church, where he blessed the hundreds who waited outside to see him.

MURRAY CALLS ONE-MAN ARMY

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—In a natty new fall suit, Charles F. Barrett, adjutant general, sallied forth yesterday as a one-man army to halt drilling for oil within 2,400 feet of the executive mansion.

Gov. W. H. Murray called the adjutant general to active service in a proclamation pointing out that the Russell Petroleum Company was threatening to violate his executive order of last year prohibiting drilling within a mile radius of the capitol.

At the Army location he visited, however, workmen refused to accept service of the Governor's order from Barrett, 72, and a trooper since Spanish-American War days.

The Adjutant General was baffled only momentarily. He summoned two squads of army National Guardsmen and marched them to the well. The workmen then dropped their picks and shovels and Barrett established a four-man patrol.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Sept. 22.
To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Put a tax on the New York Stock Exchange, so they say they are going to move to New Jersey.

Will Rogers

There is no industry that could move easier. All they have to do is change their telephone number, pick up the blackboard, and tell the loafers where to meet tomorrow. But those old Jersey politicians are not far behind the Tammany ones. The minute they see what an easy "racket" it is, they will be there with the tax too. Wouldn't it be wonderful if a man could move his farm, or house when the tax comes?

Yours, WILL.

Find the Broker, Latest Game in Stock Market

-By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER-

If the New York brokers take the street and the curb to Jersey we can still park by the fireplug.

The margineers are going to cross the wide Hudson where so many investors only got half-way.

The exodus of the stock magicians complicates the financial jig-saw. In addition to figuring which way the market is going to go we also have to guess where the brokers are.

It all started when Mayor O'Brien promised a Manhattan tax on every share sold, bought, borrowed or washed. Wall street regarded that offensive sortie as unfair to organized clipping.

The migration to Jersey may develop a wanderlust and the desire to visit other fair hamlets and smiling villages. We can assure the brokers that there are many people in many towns who would be glad to see a broker and shake the hand that shook them.

VETS HURL NEW DEFI IN BLUE LAW WAR

Another Sunday Show Planned Despite Arrest of 5

The Veterans of Foreign Wars of Wilkinsburg, whose Sunday night shows enlivened the closing days of Wilkinsburg's primary election and resulted in the arrest of five employes of the Rowland Theater, today had announced another show Sunday.

And Acting Burgess John H. Rhodes doesn't know what he will do about it. He said he will have to consult the borough solicitor.

Rhodes was opposed in the primary for the Republican nomination for Burgess by William P. Yocum, former commander of the Veterans, who charged the arrests of the theater employes as "politics."

Yocum was beaten by the Republicans, but won the Democratic nomination.

The five theater employes, headed by Manager Richard Brown, were arraigned yesterday before Justice of the Peace George B. Shields, who said he would reserve decision until next week. The accused were charged with violating the blue laws of 1794.

MAJOR BROWN'S REPORT TO BE OPPOSED

Gen. Ashburn, Here for Talk, Upholds Views Of Pittsburghers

Contending that waterway improvements are a national problem, Maj. Gen. T. Q. Ashburn, president of the Inland Waterways Corporation, today supported leaders here in their proposal that the entire cost of the proposed flood control reservoir system in the Allegheny and Monongahela watershed should be borne by the federal government.

While Mayor John S. Herron, president of the Tri-State Authority, and George S. Davison, president of the Flood Commission of Pittsburgh, today asked for a public hearing on the project, Ashburn pointed out the steps already taken towards establishing codes for all waterway carriers which will lead to a new era in river transportation.

WAIVER URGED

Gen. Ashburn is here to address the Traffic and Transportation Association of Pittsburgh tonight in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium. Commenting on the recommendation of Maj. Gen. Lytle Brown, chief of engineers, United States Army, to the Public Works Administration that a portion of the cost be assumed by local communities, Ashburn said:

"It is the usual policy to have communities join in improvement costs. However under present economic conditions and when the government has money for a public works program, it seems to me that it should waive the requirement of community support."

The possibility of a code to govern the common, private and contract carriers on waterways is favorable, Ashburn said. A committee was named yesterday at a meeting in Washington, which will confer with a similar committee of all railroad interests. Efforts will be made to establish a rate scale which will prevent price cutting and will co-ordinate with rail rates while at the same time provide the cheaper transportation expected on rivers. Under the proposed plans, Ashburn said, the Interstate Commerce Commission would control waterway carriers and restrain competition such as in railroad transportation.

OPPOSE BROWN PLAN

The backers of the watershed improvements "take unanimous exception" to Brown's recommendation. Expressing the viewpoint of communities to be benefitted in a letter to Secretary Harold L. Ickes, chairman of the public works special board, Mayor Herron said:

"If a hearing is granted, one of the largest delegations ever to appear in Washington from the Mid-West will attend and present the case for more than 100 cities and towns whose mayors and burgesses recently formed the Tri-State Authority at a conference in Pittsburgh."

Pointing out that the expenditure would "bring a real and immediate prosperity to the whole region," Davison declared:

"The job is practically ready for pick and shovel. It will give employment to 30,000 men for a year, require large quantities of local construction materials and cost above $51,000,000. The conservative estimates of any engineers place the benefits at nearly $10,000,000 more than the cost."

U.S. Allots Funds for Locks In Ohio, Kanawha Rivers

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—The War Department has ordered expenditure of $6,015,000 recently allotted by the Public Works Administration for the Kanawha and Ohio rivers, upon four huge masonry navigation locks, two on each river.

Twin navigation locks, 56 feet by 360 feet, would be built in the Kanawha River, near Winfield, W. Va. Locks 110 feet by 360 feet and 110 feet by 600 feet would be constructed in the Ohio River near Gallipolis, O.

The War Department said new dams would be constructed at a later date to replace three low dams on the Ohio River and six low dams on the Kanawha River, providing nine-foot navigation when the work is completed.

Bids for the Winfield locks will be opened at district engineer's office at Huntington, W. Va., October 2.

Bids for the Gallipolis locks will be opened about October 27, at a city to be decided later.

SCOTT LOOMING FOR GOVERNOR

PHILIPSBURG, Pa., Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Senator Harry B. Scott, president pro tempore of the State Senate, looms as a possible candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania.

Many politically prominent persons attending a dinner in Scott's honor last night heard Gen. Edward Martin, Republican state chairman, assert he knew of no reason why the Senate president should not join the illustrious line of Centre County men who became governors of the Keystone State.

Referring to Scott's residence in Centre County, which he termed the "home of governors," Martin made no further comment, however, concerning the guest of honor and the governorship.

The dinner, attended by about 350 men and women who numbered among them most of the state's Republican leaders, presented the opportunity for the first general council of war of those leaders since the municipal primary elections last Tuesday.

Chief in Hobo Guise Nabs Holdup Suspects

Two men arrested at the Improvement of the Poor Home, Duquesne way, by Chief of Police Chester Zygello, of Sharpsburg, when he posed as poverty stricken, were to be given a hearing today.

The men, John J. Melvin, alias Ryan, 27, of Boston, and Lawrence Boyd, 26, of McFarland, Cal., are accused of robbing a Sharpsburg gasoline station manager of $15 early yesterday.

Zygello arrested Edward Lutz, 35, of Walnut street, Etna, when Lutz arrived at the service station a short time after the holdup, seeking to redeem a wheel left as security for gasoline.

He denied a part in the robbery but Zygello said Lutz's automobile answered the description of the one used in the holdup.

Finding Lutz was a waiter in the Improvement of the Poor home, Zygello said, he obtained a description of the men wanted, and went to the home dressed as a hobo. After waiting most of the day he spied the men he wanted and arrested them. They were identified by three witnesses at the police station.

The three prisoners will be given a hearing before Justice of the Peace James A. Hernon.

Ohio Blue Laws Revived As Blue Eagle Ally

CLEVELAND, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Antiquated Ohio blue laws, long since thought dead, have sharpened the claws of the blue eagle.

From the dim past of an era that frowned on Sunday amusements and shop keeping, merchant associations have resurrected the ancient statutes and have made them an ally for the NRA.

The old blue laws make a Sabbath breaker subject to a fine of $100 and a sentence of six months in the workhouse. They prohibit a long list of amusements at various times on Sundays and one says a husband shall not quarrel with his wife on the Sabbath, although it makes no objection to an exchange of sharp words on Monday.

With the $100 club to work with, merchant associations already have hailed two alleged NRA violators into court and have said to them in effect:

"Either close on Sundays as your competitors do or feel the wrath of these ancient statutes."

Both violators escaped punishment on promises to comply with the letter of the NRA code in the future.

The engagement of Miss Isabel Winburn, of Erie, a Junior League girl, to Dr. George Gregory Burkley, of Pittsburgh, was made known today at a luncheon Miss Winburn gave for Mrs. Watson Harmeier, of Pittsburgh.

Miss Winburn is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Winburn, of Erie; her fiance, who lives at Webster Hall, is associated with Mellon Institute.

Miss Winburn attended Baldwin School and Vassar College, and has studied in Europe. Dr. Burkley, the son of the Frank Burkleys, is a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh, Medical School, and was a member of the staff of the Mayo Clinic for three years.

They met at the Mayo Clinic, where Miss Winburn's mother was a patient.

Program Policy Of Forum Club Changed

"Success treads on the heels of every right effort" has been adopted by the Forum Club as its slogan for the current club year, according to the new year books which also announce a change in program policy—"an open forum where timely subjects may be considered from every angle."

In keeping with the new policy, which is designed to encourage expression and exchange of thought, current events will be discussed at each meeting. Each member is asked to contribute some outstanding item from the newspapers, magazines or radio.

To achieve a greater feeding of informality the meetings are to be held in the homes of members this year and tea will be served by each hostess. It goes without saying that the club will continue its splendid philanthropic work.

The twentieth anniversary of the Forum will be celebrated on October 18 with a reception for past presidents. The usual card parties will alternate semi-monthly with the regular program meetings.

'Y. W.' to Reopen Free Classes Next Month

For unemployed high school graduates the Young Women's Christian Association's free school, opening early next month, offers an excellent opportunity for using leisure time creatively.

The curriculum this year will include freshman college subjects such as economics, social problems and social planning, languages, literature, psychology, history of family relations. Two useful courses are "What to Wear and How to Make It" and "Modern Manners and Social Arts." Another project of more than ordinary interest will show through trips and lectures what an interesting time a person may have in this city without spending much money.

For those students who wish to know the secrets of feminine charm, a course in beauty culture will be offered by a graduate beauty operator. Practice courses in bookkeeping, typing and shorthand will be offered to those who have had previous instruction in these subjects. The program also includes art, music, dancing, hand craft, creative writing and dramatics.

The Leisure Time Schools will be divided into two sections, each of 12 weeks' duration, one at East Liberty branch, Spahr and Alder streets, and one at Central branch, Chatham street. The sessions at East Liberty, which will begin on October 2, will be held on Mondays and Wednesdays from 1:30 to 5 o'clock. Those at Central branch will begin October 3 and will be held Tuesdays and Thursdays from 1 to 5 o'clock. Registrations may be made at either branch on September 27 and 29, from 10 to 4 o'clock.

The school staff, both administrative and teaching, will be composed of highly qualified college graduates who have not only temporary leisure but also a particular interest in such an educational experiment. Central branch will co-operate with the Leisure Time School of the Downtown Division of the Y. M. C. A. in certain projects.

This will be the second year in which the Y. W. C. A. has conducted Leisure Time Schools. A similar course last year provided continuing educational opportunities for 450 young high school graduates.

Grapefruit Is Recommended As Health-Builder

This Citrus Fruit Is Regarded as a Tonic and Is Especially Valuable for Persons Suffering from Acidity.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
United States Senator From New York,
Former Health Commissioner of New York City.

In driving along the country road and passing a fruit and vegetable market I am always tempted to stop. The wares displayed are so attractive and inviting that the traveler is apt to drive away with a larger purchase than he intended to make. At a large market place on the roadside I discovered that heavy and juicy grapefruit were selling at less than the average price of a good quality orange.

The grapefruit is a wonderful product of Mother Nature's gardens. Too many housewives neglect to include it when planning their menus. Often this is because they believe the fruit is expensive and sometimes because they regard it as unwholesome.

The grapefruit is comparatively a newcomer to many, but once you have acquired a taste for it, it will become an indispensable part of your diet. Fortunately, it is now within the reach of every pocketbook.

The name "grapefruit" was given it because it grows on a tree in clusters, closely resembling in that respect, clusters of grapes. It belongs to the citrus fruit family. Though it does not contain as much citric acid as is found in the lemon, another member of the citrus family, it contains a rich supply of vitamin C.

Any fruit containing this vitamin is referred to as an "anti-scorbutic" food. This means it will prevent scurvy. Scurvy is a vitamin deficiency disease and occurs in individuals who live on a diet lacking in vitamin C. It is never found among persons who include in their diet an abundance of fresh fruits, especially the citrus fruits.

REGARDED AS TONIC

In addition to its valuable vitamin content, the grapefruit contains important mineral substances. It is regarded as a tonic and health builder. Contrary to the common belief, grapefruit and other citrus fruits do not lead to acidity. On the contrary, they produce an alkaline reaction in the body and actually combat any tendency towards acid formation.

Like other citrus fruits, it has value in the diet, too, because of its cellulose content. This supplies roughage and stimulates normal natural elimination. It is for this reason that it is of value in the diet of persons suffering from constipation and other digestive disturbances. It is easily digested and because of its natural sugar content is a quick source of heat and energy.

GIVEN TO CONVALESCENTS

Grapefruit juice has become exceedingly popular within recent years. It is a cooling and refreshing beverage and of great value to the invalid and convalescent patient. The fruit, as well as the juice, is frequently used in the diet of persons suffering from acute infectious diseases, such as influenza, grippe and pneumonia. The alkaline reaction of the fruit juice neutralizes the toxins and poisons of the disease, thus protecting the kidneys and other vital organs.

Every housewife should take advantage of the nutritive and beneficial action of this tempting and pleasant fruit. Formerly it was for the rich alone. But now, I am glad to say, that as a result of modern methods of canning and transportation, this fruit is within the reach of everyone.

Advantage should be taken of its health-giving qualities. It should be included in the diet whenever possible.

P. R. R. Force Here Sets Freight Record

In August they made the best monthly record ever made by a large freight station or transfer in the railroad's Central Region. Buffalo agency was the nearest competitor.

PRUDENCE PENNY'S RECIPES

HOW DOES MILADY, this good morning? It really is time you served the adaptable, healthiful tomato in one of its 1933 dishes. With a little co-operation on the part of madam homemaker, the tomato becomes one of the best summer menu aids we have.

But in too many homes the appearance of sliced tomatoes, stewed tomatoes, tomato soup or tomato cocktails are the only tomato dishes offered. Such monotonous service could well be classed as a dietetic crime against the family and a crime of neglect as to the opportunities offered by the tomato. It is our second most popular vegetable, so try a new way with just fresh tomatoes "every other time" you serve them the rest of the summer.

TOMATOES ARE always peeled before sliced or stuffed. The thin skin cracks and will slip away readily if given a little heat. This may be by submerging in hot water a few seconds or holding over a flame until the skin cracks. Then just slip off and chill the tomatoes after this ltttle heating. Before stuffing tomatoes be sure to season the inside of the tomato cup with salt and lemon juice. Use the tomato removed either mixed with dressing and the filling selected, or save it for the sauce for meat or spaghetti.

Among the more de luxe fillings for stuffed tomato salad I would list crabmeat, shrimp, or chicken salad. Caviare and cold boiled rice combined with French dressing will be included in this group by some. Cream cheese and pineapple, asparagus tips, hard cooked egg and veal salad, or mushrooms and olives make delicious stuffings.

Be sure to season any of these fillings carefully and taste the salad before stuffing the prepared tomatoes. Have both tomatoes and stuffing chilled before combining them and see that the lettuce bed is crisp and has been brushed with French dressing seasoned to your taste.

TOMATO GELATINE makes an excellent salad carried for mixed vegetables or for vegetables and cheese or pineapple with cheese dressing. Or use raspberry or wild cherry gelatine as a carrier and mix into either as it sets, spiced tomato and nut meats. Serve with whipped cream and serve it at the end of the meal with cheese tid bits.

You must have one of the generally popular tomato preserve recipes among your special canning recipes. Better clip this now before the paper gets away from you for financial or sports news, or the important messages in the advertisements.

TOMATO PRESERVES—Equal quantities of yellow pear tomatoes, small red tomatoes and sugar. The sugar should be half brown and half white. To 6 pounds of tomatoes use 2 teaspoons cinnamon, 1 teaspoon nutmeg and 2 lemons. The tomatoes are washed, the red ones skinned and all cut into quarters. Sift half the sugar over them, add spices and thinly sliced lemons and remainder of sugar. Mix all thoroughly and allow to cook slowly until thick. Put into sterilized jelly glasses and coat with paraffin.

TOMATO KETCHUP—½ peck tomatoes, 3 red peppers, 2 medium-sized onions, cut fine; 2 tablespoons salt, ⅓ cup sugar, 2 cups vinegar, 2 teaspoons celery salt, 2 teaspoons ground mustard, 1 tablespoon whole allspice, 1 tablespoon cloves, 1 tablespoon cinnamon, 1 teaspoon paprika.

Cook tomatoes, peppers and onions together without adding water. Press mixture through strainer, and measure pulp. To pulp (4 quarts) add the salt, sugar and spices. Place whole spices in a bag during the cooking and remove bag before pouring the ketchup into jars. Ground spices, except paprika, will darken ketchup. Long, slow cooking also gives a dark color. Cook ingredients together, except vinegar, rapidly for 1 hour, add vinegar and cook mixture until it is thick. Seal in clean, hot jars. It should be bright red in color.

SPICED GREEN TOMATOES—5 pounds small green tomatoes or larger tomatoes sliced medium thick, 6 cups white sugar, 2 cups vinegar, 1 tablespoon stick cinnamon, 1 teaspoon whole cloves, 1 teaspoon whole allspice, 1 tablespoon white mustard seed.

Wash tomatoes but do not peal. If small tomatoes are used prick them slightly. Combine sugar, vinegar and spices; bring mixture to the boiling point and pour it over the tomatoes. Let stand for 6 hours, or overnight. Drain off liquid and cook until it coats a spoon. Add tomatoes and cook until clear. Seal in clean, hot jars.

Green plum, pear or peach tomatoes are good for this pickle, but large green tomatoes may be sliced and used.

TOMATO PUREE—6 onions, 3 carrots, 3 stalks celery, 1 turnip, 3 sweet peppers, ½ peck tomatoes.

Run ingredients, except tomatoes, through a food chopper, cover with boiling water, and simmer until soft. Cut the tomatoes, do not peal, and bring to boiling point. Add the other ingredients and boil for 40 minutes, or until all parts are tender. Strain through a colander, season with salt and pepper, pour into clean, hot jars and seal at once.

TOMATO PULP—Take any amount of tomatoes desired. Blanch until skins loosen, cold-dip, remove skins and hard cores. Cook 30 minutes, press through a sieve, pack into clean, hot jars, add 1 level teaspoon salt to each quart, partly seal and process 45 minutes in a hot-water bath, or 30 minutes in a steam pressure cooker at 10 pounds. Remove from canner and seal immediately.

DELICIOUS CEREAL OVERCOMES COMMON CONSTIPATION

ALL-BRAN Provides "Bulk," Vitamin B and Iron

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN meets a basic need of the American dietary. It supplies "bulk"—so helpful in correcting common constipation. In eleven years, ALL-BRAN has won millions of satisfied users.

New tests show added reasons for the success of ALL-BRAN. Laboratory experiments prove that, in addition to "bulk," it provides vitamin B to help tone the intestinal tract.

The headaches, loss of appetite and energy that so often result from constipation can be overcome by this pleasant cereal. How much better than using pills and drugs.

ALL-BRAN is mild. Its "bulk" is much like that of lettuce. Within the body, it absorbs moisture and forms a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes.

Two tablespoonfuls daily are sufficient to overcome most types of constipation. Chronic cases, with every meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Another benefit of ALL-BRAN is that it has twice as much blood-building iron as an equal amount by weight of beef liver.

Serve as a cereal, or use in cooking. Tempting recipes on the red-and-green package. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

TELL IT TO ELSIE -:- -:- Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day -:- -:- By ELSIE ROBINSON

Is Your Husband Still Tied To Mama's Apron Strings?

Does your husband go a-running, every time his mother calls?

Then what should a girl do in a case like that?

Stage a riot? Pull the weeps? Tell him that his Mamma's an Ole Meanie, and he's a Big Baby? Or—what?

Myrtle would like to know. And she could use a lot of information.

Dear Elsie:

Will you please try to help me? I certainly need it. I don't know what to do with my problem, and I guess there are a lot of other girls in the same boat, too. I know they'll be thankful for a little advice if they're having a time like mine.

I am 22. I have been married for two years to a young man of 26. You'd think, at his age, he'd be weaned from his mother, but he isn't. And you'd think, too, that a mother could realize that when her son marries he is a man on his own, and should run his own life. But his mother doesn't. She hangs on to him like glue—and he lets her.

MOTHER IS BOSSY

He asks her advice on everything, and she is always making demands on him. Every single Sunday he wants to spend with her and his father, and he thinks I should be delighted to do the same. I have managed to pry him loose a time or two, long enough to go on a picnic into the country, but he acted dissatisfied and fidgety all the time we were gone—and ran over to see her as soon as we got back. I'm getting fed up.

I just can't stand his mother. She insists on telling me how to do everything. She thinks she must run our life or it won't be run right. She can't seem to realize that Dean is grown up and should spend his time with his wife, instead of at her house all the time.

I have tried to make him see, time and again, that she is selfish and inconsiderate, and that he owes me a little consideration, and should take my side when she gets bossy. But it does no good, it seems. He appears to believe that I am in the wrong.

I am getting very tired of it. I don't seem to be getting anywhere, and I wonder, sometimes, if it is worth the effort. I do love him, but I can't stand this wrangling. Please help me. What can I do? MYRTLE.

A HANDICAP

What can you do?

Let me ask you one in return. What would you do, Myrtle, if you had married a man with a glass eye or a wooden leg? You'd make the best of it, wouldn't you? You wouldn't blame him or get sorry for yourself—not if you were a good sport. You'd realize that life had handed him a bad handicap, and you'd frame your program accordingly.

Then there's your answer. Life has handed your man a bad handicap, too. Perhaps not as cruel a handicap as a blind eye or an amputated leg, but, for the present, just as crippling; and he's just as surely an innocent victim.

It wasn't his fault that he was his mother's only son, or that she poured all her affection upon him. Nor was it his fault if he learned to lean on her love and wisdom until she became a weakening habit.

All this happened before he was big enough to know what life was all about. And, until you came along, no one saw any reason why it shouldn't have happened. Indeed, he probably received plenty of applause for being a Model Son!

And there's no doubt that his mother received a tremendous hand for being a Model Mother. You may be sure that no one ever pointed out to her how wrong, how weakening such a relationship was. And she is still certain that she knows much more about this boy of hers, and can do much more for him, than a "little upstart" like you ever can.

MUST BE UNDERSTANDING

So then, what? It took those two 26 years to establish their relationship. Do you think you can upset it in 26 days or months? Of course you can't. You've taken your man as is—and you'll have to be as game and generous as you would if he had an actual physical handicap.

You'll get nowhere with tears or tantrums, or criticisms of the mother who has completely filled his life hitherto. The only thing that will help you now is—love and understanding—understanding of them both. Love for them both. A fair recognition of their rights, as well as your own.

You want him to realize that this new life is better for him than the old life—that his wife is a better comrade than his mother—don't you? Then prove it by being, at least as good, as patient, as generous, as loyal as she was. Until you've done that, all your arguments will fall flat, little sister.

But if you can do that, you may not need further argument. For, unconsciously, he will have become your man. And stranger, sweeter, still—she may have become your mother!

Contract Bridge -:- HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Squeezing Out a Contract

Sometimes the manner in which expert players reach an eventual contract through "fancy bidding" is such as to almost mar the beauty of flawless play. The habit indulged in by some good players and very many bad ones of bidding three-card suits headed by a King in order to determine whether partner has a fit in that suit, and thus possibly undertake a Slam contract, is one of the most daring of these faults. For my own part, I cannot see what information a player obtains by bidding on something he does not hold, and finding, as he is most likely to find, that his partner has adequate support for him. However, that is not really the point of this story, the point being the accurate manner in which Mr. Alphonse Moyse, Jr., of New York, played the hand below to secure a Grand Slam bonus of 2,250 points in a rubber game at one of the New York Bridge clubs.

North, Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

♠ K 10 5 4
♡ K Q 10 3 2
◇ A 5 3 2

West		East
♠ J ♡ J 7 5 4 ◇ 9 8 7 ♣ J 10 9 8 3	North West East South	♠ Q 9 8 7 2 ♡ 9 ◇ Q J 10 ♣ 7 5 4 2

♠ A 6 3
♡ A 8 6
◇ K 6 4
♣ A K Q 6

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♡	Pass	3 ◇	Pass
4 ◇	Pass	7 N T	Pass
Pass	Pass

Mr. Moyse explained that the three diamond bid was made to check up on the diamond situation. He thought if his partner supported diamonds it would indicate possession of the Ace. However, that is a conclusion which in my opinion is unwarranted. A much better bid ordinarily would have been to force with a biddable suit, such, for instance, as the club suit; and even after the four-diamond bid South still had safer means of reaching the Slam and determining whether or not North did have the diamond Ace by the splendid bid of five no-trump, which would show the possession of three Aces and the King of a bid suit. If he had already determined to play at a Slam, it would do no harm to safeguard this decision as much as possible.

Whatever faults there might have been in the bidding, were fully redeemed in the play. West, against the seven notrump contract, opened with the club Knave, which Mr. Moyse won, and then took two rounds of hearts, the first one in the Dummy and the second with the Ace. The second lead disclosed the heart situation, as East discarded a spade. Mr. Moyse now led a small spade from his hand, West played the Knave, and the trick was won in the Dummy with the King. In order to get a count on the hand, he returned to his own hand with a spade, playing the Ace. When West discarded he realized that a squeeze was the only chance. He then played two more rounds of clubs, upon which he discarded the last two spades in the Dummy. At this point he led the last heart, taking the finesse against the Knave. East dropped a spade. The Queen of hearts was then led, East discarding his last club and South a diamond. The squeeze was developed when the last heart was led from Dummy. East was forced to retain the spade Queen, and hence had to part with a diamond. Mr. Moyse then dropped his last spade, and West, compelled to retain the club Ten, also discarded a diamond. Mr. Moyse now completed the accurate play of the hand by leading a small diamond to his King and taking the last 2 tricks in the Dummy with the Ace and five of that suit.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

The Girl's Privilege

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please let me know who must say "Hello" first—the girl or the young man? K.

The girl is given the privilege, in the social world, of being the one who first acknowledges an acquaintanceship with a boy. Therefore it is she who bows first, or speaks first.

Correct Name Form

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am to be married soon and I am not sure what title my mother should use in a formal wedding invitation.

My mother's maiden name was Anna Snow and my father's name is Thomas Bell Gault. They are now divorced, but my father has married again.

Would it be proper for my mother to use the title Mrs. Thomas Bell Gault, inasmuch as there is a present Mrs. Gault, or should she use the title, Mrs. Anna Snow Gault?

READER.

It would not be good form for your mother to use the name Mrs. Thomas Bell Gault, inasmuch as your father's present wife now has that name. And I very much dislike the form of name that includes the first name. The best form is the use of the surname of the maiden name as the prefix to the surname of the married name: Mrs. Snow Gault.

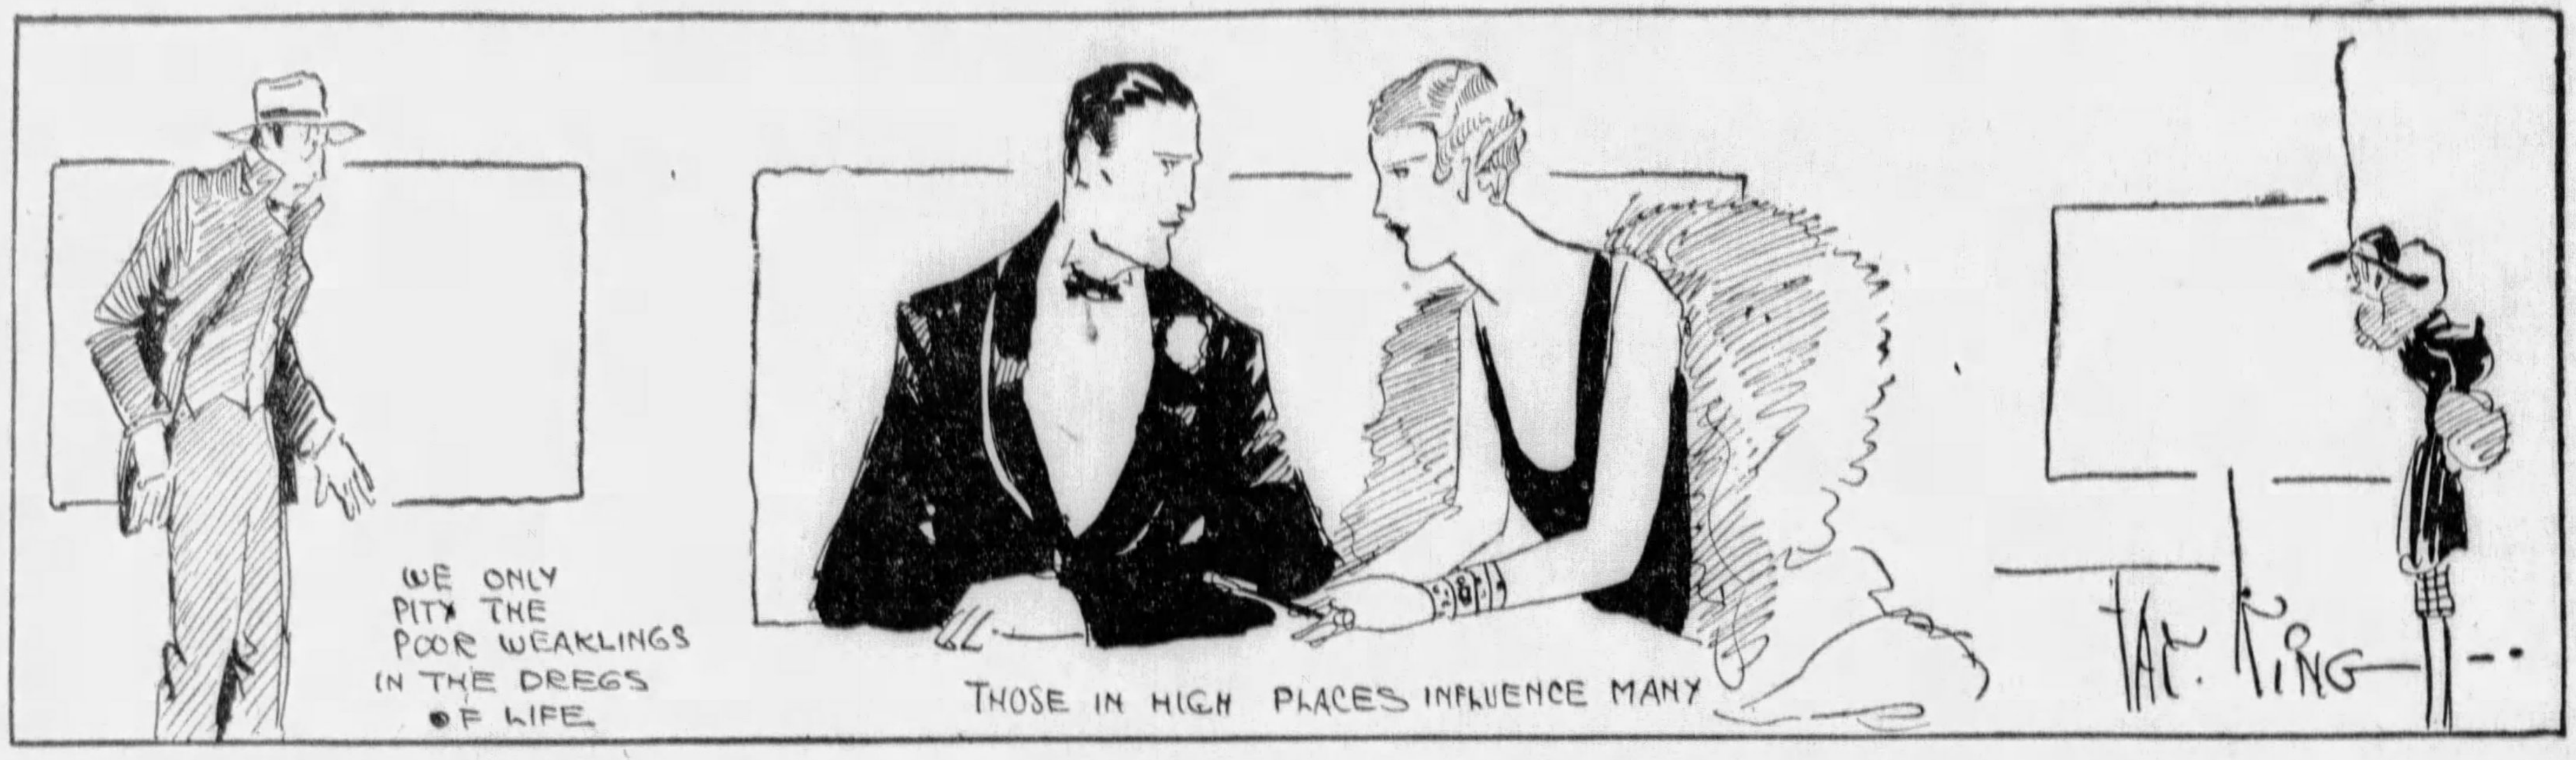
Evil Greater Menace When in High Place, Declares Fay King



WE ONLY PITY THE POOR WEAKLINGS IN THE DREGS OF LIFE
THOSE IN HIGH PLACES INFLUENCE MANY FAY KING

By FAY KING

In considering the deplorable crime conditions today, we must not overlook the evil influence of those in high places.

One prominent man or woman who sets a bad example is a greater menace than a thousand weaklings in the lower strata.

No one aspires to emulate the nonetity who lacks morals or honesty. But countless many are influenced by such a one high up on the ladder of life.

There is no more undermining agency in the world today than the regrettable actions of prominent persons who maintain that their important places give them the privilege to do as they please.

A wrong is not less so because a prominent person commits it, but rather more so for that very reason.

Given in Marriage -:- A Sequel to Heart Of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Accusation Brings Outburst of Anger and Threats

Was she cunning enough, I wondered, to know that if I destroyed this stamped and addressed letter, I would put it out of my own power ever to accuse her of taking it? I was not certain how far her rather limited mentality would take her, but I resolved once and for all to "settle" this girl, as my mother-in-law would put it. I extended the letter to her, with the back of it uppermost, and said slowly, significantly:

"It won't do, Avis."

She started as if I had flicked her with a whip.

"What—what do you mean," she faltered.

"Exactly what I say," I returned firmly. "I am sorry to talk in this way to you, Avis, but your falsehoods leave me no recourse."

"Falsehoods, Mrs. Graham!" she stormed. "Do you realize to whom it is that you are speaking? Oh! you shall pay dearly for this! I am the daughter of Philip Veritzen's best friend. Do you think he will permit me to be insulted like this? If you do not want your play to be stopped, you will take that back."

She was so silly, so futile, in her ridiculous threat, that I felt no anger. She was not worthy of that emotion. Only a contemptuous pity was mine as I looked at her steadily.

MADGE CALM

"You are either extremely ignorant, or you are trying to 'bluff' me, as you no doubt would put it," I said calmly. "But it is no use. Now, will you listen to me, or must I go to Mr. Veritzen with my knowledge of what you have done?"

"Do you think that is honorable?" she asked me hotly. "I have come to you with a confession of what I have done, and thrown myself on your mercy. You wouldn't have known anything about it if I hadn't told you. I confided in you, and asked you to help me keep my carelessness from Uncle Phil, and now you are betraying that confidence! For shame, Mrs. Graham! I did not think anyone could be so vile to a poor, friendless girl, whose whole future may depend upon your action."

She took a sharp breath and hurried on before I could speak.

"I ought to have known better than to have confided in you. You always have hated me, ever since you found out that No-el's heart really belongs to me. Oh, I know Mary has played her cards well, and so have you! The poor boy did not have a chance between you. He is going to marry her, no doubt, but there is something between No-el and me—always will be something, that can never be explained."

I looked at my wrist watch, as if I were utterly unmoved by her attack. And indeed I was, except for the impulse that one's fingers feel when watching an exceedingly naughty child in a tantrum—the impulse to administer a good switching.

THE INDICTMENT

"You have five minutes left to decide what you are going to do, or rather I have that time to decide whether I shall tell Mr. Veritzen the truth about this letter—not this fairy tale which you have related to me. I cannot understand how you are so gullible as to believe for an instant that I would swallow such nonsense. Now if you are ready to tell me the truth, perhaps I can help you."

I made my voice as stern as possible, and she gulped back the words she evidently had meant to utter and looked at me.

"What do you mean by the truth?" she said, trying still to be defiant, but failing miserably.

"I will tell you," I said, "for really, I do not believe you could tell a straight story if your life depended upon it. But I know these things as clearly as if I had seen you in the acts."

I bent to her, gazing at her steadily, while my forefinger checked off my indictment.

"This letter came to the office nearly a week ago. You saw my name upon the back and slipped it into your bag, because you wanted to find out anything you could about Noel. At your first opportunity you steamed the letter, opened it, read its contents, and sealed it again, planning to wait until after the wedding to put it back into the mail. But my telephone to Mr. Veritzen foiled your scheme to keep him in ignorance of the wedding, and his prompt investigation gave you no chance to put it back. That is why you are here."

Household Hints

When a tall vase is preferred, and flower stems are not quite long enough, a few leaves placed in the bottom of the vase will raise blooms to the required height, and also look pretty if a glass vase is used.

Remove the cover of an old umbrella, oil all joints, and paint the frame with white enamel. It will make a useful dryer for small articles if suspended from the ceiling by the handle. When not in use, close and put out of the way.

The shelves of the larder should be washed over with a damp cloth at least once a day, and once or twice a week they should be washed out with a very weak disinfectant solution.

When making a pudding cloth secure, use thin elastic instead of string. This makes it easy to remove the hot cloth when the pudding has been cooked, and there is no risk of burning the fingers. The band can be used over and over again.

FILLED SURPRISE COOKIES

3 cups flour.
3 teaspoons baking powder.
½ teaspoon salt.

Filling

1 cup sugar.
2 tablespoons flour.
1 cup boiling water.
½ cup nutmeats.

Cut the chilled dough into thing slices. Place a spoonful of the filling in the center of a round. Cover with second round and press the edges together firmly. Bake on a well-oiled baking sheet in a moderately hot oven (400 degrees F.) for 10 minutes. Makes 6 dozen small cookies.

Leave about one-fourth cup of bacon fat in the skillet and fill it up with the apples.

Sprinkle on 2 or 3 tablespoons of sugar.

(Apples fried this way require a little more sugar than ordinary fried apples.)

Cover the apples.

Cook slowly until tender.

Then remove the cover and turn the apples gently, so the pieces will keep their shape.

Let them brown lightly.

They are then almost transparent.

Place them on a hot platter, and surround them with the crisp bacon.

Nose Bleed May Be a Warning

Dr. Copeland

Hardly a day passes that I do not receive a letter requesting information about nose bleed and how to prevent and control it. Nasal hemorrhage, nose bleed, is a common occurrence in the daily life of many. No doubt you have been a victim of this experience at some time or other. It is probable you stopped the bleeding by resorting to some old-fashioned remedy.

Persistent and repeated nose bleeds are uncomfortable, alarming and in extreme cases may be dangerous. Often too little attention is paid to this disturbance. Though the bleeding is successfully stopped, no attempt is made to determine the underlying cause. If possible this should be found and removed. This is important because the nose bleed may be a warning of some defect that should be remedied.

Nose bleeds are especially common among children. As a rule, it is not of a serious nature and can usually be traced to an injury or some inflammation or ulceration within the nose. The child irritates the inflamed area by rubbing the nose. Treatment of the ulceration and warning against disturbing the nose will end the trouble.

Sudden changes in temperature, high altitude, strenuous play and severe exertion may lead to nose bleed. Bleeding from these causes is easy to cure and need not cause alarm. When the nose bleed is the result of some nasal deformity, cure can only occur when that is corrected.

The most common cause of this type of nasal hemorrhage is a crooked and deviated nasal septum, the partition between the two openings of the nose. This leads to difficult breathing and inflammation and ulceration of the nasal passage. In turn this may cause lowered resistance to colds and susceptibility to respiratory diseases. It is a physical defect that must never be overlooked. Neglect of this condition serves as a stumbling block to good health and lessens happiness.

High blood pressure, heart disease, blood disease and other serious ailments are other causes of nose bleed that must not be forgotten. Bear in mind that there are many causes for nose bleed. Some are unimportant, while others are of a serious nature and require expert medical advice.

Repeated nose bleeds warrant a visit to the doctor. He will determine the underlying cause and outline the necessary steps for the correction of the disorder. Through his efforts future attacks are less likely to occur. Early recognition of a physical defect will insure good health if prompt measures for correction are taken.

EXPERTS JUDGE PRIZE RECIPE CONTEST

It isn't the recipe for fancy dishes that is most welcome to the average housewife who has the responsibility of serving the family meals. Very often there are favorite recipes that have been handed down in one family for years. Many housewives believe that the old-fashioned recipes are really the best—that the modern fancy dishes are not practical for the average family of today on account of economic conditions. What the family needs today, these housewives claim, is satisfying, appetizing, health-building foods.

Prudence Penny's Sun-Telegraph quest for favorite recipes is bringing out a lot of practical suggestions for delectable things to eat—some are old-fashioned, some are modern, and Sun-Telegraph readers—men and women will read them with keen interest when they begin to appear in this newspaper.

Prudence Penny is offering $15 in daily cash prizes for favorite recipes from the housewives of Pittsburgh and vicinity—$5 as a first reward and $10 in $1 prizes. The awards will be made by a committee of experts on cooking. Housewives may submit as many recipes as they wish and they may cover anything they think is good to eat. Address your entry to Prudence Penny, Sun-Telegraph, and watch the Sun-Telegraph for the names of the winners and the publication of the prize winning recipes.

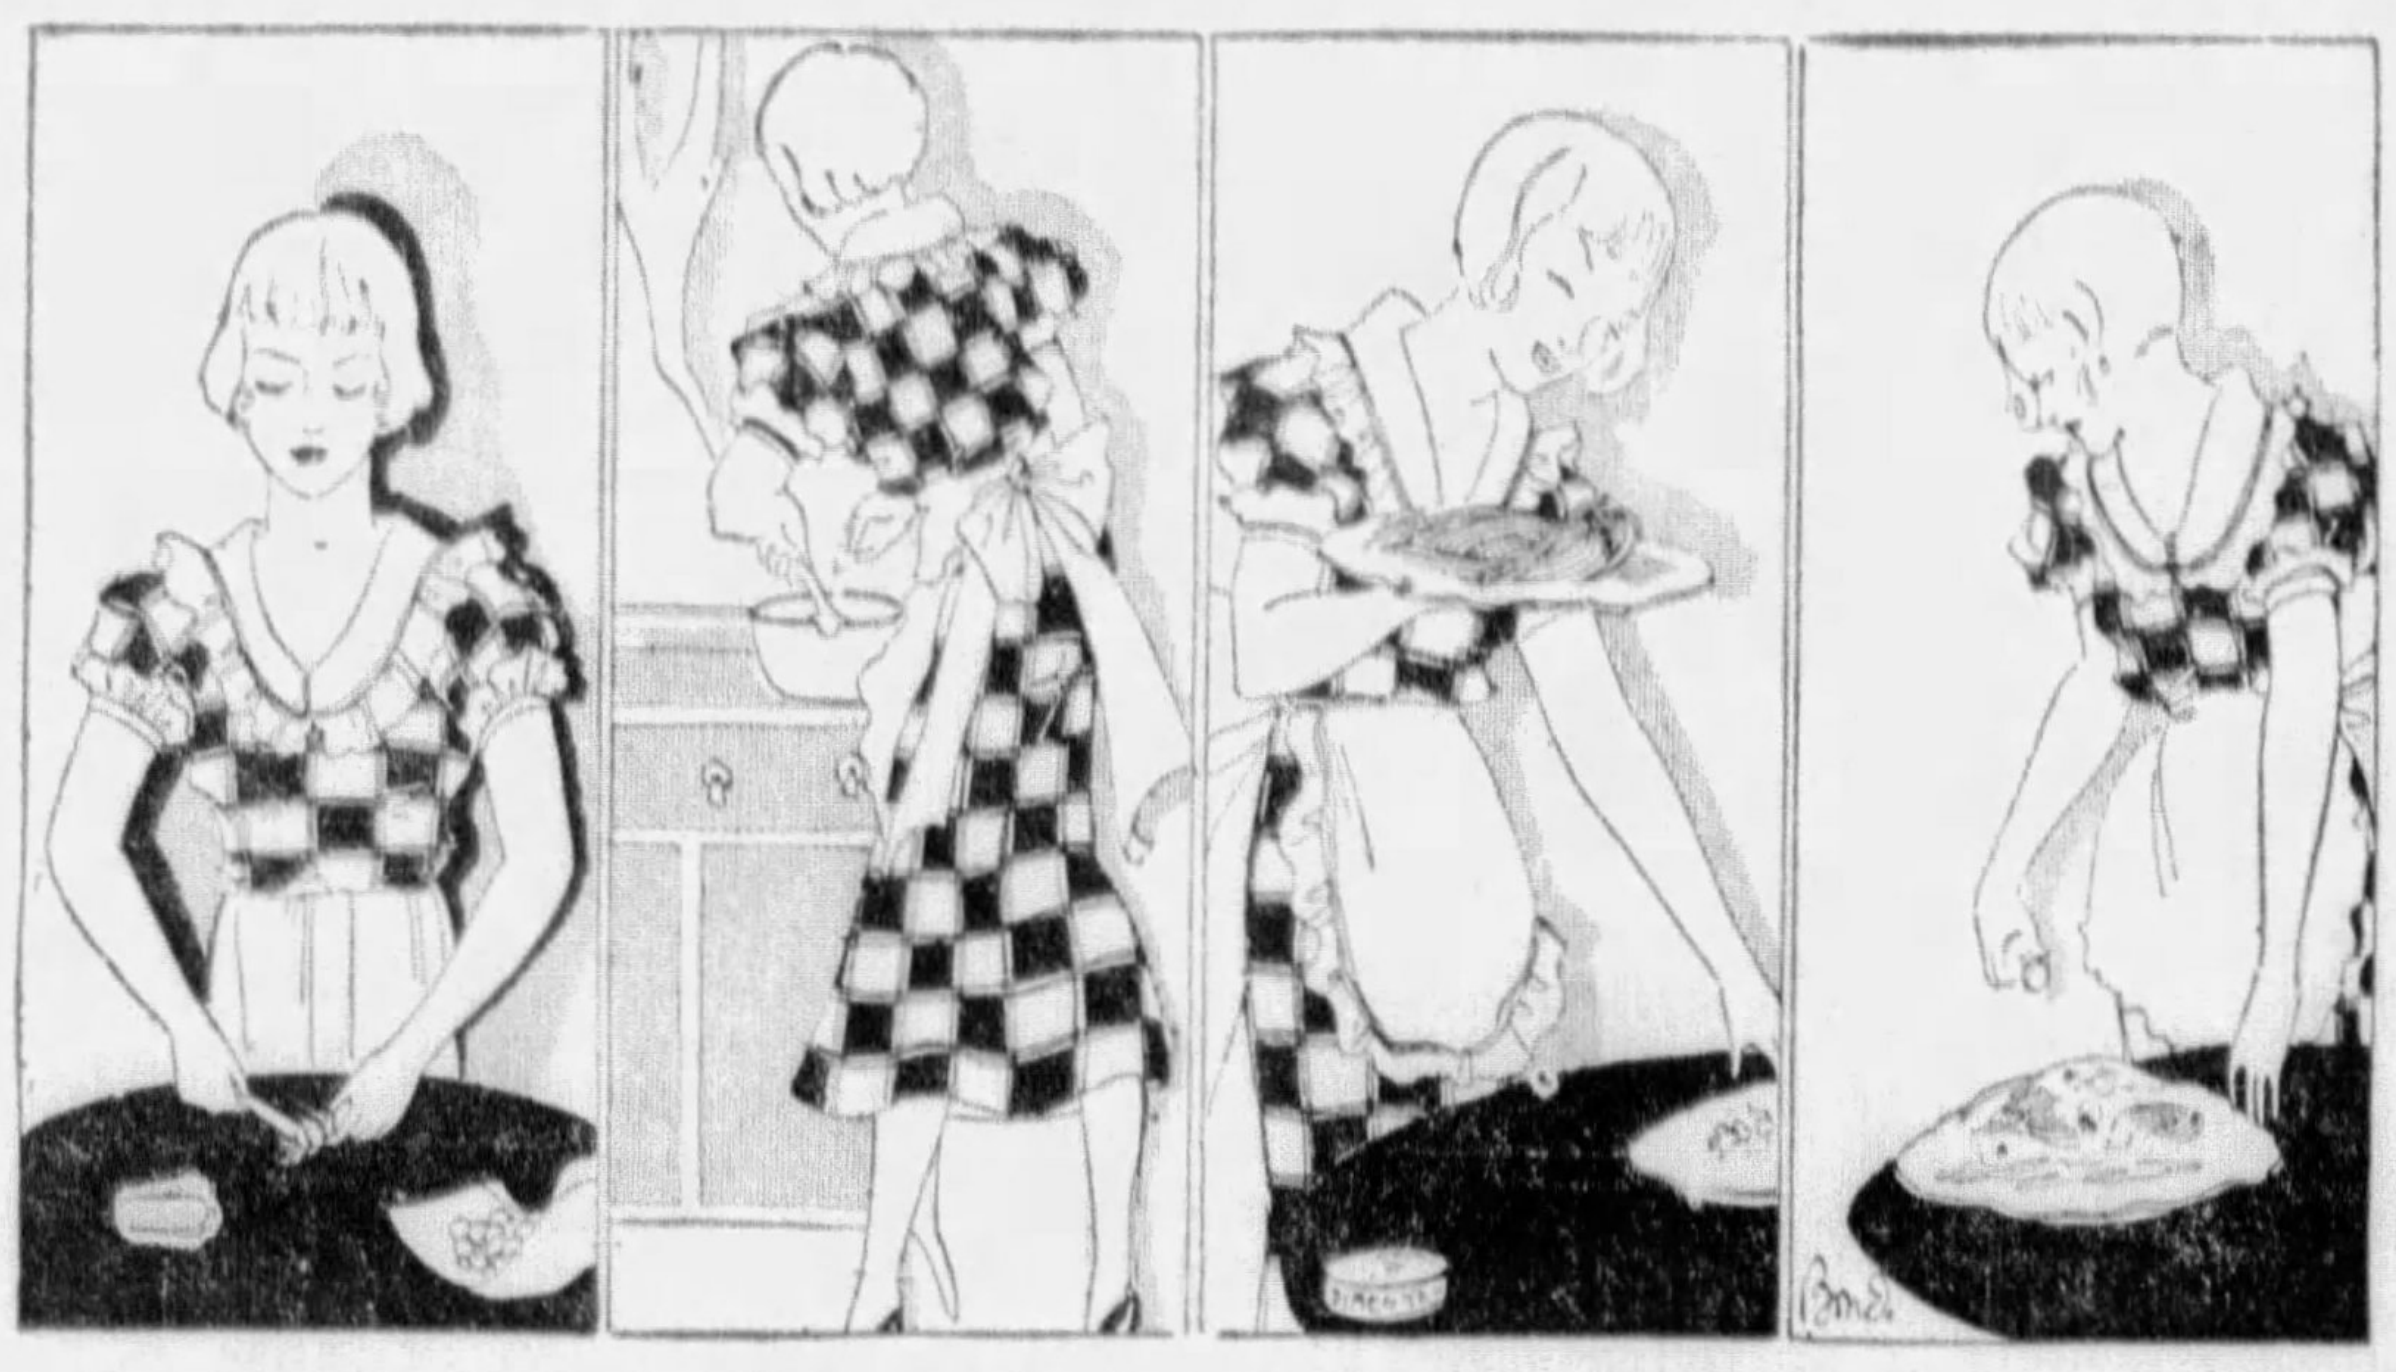
THE COOK'S TOUR -:- Ham Tetrazzini



1. Chop 1 small onion fine, and cut ½ green pepper in thin strips; wash and cut mushrooms in eighths (enough to make ½ cupful) and add to saucepan with 3 tablespoons drippings, cooking until a golden brown.

2. When onions, green pepper and mushrooms are delicately browned, stir in 3 tablespoons flour, stirring over a low fire, until flour, too, is golden brown; then add 3 cups milk, cooking slowly until smooth and thickened.

3. In the meantime, have ready 2 cups of diced ham, which has either been baked or boiled, together with 2 cups of cooked, drained spaghetti and 1 pimiento which has been cut into slender strips.

4. Add diced ham, cooked spaghetti and 1 sliced pimiento to the first mixture and place over hot water to heat through. When the mixture is quite hot stir [illegible] 2 beaten egg yolks. Serve on platter and sprinkle with paprika.

MEAT, POTATOES and GRAVY

MANY a meal is built around these three standbys—meat, potatoes and gravy. Invariably they are the first dishes that come to your mind as you plan your dinner.

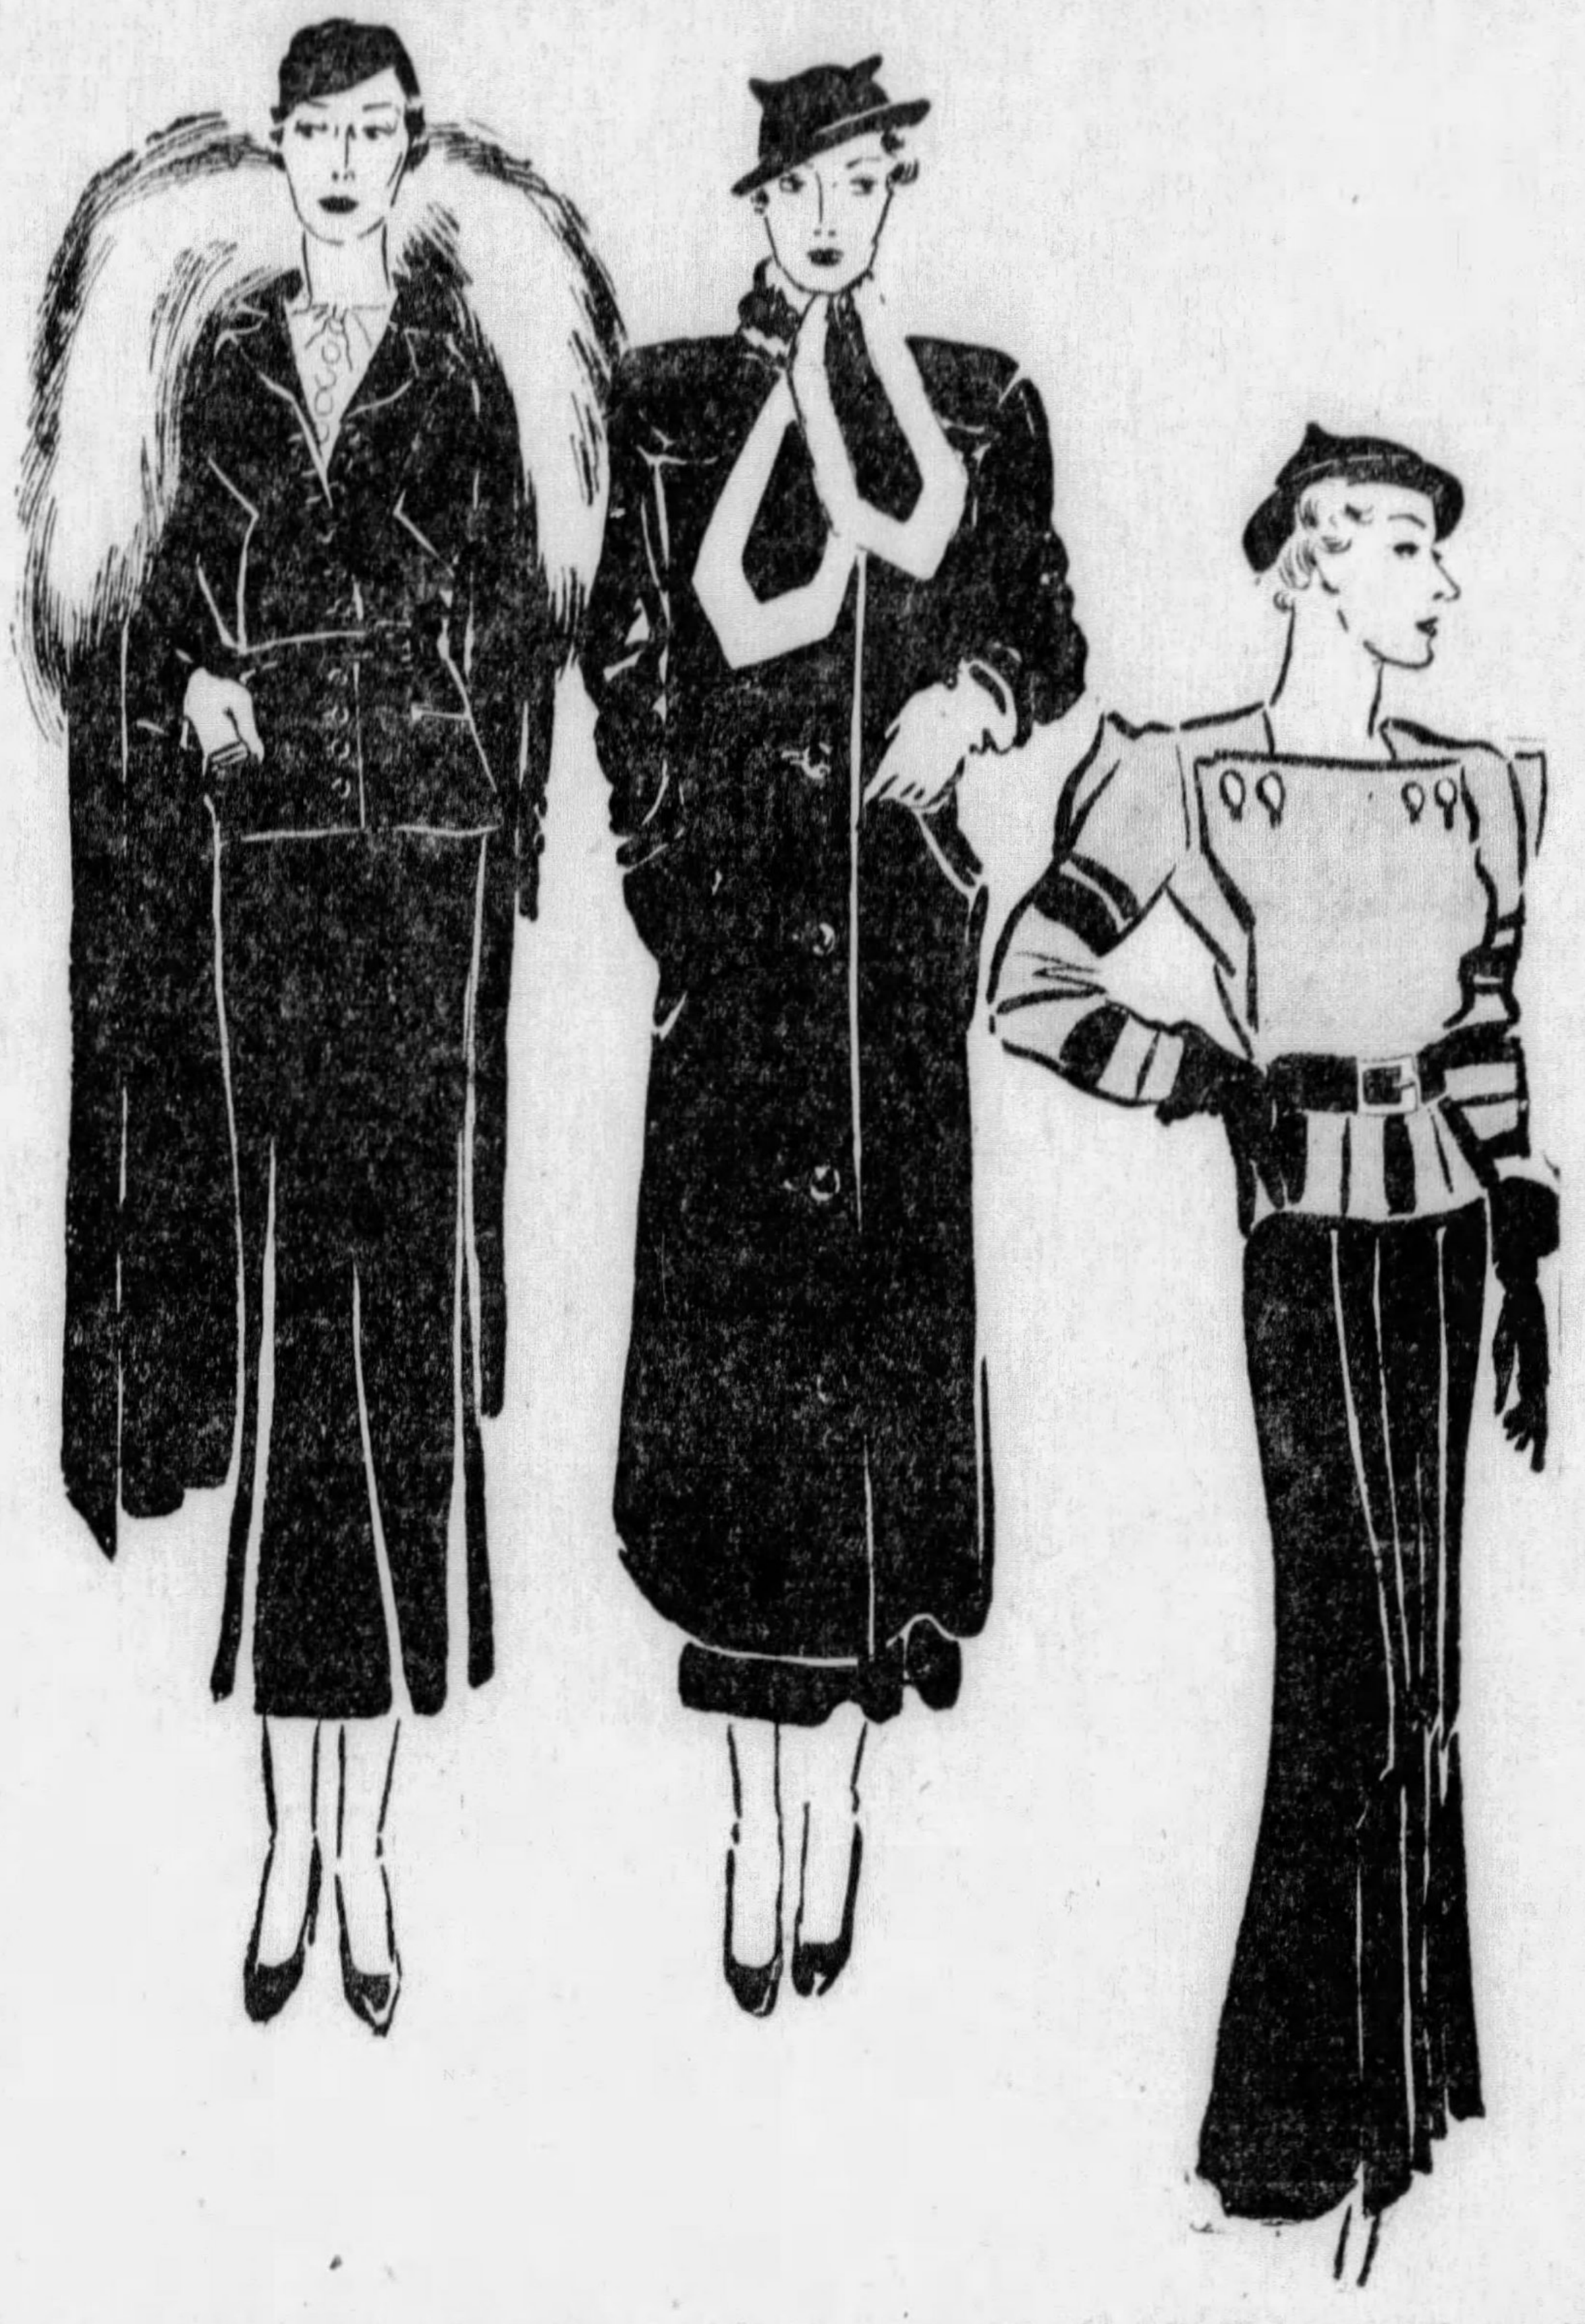
But in spite of their hunger-satisfying and nourishing qualities, this time-honored triumvirate can become monotonous unless it is supplemented by other dishes.

However, it is often a problem to find these "side dishes" in your own head. Of course, you can quiz your neighbor, or ask the members of your family what they would like. But even this source of information is often lacking in ideas.

The thing to do is read the advertisements in your newspaper. Every day your local markets display their foodstuffs on those printed pages. You'll read of new vegetables and fruits that have "just arrived." Your appetite will be aroused by the tasty creations of national food manufacturers. With pencil and paper you can make your market list and menus before you step out of the house.

Speaking of monotony, consider this: There are 11 different cuts of beef, 9 cuts of veal, 7 of lamb, 10 of pork; there are at least 20 different breakfast cereals sold in every store, 16 different canned vegetables, 6 canned fruits, a dozen or more canned meats and fish, numberless varieties of cakes and crackers. Why should there be monotony in meals with such a variety of foods available at your store . . . and so many of them advertised in your paper?

NEW IDEAS IN SPORTS CLOTHES SHOWN AT RECENT BEACH CLUB FASHION SHOW



AT THE fashion show of the Atlantic Beach Club reported yesterday, sports clothes were shown on the same runway. A few front-page news items concerning these daytime clothes are still simmering in our brain. Two of the best-looking have been sketched for you to further imprint their message in your minds as well.

BEFORE WE start on the actual description of them, it might be well to discuss the fashion show in general. You'll want to know that the first general fashion decree we came away with was—the silhouette has gone on a severely straight and narrow path. That designers have given us a great deal less of exaggeration, and a great deal more simplicity. That hat crowns are pointing upwards. That fur is used more lavishly than it's been used for years. That coats can stop anywhere—finger-tip, knee-high, three-quarter or seven-eighths—they're all smart.

EVERYONE IS screaming for straighter sleeves, everyone is seeing this wish come true. Capes are the great evening wrap news. Fabrics tell the story of elegance in a nutshell, so beautiful and costly are some. The new berry colors are divinely becoming and just as beautiful in woolens as in silks and satins. An avalanche of color contrasts is being seen everywhere, but the combinations are new—they will thrill you!

NOW, FOR the descriptions. If you're out for the very last word in a football costume, pick the four-piece suit on the extreme right. Here you have a classicly simple street tailleur of a knubby red woolen, with a long matching coat extravagantly furred in natural lynx, that most flattering of all furs. The exquisite white open-work wool of the blouse lines the long coat too, of all things! Just picture this symphony of red and white, if you can. And while you're thinking about it, for all practical purposes remember how versatile you'll find the long red coat. How good it would be over dresses as well as with this suit, particularly if the dresses were new bluish purples or taupes.

THE NEXT two figures show another suit, one a view of the dress without the coat. A bright royal blue woolen blouse is worn with a deep woody brown. The same blue trims the cravat of the coat. It's a magnificent combination. Notice the exquisite detail on the blouse. The buttons on the coat are of suede, sewn with leather strips!

BOTH COSTUMES illustrate what better shops have to offer this fall. They're enough to make even a brave woman lose her head, but even if she does, it's completely understandable!

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Aaron Sapiro, New York lawyer, and 23 others accused in the huge Chicago racketeering case, will go to trial October 23 before Judge Walter P. Steffen in Criminal Court.

Seventeen of the defendants, Sapiro among them, marched en masse to Judge Steffen's courtroom today. The government has not authorized removal of Al Capone from federal prison at Atlanta to be tried with the rest.

The state made known that only two defendants, Murray Humphreys—Chicago's "Public Enemy No. 1" since Capone was deposed—and Sam Ginsberg, have not been apprehended.

PLANS 2-STOP WORLDFLIGHT

UTICA, N. Y., Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Bennett Griffin, Oklahoma City, whose attempted flight around the world in July, 1932, with Jimmy Mattern was halted by a crackup near Moscow, has disclosed plans for a two-stop flight around the world in the spring of 1934.

Griffin, here for a visit with Jack Wright, local speed flier, said he has a special plane under construction in which he plans to hop from New York. He plans to make his flight at an altitude of about 35,000 feet with another pilot.

To accomplish this, his plane is being equipped to compress air in the fuselage and eliminate oxygen tanks. Its two motors will have three superchargers each, to supply oxygen, Griffin said. His plane will have a normal cruising speed of about 150 miles an hour, which Griffin expects to be increased to 300 miles an hour at the higher altitude.

ALL IN A DAY

By Mark Hellinger

English as She Is Wrote

AT THE suggestion of Mr. Billy Grady, the affable author and agent, I will attempt something new today. (Voice from the gallery: "Hooray, hooray, hooray!") Various columnists have, from time to time, printed samples of underworld slang and then supplied you with the definitions. I'm going to go just one step farther by attempting a complete letter in slang, and translating the affair as I go along.

This is a letter from "Three-Fingered Gashouse Pete" to an old pal of his in another city. Pete is in the Tombs as he writes this letter, and he is evidently in some difficulty. In order to make the matter as simple as possible, I will translate one paragraph at a time as we go along.

Here is Pete's opening paragraph:

"Dear Mickey: Hop on the Erie, pal, and I'll give you a load of the panic. Me and my old trap mate was picked puttin' the take on a skin shed."

And here's the translation:

("Dear Michael: Please be kind enough to give me your attention for a moment or two, as I wish to tell you of the difficulties in which I am now involved. A chap who had been my cell mate during my most recent prison incarceration and I were seen attempting to burglarize a fur warehouse.")

"The tipster's wire was the Tiffany, but a natural saw the candle over the sweet box and hit the cup against the wall. The blow ghee gets plenty hep to the come off, but instead of shootin' in the zex, he goes Ah Sing and takes a run out powder."

("The information we received from the individual, who told us about the place, was completely genuine, and things were progressing very nicely indeed. Unfortunately, however, a law-abiding citizen saw the light from our acetylene torch, and he immediately summoned the police. The young man we had posted outside as a lookout became aware of the facts at once. But instead of informing us that all was not well, he displayed distinct traces of yellow and disappeared immediately.")

"Me and the other guy see the play so we blow off the spot in the red and go dutch. We take it on the hammer tryin' to cop a frigary in a hot load that was cooked for two weeks."

("Fortunately, though, my partner and I also became aware of the danger. We took the simplest method of leaving, but we were forced to experience a serious loss, inasmuch as we were compelled to leave our valuable burglar tools behind. We sped up the avenue in an effort to escape in a stolen car, which we had in readiness for two weeks.")

"We has doin' handy when a slew of the king's own in a raft of noisy nellies turned on plenty of heat. They crippled the legs on the load, and we both got sneezed."

("Escape seemed almost within our grasp when we noticed that we were being chased by a large number of detectives and policemen, all riding in radio cars. The bullets flew thick and fast. Soon the tires had been punctured, rendering the car practically useless, and we were both arrested.")

"They gave us plenty of squeezes in the local depot, but neither me nor the other guy spika English. So they lug us here to the prep school."

("Believe me, my dear Michael, they did their level best to make us confess while we were in the station house. But neither my partner nor I seemed to wish to make known the proper answers to their questions, so we were brought here to the Tombs.")

"Now it's up to you, pal, to see that I don't go to the college. I got enough ready for a load of gab. But all the time I'm watchin' the clock, the Peteys are cryin' for soup—and I can't give it to them."

"Accordingly, my dear friend, I am depending upon you to assist me in my time of crying need, and see that I am not sent to Sing Sing. I have sufficient funds for an attorney, but while I am incarcerated, it is of course impossible for me to earn any additional money. I know of several safes that I could blow open, but it is an obvious impossibility for me to act at the moment.")

"The first thing I gotta do is get back in the fields of wheat and, with you fronting for me, I can't miss. All you gotta do is to hear me blowin' the whistle and shoot in a load of honey money."

("I must first get back into the street and, with your assistance, I am quite certain that that can be accomplished. I earnestly request that you hear my plea, and that you furnish me with bail at your earliest possible convenience.")

"You know me, Mick, and you know I wouldn't hang the the white shirt on the stick, only they keep rolling the barrel right over me. Anyways, when I spend a nickel with a guy like you and never ask for change, I figure you don't mind me playin' the nip."

("Knowing me as you do, Michael old friend, you must realize that I would never send a call of distress unless the occasion absolutely warranted it. And right now the authorities are making things very difficult indeed. Aside from this, I feel the fact that I served five years with you and never complained would convince you that I was a good friend and that you wouldn't mind my requesting this loan.")

"I could ask Petey Burns, but it wouldn't do no good. He tried to get me some full kale and nearly took a Brodie puttin' the bost on a load of cold stuff at one of the flash parlors."

("I could request a loan from our mutual friend Peter Burns, but I am afraid it would be futile. He tried his best to aid me in my quest for bail money, but he was nearly arrested himself as he attempted to lift some diamonds in a local jewelry store.")

"I guess you're wondering why I don't throw the Salvation Mary on the little woman. Well, I can't do that on account I was whacking the liquid sugar the night before I was pinched and she made me lug Bruno. When I did score, I massaged the side of her koko with a hot pad. Then we both caught a load of shuteye."

("Perhaps you will wonder why I am not asking my wife to assist me. That, I feel, would be a waste of time. I had been drinking considerable whisky the night before I was arrested, and my wife locked me out and left me with no place to sleep. When she finally relented and permitted me to enter the house, I tapped her gently on the side of the head with my blackjack. Then we both went to sleep.")

"That's all for now, pal. Hoping you won't chill up on the honey money, I'll put on the overalls and boots and see you in the fields of wheat."

("I will close now with the sincere hope that you will not take the wrong attitude toward my request for bail money. As for me—well, I'll be in my regular clothes and ready to see you on the street.")

"Your old friend,
"Pete" . . .

LEWIS BEATS INJURY AFTER TWO YEARS

Any doubt about the ability of Lib Lewis, young Carnegie Tech end, who suffered a broken leg in the Tartan-Notre Dame game here two years ago, to come back and play first-class football again have been dispelled by the work of the Washington (Pa.) boy in recent Plaid scrimmage sessions. Lewis has been playing with all the zest and dash that enabled him to win a regular job as a sophomore in 1931, and, paired with Capt. Red Stewart, promises to give Carnegie an exceptional brace of wingmen during the coming campaign. Had Lewis not been able to stage his comeback, it would have meant big chances for Kay Burns and George Goodridge, a pair of young ends who could make many a college eleven.

Lib Lewis

The accident that cut Lewis down came as a result of the exceptional spirit he displays in a game. Emmett Murphy, Notre Dame quarterback, was running toward the sideline, with Lewis in hot pursuit. There was no rule then that brought the ball in when it was downed less than 10 yards from the side stripe. When facing the possibility of being forced to put the pigskin in play close to the sideline, the ball toter always endeavored to carry it over the marker.

BREAKS LEG DIVING TO KEEP FOE INSIDE

Lewis was attempting desperately to prevent Murphy from getting out of bounds. He made a dive for the runner with reckless disregard of his own safety, struck the ground under Murphy and snapped a leg bone.

It was months before Lewis could walk again, and it was feared that he would play no more football. But he is playing plenty of it for Howard Harpster right now, and there appears little chance for anyone else to be at right end for Carnegie when the Tartans trot out to open the season against Pop Warner's Temple aggregation at the Stadium two weeks from tomorrow.

YANKEES ONLY RUPPERT CLUB TO TRAIL

The strongest club in Col. Jacob Ruppert's chain made the poorest showing in 1933 in the matter of position. Though finishing as close to the top of the American League as is possible without getting there, the Yankees are occupying a lower berth than any other outfit in the Ruppert group. Omitting play-offs, all of the farm clubs succeeded in leading their leagues.

Col. Jacob Ruppert

Newark topped the International League by 14½ games, which is not to be discounted by the loss of a four-game play-off series to Rochester. Binghamton won out by a scant two points in the New York-Pennsylvania League, while Wheeling, winner of the second half of the Middle Atlantic League split season by five and a half games, led the league on the entire year's play by four and a half games, though beaten by Zanesville in the play-offs.

PLAYOFF SYSTEM BRINGS EXPECTED KICKS

CATCHERS PLAY BIG PART IN WORLD SERIES

(This article, dealing with the catchers, is the second of a series of five comparing the different departments of the Giants and Senators, who will clash in the coming world series.)

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

The catching role in world series competition certainly has not been a minor part. In the 30 years of inter-league strife, the hard workers who wear the mask and protector have contributed high spots that will ever be a part of baseball lore.

Consider, if you will, the case of Henry (Hank) Gowdy. Hank was just a big country boy trying to get along in the city when a sudden splash of world series fame put him on the pinnacle of sport. Hank it was who caught the entire series for the Boston Braves when they made history by defeating the famed Philadelphia athletics in 1914.

GOWDY WAS HITTER

Gowdy's bat played a .500 tune in the Fall classic which is the principal reason why he was publicized. On many occasions a smart receiver has guided a great pitcher in world series competition. The receivers is acclaimed by his mates and a few on the inside, but the general public learns little of what had transpired.

Take the case of the St. Louis Cardinals. As you know, the Redbirds and Athletics fought it out for diamond supremacy in 1930-31. The American Leaguers triumphed in the first meeting, but with Catcher Jimmy Wilson all set for the 1931 scraps, the Cardinals came through to a brilliant success.

It is a co-incidence that the lad whose shoulders felt a big burden of the Cardinal play of 1931 is the same young man who this year will be under the bat for Memphis Bill Terry and his National League champions.

Gus Mancuso has been given much credit by Terry for the success of the Polo Grounders. Back in '31, Gus was the soft-pedal catcher for the Redbirds. Quite a spell before the series opened, Jim Wilson was hurt and Gus had to start the world series. His inexperience was evident and Wilson eventually went under the plate, but in the interim, Mancuso, under the tutelage of Wilson, became a star of the first rank. And just after he reached stardom, the smart Terry stepped in and landed Gus in a swap with the Cardinals.

SEWELL DURABLE CATCHER

It is altogether possible that in Luke Sewell, Joe Cronin has a receiver who measures up to Mancuso. This writer has no line on Luke other than that which comes to him from players, but the verdict on the Washington catcher is very favorable. The fact that Luke has been under the bat in more than 100 games this year is the real test of his ability. Apparently he fits right in with the aggressiveness which radiates around Joe Cronin.

The impending scraps may see Mancuso and Sewell doing duty in every game. Paul Richards is ready for second-string duty in the New York lineup, with Moe Berg ready to relieve Sewell on a moment's notice.

Mancuso and Sewell are reliable batters with the New Yorker having a trend toward long drives. Each is batting around the .260 mark. Summing up the receiving situation it probably would be fair to both sides to call it a standoff.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: A ROYAL MUSTACHE OF 45 INCHES—King Victor Emanuel II, of Savoia, known as the Father of his Country and Re Galantuomo (Gentlemen King), was born in 1820, was proclaimed the first King of reunited Italy in 1861. The King took great pride in his handsome appearance and in the prodigious length of his mustache. Coincident with his visit to Paris on the occasion of his daughter's engagement to Prince Napoleon Joseph, of France, in 1855, I find that the French papers stated the length of his mustache to have been 1m14cms (45 inches).

Art Strutt gets an opportunity to do just what his name implies as a starting halfback tonight as Duquesne University's Durable Dukes engage in the second game of their campaign. The Dukes are primed to keep a very important engagement at Forbes Field with West Virginia Wesleyan's formidable footballers.

Strutt came to Duquesne with visions of becoming a great fullback. He's had a fling or two at the job, and done right well, too, but it appears he's best suited to go at a halfback. He blocks well, and is fast and an able ball-carrier, so tonight he starts at right halfback in the place of Jim McDonlad.

DUKES' LINEUP INTACT

The remainder of the Duquesne lineup will be identical with that which battled and defeated Waynesburg last week, and merely by glancing at the top of this column, if you've not already done so, you can see just how the boys will line up.

West Virginia Wesleyan co here with the record of hav attained two victories in th games with the Dukes, scoring t of them in successive years, la fall and in '31. Coach Cebe Ro has no man of the caliber of th great Gyp Battles or Beveridge t toss at the Dukes tonight, but he has a clever backfield performer in Howard Bachtel, a really outstanding center in big Nick Giantonio, who played his first year of college football as a tackle for Broaddus before that determined little West Virginia institution gave up the football ghost and since has starred on two Bobcat lines.

GIANTONIO A LULU

Giantonio is just good enough that when he decided to leave Broaddus so as to continue a football career, the boys at West Virginia were interested to the extent, so the legend goes that they guaranteed to have apple pie a la mode at every training table meal.

The Bobcats, as the Wesleyans are known in football circles, lack weight but are fast, aggressive and well drilled. Coach Cebe Ross is noted for the way in which he stresses fundamentals. His teams always are pips on the defense

SCOTT FAVORED OVER TUBERS TONIGHT

CITY SCHOOLS PLAY FIRST CONTESTS

By JULIUS LEVIN

Five attractive nocturnal football contests are offered the followers of the scholastic sport in Western Pennsylvania this evening, with the McKeesportt-Scott High School clash at North Braddock heading the program.

Besides the McKeesport-Scott game under the lights at North Braddock, Rankin meets Homestead at Homestead, New Castle entertains Ellwood City at New Castle, Crafton is host to Mt. Lebanon at Crafton and Centerville is the attraction of Charleroi at Charleroi in night duels.

SCOTT FAVORITE

Although McKeesport is a member of the double A group while Scott operates in the class A ranks, many fans are picking Johnny Reed's North Braddock eleven to triumph over the Tubers tonight. Reed's team was impressive in scoring victories over Uniontown and Canonsburg, while McKeesport was held to a deadlock by a plucky Glassport eleven, a class B contender.

The Rankin-Homestead duel brings together two well-matched rivals. Both teams started their campaigns with impressive triumphs, Homestead running away with Brentwood, while Rankin swamped Follansbee. Tonight's duel is the first real test of the season for the two rivals and the outcome is a toss-up.

Crafton makes its debut at home under the floodlights by engaging an old rival in Mt. Lebanon. Crafton already has suffered a defeat, losing to Coraopolis by a single point, while Mt. Lebanon started its campaign with a victory over Dormont.

CITY SCHOOLS CLASH

Eleven of the 12 members of the City High School League are prepared to open their football campaigns today and tomorrow. All games scheduled for the local elevens are either non-league or inter-sectional frays which do not figure in the championship races.

Out at Taylor Allderdice Field in Squirrel Hill, Perry High, last year's City champion, is striving to turn the tables on Allderdice for a pre-season defeat suffered in 1932; Carrick is clashing with Peabody at Peabody, South Hills is at Washington opposing Trinity, Fifth Avenue at Bellevue, Braddock at Westinghouse, and Dormont at Langley.

Long's Sport Comment

faction have been borne out by post-season developments. Newark fans in particular are disgusted with the arrangement that led to the elimination of Al Mamaux's club by Rochester in the play-offs after the Bears had finished 14½ games ahead of the field in the regular race.

The Newark club, though the class of the league, thereby lost the right to meet Columbus, winner of the American Association play-offs, in the little world series. And if Rochester wins out over Buffalo in the International League final play-off round, baseball will witness the spectacle of a junior world series between two clubs owned by the same men, both Columbus and Rochester being Cardinal farms. Should Buffalo win out, it will be a case of the pennant's going to a club that finished fourth, that did not win half of its games during the season, and that had a percentage of only .494, coming in only six points ahead of the club that finished in seventh place.

CRONIN'S VICTORY PLEASES FANS HERE

Nowhere outside of Washington is the pennant victory of Joe Cronin and his Senators more popular than in Pittsburgh, where the youthful manager of the new American League champions made many friends during his tryouts with the Pirates in 1925-26-27. Johnstown and the Middle Atlantic League also feel proud of having played a part in the development of Cronin, as he played for the Johnnies in 1925.

The majors have seen in Jake Stahl, skipper of the Senators in 1905-06, one younger manager than Cronin, who will be 27 on October 12, but Joe is the youngest pilot ever to win a big league pennant, and one of the few of any age ever to reach the peak in the first year of leadership. Above everything else, Cronin is one of the most scrupulously clean and sportsmanlike young men that baseball ever knew, and success in the sport could not go to a more deserving figure.

DUKES AFTER REVENGE IN TONIGHT'S GAME

Making their second appearance of the season at Forbes Field tonight, the Duquesne University gridders will be shooting for revenge and trying to turn the tables on one of their most troublesome opponents. If they succeed in defeating West Virginia Wesleyan it will be the first time they have done it in three years.

The Dukes have not tasted victory over the Buckhannon (W. Va.) school since 1930, when they won by a 12-to-7 score. West Virginia Wesleyan was the winner in 1931, 12 to 0, and nosed out the Bluffites again last year, 7 to 6. It is the only college except Geneva, which holds three victories, and West Virginia University, which boasts two, that has defeated Duquesne more than once since Elmer Layden became coach of the Red and Blue in 1927.

FOOTPRINT ALMOST ELIMINATES DUNLAP

As showing the part that luck plays in the present system of deciding the amateur golf honors, Harry Salsinger recalls how George Dunlap was almost fluked out of the title he eventually won. All players with scores of 149 or lower qualified. Eight places remained open, and 12 men who had shot 150, including Dunlap and Marston, had to play off. That's where the fates came within an ace of eliminating Dunlap.

George Dunlap

Going up to the pin to get a line on his putt for the second hole of the play-off, Marston left a big footprint on the soggy surface in front of the cup and on the line of Dunlap's putt. Marston sank his putt and Dunlap putted next. George hit his ball well enough, but when it struck the footprint that Marston had left it slowed down, and as it reached the lip of the cup it hung there for a moment before finally dropping. That moment was longer than hours to Dunlap. If the ball dropped, he remained in the tournament; if it did not drop he could return home immediately. That's how close the present amateur titleholder came to being eliminated from the championship that he won. And to win the crown when the final round was reached, Dunlap had to beat the same man whose footprint almost knocked him out of the tournament in its qualifying stage.

and notorious for knocking off more favored rivals.

The contest will get under way at 8:45 o'clock.

Four other district elevens are in action this evening. Geneva pries off the 1933 lid by taking on the California State Teachers at Beaver Falls, and Waynesburg runs into more trouble at Lewisburgh against Bucknell.

In West Virginia, Salem plays Morris Harvey at Barboursville.

Judge Wally P. Steffen, now a member of Tech's football committee, is due in town today for a brief conference with Coaches Harpster and Lovewell and the Tartan varsity squad. The Judge will go over plans for the season with the youthful mentors and check the work accomplished to date.

Jock Sutherland plans to prepare his Pitt squad today for its final hard scrimmage session of the training period, slated for tomorrow. Several of the Panthers, including Messrs. Sebastian, Rooker, Love and Stark are nursing injuries that are keeping them out of action.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 22.—The Pirates are here today to carry on their battle for second-place honors in the National League. Four contests are slated with the Cardinals. Single games will be played today and tomorrow with a doubleheader scheduled for Sunday.

Heine Meine, a native son, who generally casts a spell on the Redbirds, is all set to face the home boys today. The Luxemburg citizen may have to do his stuff against Dizzy Dean, brilliant young right-hander of the Cardinals, or Bill Hallahan, veteran southpaw flinger.

SPORT VIGNETTES

Ted Yarosz got only $4,000 instead of $5,000 for his return bout with Vince Dundee at Newark the other night . . . The reason is that the show didn't draw up to expectations and the promoters saw they were up against it and asked him to cut his guarantee in half and finally compromised on $4,000 . . . Dundee received 25 per cent of the gate, and, because there was no rent to pay, the club escaped without a loss.

Yarosz will fight Lou Brouillard for the title in New York on only one condition, and that it that he receives 25 per cent of the spoils . . . Madison Square Garden offered his manager, Ray Foutts, a match with a challenger's end of 12½ per cent, which was refused . . . Foutts contends that Yarosz is the middleweight champion insofar as Pennsylvania is concerned, while Brouillard is recognized in New York, so that they're all even on that score.

Don't be surprised if Jimmy Bronson, former manager of Jack Zivic, and Gene Tunney's chief second in the latter's two fights with Jack Dempsey, is named shortly to be the new manager of New York's Garden, with our own Lou Raymond as matchmaker if he cares to take the job.

Of 79 sports scribes who were asked to pick the pennant winner in the American League last April only 13 chose the Senators and 66 the Yankees . . . Smart oracles, we sport scribes . . . King Levinsky, who defeated Jack Sharkey in Chicago several nights ago, calls himself the Poisonality Kid, and says all he needs to whip Primo Carnera and Max Baer is a dash of the same poisonality that beat Sharkey . . . Sharkey's pitiful showing against Levinsky makes Carnera seem a lot less formidable than he was in the immediate light of his knockout victory over Sharkey, for it is apparent now that the Bostonian is a well-washed-up gladiator.

Bill Benswanger, the most progressive young man to come along in the business end of baseball in many a year, is going to toss a dinner for the sports scribes as a final gesture of the 1933 season, and you can kick it around that none of those invited will fail to be on hand . . . Bill is a regular feller, and in the realm of sports no higher term of approbation can

PARKER WINS TOURNEY AT CHARTIERS

Young Burt Parker, of the Highland Country Club, finalist in the Western Pennsylvania amateur tourney, yesterday won the first Chartiers Heights invitation event, defeating Leonard Sasso, of the home club, 1 up in a match that went 19 holes.

Parker eliminated F. H. Fairweather, of the South Hills Country Club, 1 up, to get into the final, and Sasso put out Sid Carson Jr., of Greensburg, 6 and 5.

NATS CROWNED AMERICAN LEAGUE CHAMPS

CRONIN LAUDED AS LEADER OF VICTORS

Associated Press.

The last lingering doubt has been removed and it's Joe Cronin and his mighty men of Washington against Bill Terry and his hustling New York Giants in the 1933 World Series.

The Senators, long regarded as a "sure thing" to capture the American League flag, reached the point where they can't be beaten by defeating the last-place St. Louis Browns, 2 to 1, yesterday in a close game, fought out before stands that already were being prepared to receive the series crowds.

TAKE VICTORY QUIETLY

The game which finally settled the pennant chase yesterday brought little excitement to Washington fans, perhaps less than there was in New York, where a crowd of 5,000 stood in a drizzle of rain to pay tribute to the Giants as they received a civic welcome the day after their return from the West, where they clinched the flag Tuesday.

Walter Stewart, the southpaw ace who used to pitch for the Browns, held his former team in check to give the Senators the title contest in a duel with Irving (Bump) Hadley, one-time Washington flinger.

JOE CRONIN LAUDED

Joe Cronin, the 26-year-old leader who brought Washington its first pennant since the Senators triumphed under another "boy" manager, Bucky Harris, in 1925, was given a large share of the credit for the triumph. But the fans, while paying tribute to his personal leadership and the spirit he imparted in his first year in the managerial role, had to admit there were other players who made it possible for the Senators to win the season's series against every rival club and hold first place almost without interruption since the end of June.

There was a great pitching staff, led by the durable Alvin Crowder and Earl Whitehill, a whole flock of .300 hitters, among them Cronin himself, and a fine defense.

The Giants, after their damp parade, enjoyed another day of much needed rest in preparation for the world series duel as their game with the Brooklyn Dodgers, the only one on the National League schedule, was postponed.

The one remaining game saw the sudden and complete downfall of Johnny Marcum, the rookie pitcher of the Philadelphia Athletics, as the Detroit Tigers won, 10-3.

Central Soccer Teams Await Start

The Central District Soccer League opens its compaign tomorrow with two games carded. Ambridge meets Clan Douglas at the Westinghouse High School Stadium, and the Union Switch and Signal team makes the trip to Aliquippa. Arsenal is idle this week.

The Allegheny Valley League has four games scheduled for Sunday, Harwick meets Garfield, Hillman plays Harmarville, the Athletics meet at Tuscan and Renton faces Tarentum.

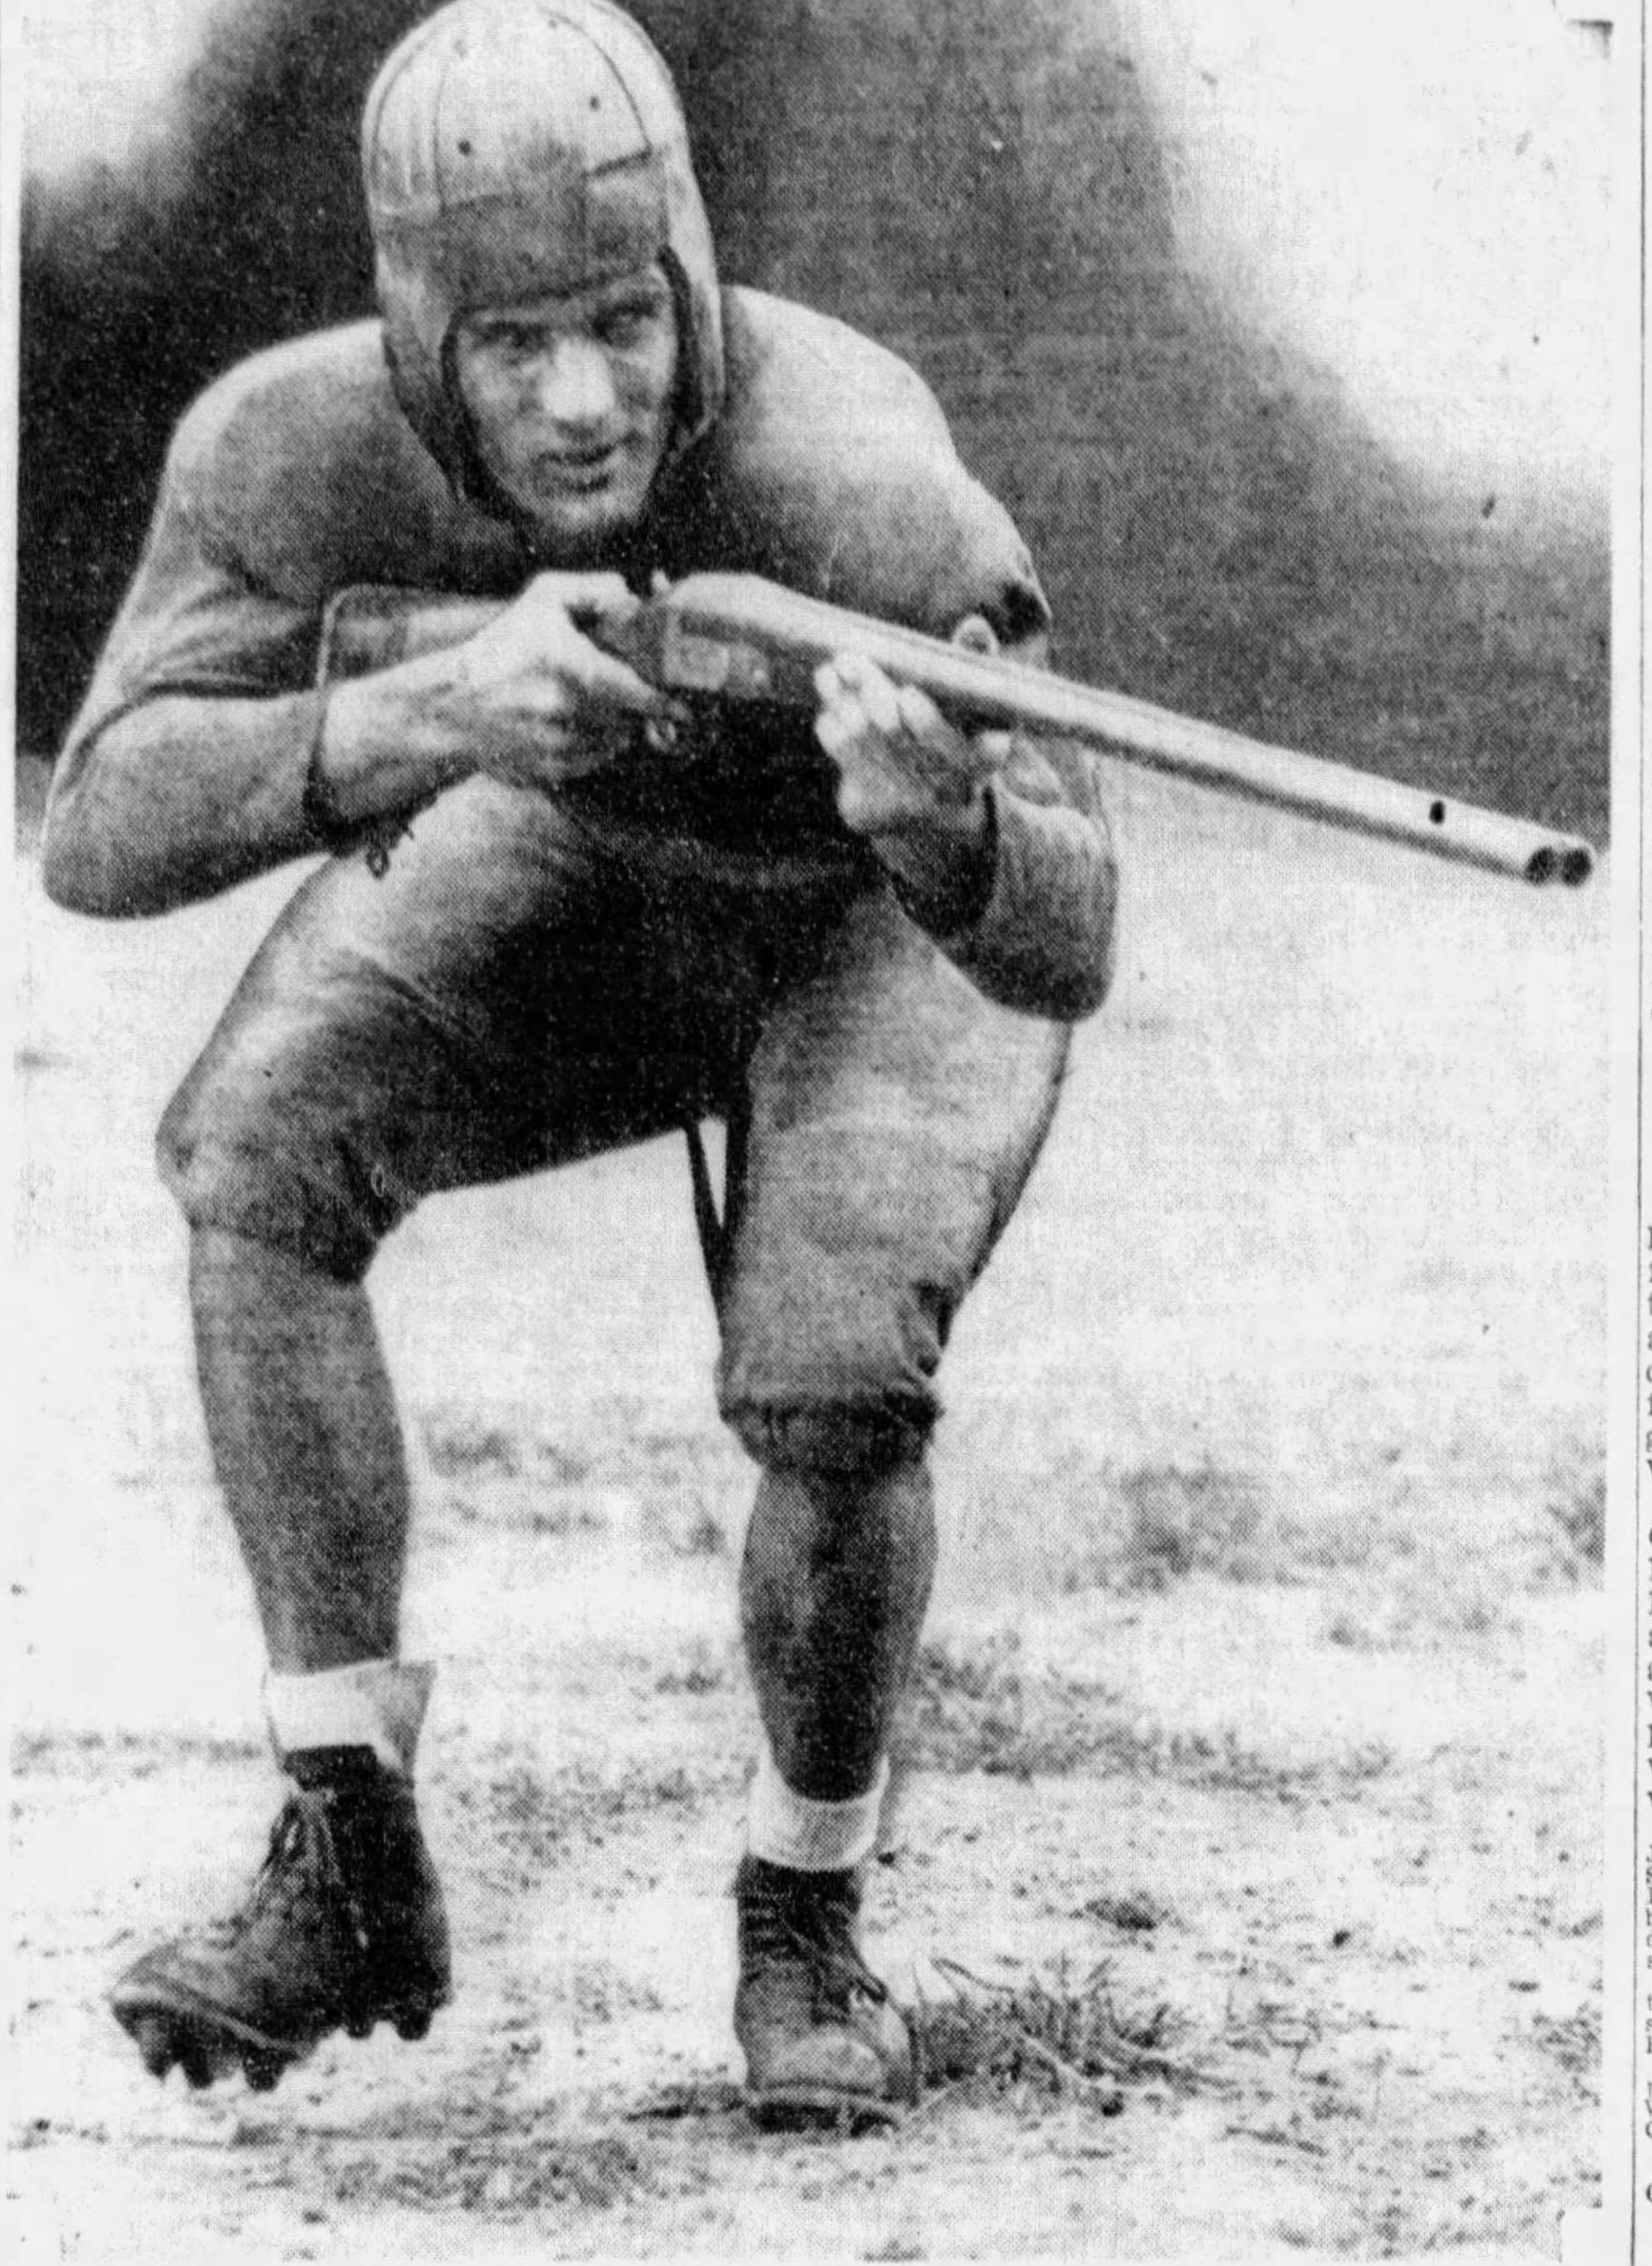
be given any man . . . I'll have my steak well done, Bill.

In this column yesterday we called attention to the fact that the football games are likely to be extended an average of 12 minutes through the medium of having the officials take time out every time they bring in the ball 10 yards from the sideline when it is declared dead within that area . . . Now comes Heinie Blum, veteran local official, and a good one, to declare that time will not be taken out for that maneuver around here, regardless of what is done elsewhere. . . . He says this point was discussed when Walter R. Okeson, chairman of the Rules Committee, was here on Tuesday night for an interpretation meeting and Okeson said the new rule does not provide for time out and that the rule will be so interpreted.

In the Middle West and elsewhere they are taking out time under the provisions of the Delay of Game rule, which reads that "Time shall be taken out while the ball is being brought out for a kickoff; during try-for-point after touchdown; after a touchdown, safety or touchback; after a fair catch has been made; after an incomplete forward pass; during enforcement of penalties; when the ball goes out of bounds; during all substitutions; or when play is for any reason suspended by the referee."

The only basis for time out for the new provision under this rule could be based on the construction of the clauses "when the ball goes out of bounds," although technically the side line is the "out of bounds" limit except for a dead ball, and the "or when play is for any reason suspended by the referee." . . . Since no specific mention is made of the 10-yard zone for suspension of play, either through an oversight or by intent, Chairman Okeson believes the rule does not apply in this instance, and, on his interpretation, the local officials will not take time out . . . We trust all of the officials who read yesterday's paragraph will take note of this followup and thus avoid conflict and confusion in their handling of games.—HARRY KECK.

On Trail of Those Bobcats



GERALD BAKER, DUQUESNE'S WILD GAME HUNTER AND FOOTBALL LEFT END

Coach Elmer Layden, of the Dukes, is hoping Baker will be in a hunting mood when his team takes on those West Virginia Wesleyan Bobcats at Forbes Field tonight, for there's a jinx to be slain and skinned and stowed away. The 'Cats have beaten the Dukes the last two seasons and the Bluffites are out for one of those new deals. This is a Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph picture.

REGATTA OPENS TODAY

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Thirty-five outboard motorboat pilots, including one woman, race their speedy little craft over the Schuylkill River today opening the two-day Eastern championships. The event was delayed a week by inclement weather.

ANSWER TO QUERY

Rowland I. Noll, Tarentum: The American League has been the victor 17 times and the National League 12 times since the world series was inaugurated in 1903.

VINES URGES TEAM REFORM

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Ellsworth Vines, former National tennis champion, is for a change in the management of the United States Davis Cup team in the future. He suggest Vincent Richards, R. N. Williams or Fred Hunter former stars, for the position of non-playing manager.

In an interview granted here during the Newport tournament and withheld at his request until the end of the season, Vines revealed the reason for the failure of the American team against the British. He said:

"We were not good enough in Paris to beat the English Davis Cup players, but there were several factors in the preparation of the team that militated against our success. For one thing, we were treated like babies.

"One night we went to the Follies and the first act ended at 10:30. We were bundled out of the theater to our hotel on a sizzling night. We tried to sleep, but couldn't do it. I got up and went into Keith Gledhill's room and we had a 'bull-throwing' contest until 2:30 in the morning.

"One day there was a match between Lott and Allison, on which they had a wager and went 'all out' for four sets. The following day Lott played me and didn't even give me a workout.

"Now these things may seem inconsequential, but, in the light of developments, I have come to the conclusion that the best plan for the United States to follow next year is to select a man with a youthful viewpoint, a man possessing international background, to direct the team in the Davis Cup challenge."

Henri Cochet Wins In Pro Net Debut

PARIS, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Henri Cochet made his first start as a professional a winning one as he defeated Bruce Barnes in the first singles match of the Franco-American series played along Davis Cup lines.

The scores were 6-4, 5-7, 6-4, 3-6, 6-3.

BARNUM QUITS PITT TO JOIN BOBCATS

Leonard Barnum, promising freshman fullback of the University of Pittsburgh, has decided to quit the local university to enroll as a student at West Virginia Wesleyan.

Pitt authorities could offer no reason for the withdrawal of the former all-West Virginia scholastic football star other than he was dissatisfied with conditions here.

Barnum was not with the Bobcats when they arrived here last night for the battle with Duquesne at Forbes Field this evening. Coach Cebe Ross, of the Bobcats, while admitting that he heard rumors that Barnum was entering West Virginia Wesleyan, said that the former Parkersburg star was not on hand when the squad pulled out for Pittsburgh.

SMART LEADER ON FIELD BIG GRID ASSET

By HOWARD JONES

Member All-American Board of Football.

Howard Jones

With all the pre-season optimism emanating in all sections of the country and predicting so many great football teams for 1933, there is bound to be some disappointments before the season is far advanced. The football coach who does not come up to advance expectations usually comes in for some extensive criticism, and then, too, the quarterback continually calls the "wrong play."

Perhaps an article setting forth the problems of generalship and quarterback play might serve to quiet the overzealous critic who tells on Saturday night when the game is over what he would have done.

Twenty-five to thirty years ago, you can picture a quarterback standing behind his center looking over the defensive line for the purpose of ascertaining the best place to drive the next play. His generalship was considered fine, if the play worked, and if it failed—well, it was only poor judgment.

TEAM AIDS LEADER

My own personal opinion is that a quarterback is only as good as his team will make him. Now and then a great quarterback is singled out simply because of the fact that his team functioned consistently.

I always have maintained that Carideo was given too much credit for the success of the 1930 Notre Dame team. By this statement it is not my thought to discredit the great part that Carideo played in his team's success.

When a team by superb execution makes 50 to 75 per cent of its plays successful from the standpoint of yardage gained, the quarterback's problem is solved.

When the opposition is tough, don't be so prone to criticize the quarterback. You or I, under the same circumstances, would not do any better.

There has been much unfavorable judgment passed by expert coaches in regard to strategy, in connection with a shift attack. Their basis for this stand is that when a team shifts it is difficult to determine where the defensive players will position themselves. The best answer to this criticism is that it would only take about one play to find out.

TRIES OUT PLAYS

When two teams start out in a game of football there is certain to develop a considerable amount of experimentation, particularly in the early stages of the game. Say, for instance, a quarterback might start out in the first play after receiving a kick-off, by calling an off-tackle play. He finds that the defensive tackle is playing wide and the play is stopped, or he may discover that his teammates assigned to take care of this tackle failed in their execution. Therefore, on the next play, this point of the defense must be based on his previous experimentation and directed accordingly. As a team functions, therefore, a quarterback is a success or failure.

Recently I was requested to furnish my best scoring play during the 1932 football season. This particular request was being made to all major team coaches for syndicate purposes. Frankly, it is a request that a coach cannot meet because there is no such thing. For instance, in our New Year's game with Pittsburgh last year when Southern California scored five touchdowns, if my memory serves me correctly, each touchdown was scored by a different play.

Frequently young football coaches write and ask that I give them a good scoring play. It simply can't be done and my answer is: Any play is a potential scoring play.

When your particular team is out there fighting hard and your quarterback is doing the best he can, just be a little lenient in your criticism. Too often we are unwilling to recognize that the other fellow has the best team.

BASEBALL COMEDY

—By NICK ALTROCK—

Nick Altrock

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—Well, folks, between you and me and the curbstone, I am just as well satisfied there won't be any doubleheaders in this coming world series. I've been looking up the season's records and the Giants are hounds for cleaning up twin bills. Give 'em two games to play in an afternoon and they grab both ends and give the opponents the middle, which consists of the 20 minutes intermission.

But it's the single games that are going to lick 'em. When the Giants find out they are only going to play our Washington club one game a day, they will think they are practically loafing and may not even show up at the ball park till half past 2 or 3 o'clock. By that time we will have licked the ushers and groundkeepers that filled in for the Giants. It sure looks bad for the New York team.

Newman's Play Draws Praise From Harpster

By Howard Harpster

Carnegie Tech Football Coach, All-America Quarterback, 1928.

Having witnessed my first professional football game when the New York Giants defeated the local eleven at Forbes Field Wednesday night, I am hardly in a position to pass judgment on the professional style of play, from an expert standpoint, but one observation which impressed me greatly is that a team in that league which hopes to get anywhere must have among its players a great forward passer.

Howard Harpster

You can shoot power plays, trick plays, reverses, spins and almost any other type of offense you want to at those big, fast-charging lines and you won't gain your 10 yards in four downs very often. It is through the air that the money players make their yardage, and it takes a great passer to make this yardage possible. For this reason, even though I know nothing whatever about the other professional teams, I believe I will string along with the Giants, because in Harry Newman, former Michigan sensation, they have one of the greatest forward passers I have e‑r seen.

THRILLED BY PASSING

It's one thing to be able to run back with the ball and have plenty of time to look around and pick out a receiver before throwing the pass, but it's quite another trick to be able to rifle passes into the arms of teammates when running hurriedly backwards with three or four big opponents just about to knock the passer high in the air. Newman's passes are beautiful to watch as they sail through the air, but the real beauty of his work is in waiting until the last instant to let the ball go, and in being able to pass accurately while on the run, with opposing linemen completely surrounding him.

Newman was the most versatile and outstanding backfield man at Forbes Field Wednesday night. He not only is a marvelous passer, but he is very effective as a ball-carrier also, and when it comes to returning punts, he has had few equals in recent years.

"GREATEST I EVER SAW"

It is little wonder that Michigan was one of the outstanding teams in the country last fall with this boy at the helm, and I'll venture to say that Harry Kipke, coach of the Wolverines, would be much happier about this season if his last year's quarterback were still in school.

I very seldom get so enthused about any one player's ability, but I honestly believe Newman is the greatest all-around backfield man I ever have watched play.

Senators Favored In Series Wagering

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—(INS.)—Jack Doyle, Broadway's leading betting commissioner, today made the Senators favorites over the Giants for the World Series, but has installed the Giants favorites for the first game.

For the series he is laying 6 to 5 Giants and 7 to 10 Senators. For the first game the prices are. Giants, 4 to 5; Senators, even money.

Doyle says this will be the heaviest betting series in years, and thinks the Giants may enter the series favorites.

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

Portrait of a Man Talking to Himself

Well, that's more like it and easier to savvy . . . I mean why Will Rogers suddenly jerked his lovely child Mary back "into the kitchen" just as she was crashing the Hollywood heavens . . . The abbreviated statements under the one column photos of Mary in the journals—left the story dangling, for the reason was omitted . . . Her father, it appears, didn't want to handicap Mary with the buzz that usually accompanies anybody getting the breaks . . . Fox wanted to cast her opposite her pop in "Dr. Skitch"—as the ingenue lead . . . And he barked loud about it . . . "Nope," he said, "they'll say I'm playin' studio politics—and that her old man put her over. When my picture in done and they still want her—that'll be okay" . . . The movie moguls out there probably can't understand that, at all . . . Where so many of the mighty crash via the relation route . . . What luck some people have! A guy ankled up to a bookie at the track the other day when the Futurity was run, and said: "On what horse can I get the biggest odds?" . . . They offered him "Sir Thomas," who never won a race . . . He played it across the board for $600—and won $5,800, the geegee losing first place by a fraction of a fraction . . . So Claire Windsor must pay Mrs. Reid, Jr., $75,000 for husband-burglary? . . . Wonder what those people think—who win $500 for losing a leg in a crash?

Of course, there will always be some discontent among the workers, but I am ready to believe those letters from aggrieved people, who assert that they were forced to parade the other Wednesday or lose their jobs—and some firms deducted half a day's wages from those who marched! . . . The day appears to be past when stage directors can insult chorus girls and get away with it . . The lassies employed by Mr. Zanuck recently were cussed out by a temperamental dance arranger, but his profanity almost cost him the job . . . The gals plotted against him—and then shoved him into a pool. Then they refused to continue — until he apologized, which he did . . . I applaud that vigorously . . . Mad about the "Last Round-Up" song. It tugs the heart.

The Broadway peasant isn't as hard to reach as the fable has it . . . The other night, when a lass stranded here wept a little—a group of hard-boiled locals passed the hat and collected enough to return her to the Mid-West from where she came . . . Another kid, also stuck on The Big Apple, without even tomorrow's meal fare, was offered the coin back to Kansas City—if she would go there . . . She turned it down—preferring to fight it out . . . If she only knew . . . The best some of us get out of it is a draw . . . And even then, it is safer to play with marked cards . . . I still mutter to myself in the cafes when I see men, whose slaves work hard and long for tiny wages, spend lavishly on Broadway no-accounts.

The fireworks, it appears, haven't started yet in Hollywood . . . The men handling the motion picture code for Mr. Roosevelt, however, told him that the cinema industry's most annoying carbuncle is the "huge money" exacted as wages by the stars. . . And the code-designers have been comforted by the mightiest powers in Washington to "go as far as you like" . . . I can almost hear the shrieks from Hollywood undressing rooms from here . . . How accurate the reports are from there that Carole Lombard's new favorite person is Gary Cooper I don't know . . . But when that report was dot-and-dashed from there two months ago—little time was lost by the other commentators, who scolded me until my ears tingled . . . There is some satisfaction seeing them reprint that sort of stuff later on . . . It took a big convention (a life insurance company's get-together) last week to put some life into Broadway for a few days . . . The cafes that are open were capacity-filled—and the rottenest shows in town were packed . . . They seemed to be having such a good time, too. . . . I guess the semi-nude idea in entertainment will never become unpopular, at that . . . If only some of the middle-aged visitors to these undraped shows could see themselves when the ladies reveal themselves in the Eve manner . . . Their jaws part and their orbs bulge.

The saying goes that the heavens are always on the side of babies and drunks . . . I was convinced of it last night when a sassy stranger to the mid-town sector gave a notorious outlaw a verbal spanking—and nothing came of it! . . . He came into one of the late places with his doll and she traded nods of salutation with the mobster . . . The stew obviously didn't know that his lady nodded first and that she knew the guy . . . "What's the matter with you—sick?" he hiccuped across the floor . . . The tough one paled a bit but offered no rebuttal . . . This gave the drunk more courage and his flow of chatter, some of us feared, would get him a thrashing or worse . . . Attaches quieted him down and the better-mannered outlaw kept toying with his matches . . . "Well, you certainly can take it," one of us remarked to him . . . "What's the use of starting anything," he replied, "the last time I got into a scrap in a joint—the place was closed down" . . . And when it was suggested that his annoyer be introduced to "Mr. Finn" (which is Broadwayese for a deadly concoction), he stopped that, too. . . And as I go back over the seasons—I can recall only two brawls in the night spots in which the "boys" were disorderly and responsible for trouble . . . It usually is the broker, the collegiate and the society patron who throw the blows . . . And invariably over some doll's honor, which she hasn't.

Seems to me that the gazettes are being used as bait by Aimee McPherson and Mr. Hutton, who have hired fancy-priced press agents to keep the presses fed with their fight . . . Both are out for the big coin, apparently believing in the theory—get it while you're hot—you stay cold a long time—and they keep up the dull quarrel . . . Aimee is supposed to have held a revival meeting in the club car of the Twentieth Century the other day—what a showman! . . . And Hutton doesn't care how many eggs are hurled at him on stage—so long as the papers will make a record of it . . . They're not the dummies the big towners consider them . . . If you witnessed Sidney Howard's expose of the evangelist business—you couldn't believe any of their routines . . . What this sinner will never understand—is how Aimee can keep that straight face when the plate is passed at her Temple—and she intones through amplifiers: "Give as much paper money as you can—the noise of coins makes me nervous."

O'Briens Wed Under Rules To Avert Divorce

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 22.—The George O'Briens (Marguerite Churchill) are admitting that, before their recent marriage, they calmly talked things over and formulated a set of rules to defeat the divorce menace that hovers so maliciously over Hollywood homes.

Number one rule, says the western star, is not to talk of careers at home.

"We don't discuss Marguerite Churchill's picture work or George O'Brien's," he says. "The only thing I know about my wife's contract is that it provides her with time to do stage work in New York."

Miss Churchill

George says he got this idea from his father, Daniel J. O'Brien, San Francisco's police chief for 27 years.

"The chief never brought the police department home," he explains. "When he entered the house, he put his badge and gun in a drawer and all his business cares with them."

Rule No. 2 is that if George wants to hop off at a moment's notice for faraway places he can do it. And how he can do it! Two years ago, this star decided to go to China. In a little more than an hour, he was aboard a freighter and on his way.

Marguerite agrees to go along, too, if George wants her and she can make the arrangements.

Rule No. 3 is not to question each other.

Simple, isn't it?

This is too priceless to keep. The other day Toby Wing was talking about a former boyfriend.

"I think he is a swell fellow," she said. "He has such high ideals."

"What are his ideals?" someone asked her.

"Well, first," she said, "he wants to make a lot of money. And, second, he wants to have a good time."

* * *

Miss Crawford

Joan's sprained ankle is better now. Did you know it was broken three times before and sprained once? She has just bought the lot behind her house and will put in a tennis court on it. A swimming pool may come later.

"But not until I've saved the money for it," says Joan. "I have enough money to buy the lot and put up the court. I'm not going into debt or sell any of my securities for any luxury."

Innovations in furniture to be seen in Paramount's "Design for Living" will be protected by government patents. It's all the rage now, y'know, to copy such things from the films. Sometimes, this extends to entire sets. That gorgeous farmhouse that M-G-M had built for "When Ladies Meet" brought hundreds of requests for plans. Even Walter P. Chrysler made inquiries.

Tracy Heroic In Fulton

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Spencer Tracy, playing a naval officer who runs into tough luck to the extent of being kicked out of the navy, in "Shanghai Madness," film in the Fulton, will please all the folks who like a good he-man characterization. Fay Wray, as a nice little girl who is foolish enough to do the things that suggest the title, will please all those who don't get impatient with girls who do foolish things. And Eugene Pallette will please all those who like to see Gene in the role of a roughneck—and there are plenty who do.

With those assets, what does it greatly matter that "Shanghai Madness" is mostly hokum?

The story is a combination of the Frank Merriwell idea, with Tracy as the hero, and the modern impetuous youth theme, as reflected in Miss Wray. Our Mr. Tracy, 14 years in the navy and on duty in China, is court-martiated for mixing into a local fight. He had returned the fire of a fort that had fired on him, for which he is fired. So he goes from ship agency to ship agency in Shanghai, looking for a job. Thus he runs across Miss Wray, all mixed up in a Chinese riot because she had disobeyed her daddy, who had told her not to visit the native quarter of the city.

He gets her back where she belongs, and of course she falls in love with the splendid chap. But her daddy knows he is under a cloud, and forbids her seeing him. She is only on a visit, anyway, and he tells her he is going to send her back home Saturday. Consequently she slips away before that time and hides on a river boat on which her hero has been hired.

Before the adventure ends there is a dash of warfare out of which Hero Tracy emerges with such a fine record that the United States feels that it just has to restore to him his naval sword, and all that pertains to it.

Besides this feature there are the continued adventures of "Tarzan the Fearless," in two reels, and Hearst Metrotone News.

STOCKS AFTER FITFUL START HEAD UP

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Financial markets, while still moving fitfully in the face of choppy inflationary breezes, apparently felt better today and security prices retrieved some of their recently surrendered territory.

Stocks rushed about nervously in the first hour, rallying and declining in sudden spurts. Trading activity expanded sharply as buyers and sellers switched positions frequently. After the first hour the list steadied, however, and by noon the trend seemed upward. Later most categories moved forward, although there was no unusual buoyancy in the recovery. Grains, heavy at one time, also came back while cotton was in demand at higher levels. Other commodities were fairly firm. The dollar looked much higher most of the morning, but eventually turned back to around its previous position.

There was a mild run on Seaboard Oil stock, which got up about 4 points. Houston Oil advanced 1, but Standard of New Jersey was off a point. Recoveries of 1 to 2 or more were recorded by United States Steel, Case, American Telephone, Chrysler, Allied Chemical, National Distillers, United States Industrial Alcohol, American Can, Western Union, Deere, Consolidated Gas, Public Service of New Jersey, North American, New York Central, Santa Fe, Union Pacific and Southern Pacific. Homestake Mining was up 16 points at one time at 370, another new high, but later relinquished all but 7. United States Smelting gained some 4 points and American Smelting, Dome Mines and McIntyre Porcupine rallied 1 to 2 or more.

With the recent switch in inflationary sentiment, financial quarters were discussing the possibility of a stabilized dollar, in one way or another, and there even were guesses being made on the return to the gold standard. Brokerage circles that only a few days ago saw inflation lifting prices to new heights, were whispering of a probable "sound money" boom with business forging ahead on a newly constructed monetary unit.

Reports from Washington that the administration was considering some important move in the currency situation were highly interesting to Wall street. Some bankers were of the opinion that if and when the country gets back on the gold base, the standard will be one of bar metal instead of the previous monetary one. In other words, paper dollars will not be redeemable in gold dollars but in gold bars. This is the standard on which France operates. Several thousand dollars, therefore, would be required to obtain a single gold bar.

Reported efforts of the railway administration to have the carriers place orders for some 1,000,000 tons of rails were cheering to the steel industry which recently has been suffering from sagging production. Railroad managements are said to be friendly toward equipment purchase proposals if prices are reduced. It was understood that credits for new equipment of between $400,000,000 and $500,000,000 might be obtained from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, such credits to run on a 10-year amortization basis. The railroads, thus far, have been timid about increasing their indebtedness to the government because of surplus rolling stock and other materials on hand.

WHEAT TAKES FRESH DROP

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—Despite rallies in grain values at the outset today, sharp setbacks quickly followed. Wheat fell more than 3 cents a bushel as a result of renewed liquidating sales associated with financial policy uncertainties. Opening unchanged to ½ higher, wheat afterward tumbled all around. Corn started ½-1¼ up, and subsequently receded.

Violent fluctuations followed an extreme break of 3½ cents a bushel in wheat. At some stages, rebounds of 2½ cents were witnessed in a few minutes, and similar action took place in corn, with trade on a large scale in both grains.

The following quotations on the Chicago Board of Trade are reported by A. E. Masten & Co.

Fine Calculation Used Fixing Gold Price

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Determination of a daily price for gold by the Treasury involves a tedious and technical procedure.

Daniel W. Bell, commissioner of accounts and deposits, who has charge of the quotation explained today it is predicated on the highest price quoted in the daily world gold markets in London or in Paris. Usually London prices are higher, it was said.

Each morning the Federal Reserve Bank of New York receives a cable from the world gold markets as well as the prevailing foreign exchange rates. This cable is received at 10 o'clock, New York time, and is relayed promptly to the Treasury.

For instance the gold price set by the Treasury for Thursday was $31.33 cents an ounce. This was arrived at, Mr. Bell said, by a process of mathematical deductions, using a fine kilogram of gold as the basis.

The foreign exchange rate in Paris (the London market being closed) established the value of a fine kilogram of gold at 16,919.084 French francs. The daily rate for the franc was .0597½ cents. Converting the francs into dollars, a value of $1,010.9153 was established for a fine kilogram of gold. Cost of transportation and other incidental expenses was set at $3.4927 per fine kilogram, leaving a value of $1,007.4226 cents per fine kilogram after deducting all expenses. As there are 32.15 ounces in a fine kilogram, the day's price was consequently $31.33 an ounce.

A kilogram consists of 1,000 grams, equal to 2.2046 pounds.

LOCAL MARKET LIST HOLDS STEADY

Prices on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange held fairly steady in the face of the erratic market on the "big board" today. The action of the market here was attributed to the fact that most of the securities are strongly held and considerably more depreciation of equity is necessary to bring about a condition of forced liquidation. In the New York market there is said to have been considerable selling recently for accounts desiring cash balances abroad and there is an additional supply coming from trading accounts weakened by this week's wide declines.

Pressure on the fuels subsided here, but a turn to the buying side was evident. Some of the industrials displayed resistance to further offerings. Koppers preferred broke through 60 on the down side for the first time in several months, mainly due to the decline in values of utility securities held in its portfolio. The brewings were steady.

COTTON PRICES FIRM, HIGHER

December rose to 9.93c and May to 10.37c or about 25 to 30 points net higher. This bulge met a little selling, however, and prices reacted 8 or 10 points from the best at the end of the first half hour.

After selling down from 9.93 to 9.75 for December, or within 10 points of yesterday's closing quotation, the tone turned steadier.

At midday December was holding around 9.85 with the general market showing net gains of 18 to 25 points.

STEEL MAKERS BOOST PRICES

Steel producers have filed new prices for bars, plates and shapes, which will become effective within 10 days. The new quotations represent advances of $3 a ton on bars and $2 a ton on plates and shapes.

Prices for fourth quarter delivery were withdrawn earlier in the week. The increased quotations are made necessary by higher costs due to the adoption of the NRA code.

MARKET TREND DIFFICULT TO DEFINE

By LEWIS HANEY

Professor of Economics, New York University.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—The stock markt has been so erratic that it has almost become difficult to picture it as having any sustained trend. In fact it has been just about as erratic as our monetary and business policies.

It has long been evident that the big spurt in the early summer was based on "anticipated inflation." People feared for their dollars, so they bought equities. Wall street cheered them on.

Now, however, we are face to face with Senators Thomas, Smith and Pitman, and something about their language and actions suggests that they are not under perfect control!

Thus far, the chief strength of the proponents of inflation has been in their resistence that "this time" the thing would be "controlled." Many have hoped that by expanding bank credit and providing for some limits, a stimulus could be arranged without a runaway and crash. Probably this hae been President Roosevelt's idea.

UTILITY HARM SEEN

Thoughts and observation have led some to note that, while inflation might help some industries, it would hurt others. The persistent weakness of utility stocks is a case in point. It is hard to imagine a general sustained move in business and stocks without the participation of the great power and light industry.

Of course, too, considerable inflation has already been discounted. A good many people have already "hedged" their dollars or made their speculative commitments in equities.

Point is lent to these observations by the action of the bond market. Many bonds have lost all the gain of June and July. On the whole, the bond averages have been declining since the July peak.

This marks a change in sentiment and investment attitude, for bonds at first rose along with stocks. Their more recent action suggests that the more drastic types of inflation are now being taken seriously.

CHANGE IN MARKET

The general conclusions which occur to me are:

1—An important change has come over the market since last July.

2—This requires examination of positions and probably considerable shifting or switching.

3—The market is likely to be more selective, and to pay more attention to earnings and profits than formerly.

4—No broad, sweeping upsurge in all stocks seems likely in the near future, and possibly the "averages" have seen the highs of the year.

5—Inflationary developments (including possibly a rather early revaluation of the dollar) seem likely to keep so many people in stocks, that no further broad prolonged decline is probable.

Baltimore and Ohio To Cover Interest

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Wall street understands that the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad will cover its interest charges for the first nine months of 1933 by a margin of $500,000 and that the road expects earnings for the full year will exceed interest requirements by a substantial amount. The road has added 7,000 men to its payrolls since June 1. Last year it had a net loss of $6,334,978.

*Preliminary. †Revised.

THE INDEX of business activity in the Pittsburgh district showed further recession last week. The decline was the fourth consecutive drop.

The index is prepared by the bureau of business research of the University of Pittsburgh. It stood at a preliminary level of 67.3 for last week. This compared with a revised index of 69.5 for the previous week and with the high for the recovery period of 78.1 in the week ended August 19.

The bituminous coal strike was a major contributing factor to the decline last week, but it was not the only unfavorable development. All the phases of activity making up the index declined with the single exception of trade.

Coal Production Slumps Sharply

THE PRODUCTION factors of the index dropped to 61.9 for the week ended September 16. This compared with 65.8 in the previous week. Coal dropped to 63.4 from 81.4 as a result of the strike. Coal also influenced rail shipments which dropped to 54.4 from 58.5.

The decline in iron and steel was relatively small. This factor stood at 61.5 as compared with 61.9 in the previous week. Electric power dropped to 73.4 from 75.1.

Trade publications have reported improvement in iron and steel production this week so that this industry may exert a stabilizing influence on the index when it is next compiled.

Trade Activity Records Gain

THE INDEX for trade activity increased to 80.1 for the week as compared with 78.2 for the preceding week. The trade element in the index represents department store sales, new motor car registrations, bank debits and bank clearings.

In spite of the recent declines, all factors of the index were ahead of a year ago. All were ahead of two years ago except electric power and coal.

Power and Light Stocks Indicate Shorts Are Covering

Good covering is indicated as being in progress in the utility stocks which have been under constant pressure for many weeks, with some evidence of quiet accumulation seen in the manner in which offerings have been absorbed since mid-session yesterday. With the general market suffering a sharp break yesterday and closing practically at the bottom, close observers were disposed to point to the action of utilities as confirming their views. Leading power and light shares finished the day unchanged to slightly higher, displaying the first formidable resistance witnessed on the long decline. The action of the group today strengthened the belief that liquidation there has about run its course.

News of the bringing in of a big discovery well jointly for the Seaboard and Tidewater companies in Anderson County, Tex., proved the signal for a spectacular rise in the stock of the first mentioned company in early trading. Dispatches from Houston indicated that the new well was regarded in oil circles there as proving up a new field of some 26,000 acres in a sand similar to that encountered in the flush East Texas area. With production under strict government control, however, the latest discovery is not expected to prove the troublesome factor that East Texas was when the industry was running free of control.

A few hours before Gov. Lehman was to meet with bankers and city officials today on New York City's fiscal problems, word had got around that a decision might be reached obviating the necessity of moving the stock exchange to New Jersey to avoid brokerage taxes. It was being predicted that the administration, faced with removal of the exchange, would scrap its $40,000,000 emergency tax program if bankers will agree to advance funds for unemployment relief purposes.

Mayor John P. O'Brien, of New York, is scheduled to act on the emergency tax bills after a statutory hearing set for Monday afternoon. The emergency tax program contains six bills designed to raise approximately $40,000,000. The measures would impose a 4-cent tax on stock transfers, a 5 per cent tax on the gross incomes of brokerage houses, a 1½ per cent tax on gross incomes of utility companies, a 5-cent tax on taxicab rides, a 50 per cent increase in the water tax rate, and a tax of one-quarter of 1 per cent on assets of savings banks, life and fire insurance companies.

W. R. Cole, president of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad, said today that business conditions in that carrier's territory looked very satisfactory. "Our passenger traffic," he asserted, "has picked up rapidly in the first six months of the reduced fares. We are extending the reduction for another six months from September 30, feeling that it would be wise to test it out a year."

The present lull in business was to have been expected after the summer boom, H. A. Scandrett, president of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad said today, and in his opinion "conditions should improve from now on." The St. Paul, Scandrett reported, just about covered its fixed charges in August. Scandrett pointed out that a year ago railroad traffic was increasing rapidly, "so the percentage gains over 1932 will be smaller during the next month."

JERSEY MARKET OPENS OCT. 2

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—The New York Stock Exchange will lose about 25 of its most active stocks on October 2, when trading will definitely be started in New Jersey, it was asserted in well-informed brokerage quarters in Wall street today.

Leading brokers said with conviction that trading on the newly organized New Jersey Stock Exchanges would start on that date, regardless of whether or not Mayor O'Brien had signed the law providing for New York City taxes on brokers and stock transfers by that time.

While trading will begin with only about 25 stocks, it was explained that the New Jersey list would be expanded as rapidly as mechanical facilities would permit. Also, it was said that as soon as stocks were removed to New Jersey, trading in those shares would cease in the New York exchange.

It was expected that the stock ticker would quote both New York and New Jersey prices, inasmuch as there would be no duplication of trading in individual issues. This, it was explained, would obviate setting up a separate ticker system.

In the meantime, stock exchange quarters were prepared to wage a strong legal contest against the new city taxes.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Sept. 22.—(INS.)—The Pennsylvania Railroad freight terminal at Exchange place, Jersey City, has been selected to house the New Jersey Stock Exchange when it opens for trading October 2, Mayor Frank Hague revealed today.

Wealthy Here Are Shipping Money Abroad

—By B. C. FORBES—

ALARMED BY the sinking value of the dollar—it has dropped below 64 cents, measured in gold—many Americans are sending part of their wealth out of the country.

Mr. Forbes

London appears to be the favorite refuge. Indeed, so much American money has been flying thither that the big British banks are disturbed. Experience has taught that when capital takes flight from one country to another, it is liable to be recalled suddenly. America experienced a very heavy run on its gold in May and June last year, losing over $400,000,000.

Doubtless considerable American wealth is migrating to Paris. The French franc, the world's chief gold currency of today, has advanced more than 50 per cent above its old par as measured in dollars. However, there is no guarantee that France will not go off the gold standard.

Perhaps Americans who think they are very smart when they turn their dollars into sterling and francs will discover by and by that they would have fared better had they had more faith in their own currency. It is hardly likely that President Roosevelt will "start the printing presses" (manufacturing paper money) until other less drastic credit-inflating methods have been fully explored.

AMERICA HAS more in common with Britain than with any other country. What happens here or there has more influence, financially and economically, on the world than happenings in any other country.

Therefore, it is peculiarly gratifying to learn that things in Britain have been distinctly on the mend. An extremely well-informed British business man, in a private letter not meant for publication, writes me:

"It is undeniable that business in England has improved very remarkably during the past six months. This improvement has been surprising to the banking interests.

"They believe, however, that betterment here reflects marked world recovery in business. They believe, too, that this will be helpful to the recovery efforts being made in the United States.

"The London economic conference may not have mathematically shown pronounced progress, but several friends who participated frankly state that, if the conference did not determine what could be effected internationally, it did bring out what could not be effected.

"I dined the other night with eight men, all exceedingly important in England's business affairs—two of them governors of the Bank of England—and I discovered that, practically without exception, they wished President Roosevelt well in his undertaking.

"It was revealed that they were convinced that, not only in the United States, but in the world at large, a new era must be ushered in if world-wide conditions are to improve, and that this new era, in their opinion, can be brought about only by basing costs upon a living wage."

RUSSIA SNAGS WHEAT MEET

LONDON, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Russia stood pat today on her demand that she be allowed to export about twice as much wheat as has been allotted to her under the international wheat agreement, and a meeting between the representatives of the Soviet government and of the "Big Four" exporting nations broke up without getting anywhere.

The original figure set for Russia was 44,000,000 bushels.

Other nations participating were the United States, Canada, Argentina and Australia.

After the meeting it was said in an authoritative quarter that the Russian stand presented the hardest nut the conferees have yet had to crack.

Representatives of the exporting nations expect to meet again next week to see if they can get any further with the problem.

It is not expected that there will be any developments making it practical to expand the total of 560,000,000 bushels agreed upon as the export figure for the entire world.

GRAIN ACREAGE CUT ASSURED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—A reduction in next year's wheat plantings of more than 3,000,000 acres was assured the agricultural adjustment administration last night on the basis of latest reports on their campaign to obtain agreements among farmers to curtail acreage.

These showed that 219,818 wheat growers up to September 18 had signed applications for contracts to join in the voluntary domestic allotment plan, thus agreeing to cut plantings 15 per cent under acreage harvested for three to five years up to July 1, 1932, in return for cash benefits.

The farmers who have signed control 21,291,694 acres, the administration reported. If the contracts are finally approved, application of the 15 per cent reduction to these farmers would account for a reduction of more than 3,193,000 acres.

There are approximately 1,200,000 wheat growers in the nation, but the campaign is not being pressed in areas where it is not commonly grown or where it serves principally the purpose of a rotating crop.

Farmers signing applications agree to reduce their plantings in 1935 as well as next year.

dall, and somebody bumping Levitoff off. I'd say it was a swell case to get out of But if I can help—well, I'll be around."

Durant shivered as he stepped into the blazing summer sunshine. Twenty-third street, even so early in the forenoon, sweltered in the heat. Yet Durant was cold.

Less than an hour ago he had talked with Levitoff And now the man was dead, wiped out of existence with that swift ruthlessness of the times. He was conscious of a feeling of foreboding as he walked toward Fifth avenue. There could be no longer any doubt as to the fact that Siddall was the victim of a plot. But the fact that Durant had no doubts didn't make the case any easier. Levitoff's death would be ascribed to robbery or to some gang warfare. Who would believe that Crelliman had had the pawnbroker murdered because he feared that Durant might somehow shake his testimony.

Gangsters Terrified

And that was why Levitoff had been killed. Durant felt certain of that. A man like Crelliman could well be pardoned for believing that Durant could work miracles. Without vanity Durant realized that to the underworld he was no brilliant attorney, no painstaking investigator—he was a man equipped with powers beyond the underworld's understanding.

Tony Gazotti, who knew he had been framed, had not yet been able to comprehend the methods whereby Durant had exposed the frame-up. Gazotti thought that Durant leaped in the dark; so must Crelliman and his friends, and they must believe that this dark leaping was inspired by some sources of secret knowledge which they didn't comprehend. They must believe that he was able to extract information where information didn't exist.

They had found it necessary to kill Levitoff lest in some fashion he give away the plot. They had done something to Sue to make her fear and hate him. Would they kill Gertie Waxted? Would they kill Jackson Durant?

They didn't understand his methods, therefore they must be more terrifying. And terror drove gangsters to unbelievable excesses. Well, what did it matter? This was the hardest case he had ever undertaken, and the most dangerous; therefore, it was the most entrancing. He dismissed his forebodings, stopped a taxi, and was driven to the Oklahoma Building. He took the elevator to the twenty-fourth floor, found Apartment 24-B, and let himself in with Gertie's key.

Admires Pictures

He stood a moment inside the threshold staring with narrowed eyes at the living room. He pursed his lips. Excellent taste. He didn't know exactly what he had expected, but certainly he was not prepared for the very decent pictures on the walls and for the general restraint of the furnishings. He walked into the bedroom. Black sheets on the bed would not have surprised him, nor would the gaudiest of draperies. He nodded with approval at the well-chosen chest of drawers, the pretty table, the comfortable chair.

She hadn't exaggerated about her affection for Mimi Montagne, either. There was the portrait done by the illustrator who had loved her, and there were the photographs Gertie had mentioned. He studied the portrait. He could see why a woman would like Mimi Montagne. It was obvious that men would love her, too.

He shook his head sadly. There was something of waste involved in the cutting short of life, especially such lovely life as this. But he hadn't come to sentimentalize; he had come to get clothing for Gertie. So, into two suitcases which he found in a closet he crammed lingerie, stockings, shoes, frocks and handkerchiefs and toilet essentials.

He carried them into the living room, and then stepped to the window, and looked out. There, two stories below him, stood the penthouse apartment of Jim Crelliman. There upon that porch had lain, 36 hours ago, the body of the girl whose portrait and photographs he had just admired. He raised a hand and pointed it at the center of the porch. His fingers curled as though they gripped something. His eyes took on a queer light, the light that is in the manhunter's eyes as he sees at last the game for which he has come so far.

Then he wheeled as the living room door opened, and he saw framed in it the bulk of Jim Crelliman.

Studies Man

The morning sun streamed through the window behind Durant to fall full upon the face and figure of Crelliman. Durant had seen the man before, had exchanged words with him, but, not particularly interested in him, had never studied the countenance of the man popularly considered as Public Enemy Number Two. He saw now a tall, well-built, though overheavy man dressed a shade too expensively. There was an atmosphere of brand-newness about everything he wore; his tie blended too perfectly with his socks, the crease of this trousers was too perfect, and the shine on his shoes too brilliant.

The man was good-looking in a way that would appeal to woman not too fastidious. Perhaps, Durant conceded, even the fastidious would find charm in the terrific masculinity of the man. But for his own taste, Crelliman was too much like a once-rugged tree that has rotted at the core. The blood that showed in his cheeks was not the glow of health so much as it was an indication of too-easy living with its consequent high blood pressure. There was a hint of latent choler in Crelliman's face, which denied the good humor of his smiling mouth and eyes.

He was smiling now, although there was something deliberate in the way he closed the door behind him that contradicted his expression.

"Well, who'd have thought to find you here?" said Crelliman.

"You," said Durant.

Junior Patrol Mail Box

We have a lot of letters today, fellows!

Please notice all of the fine things other captains are doing these days. And don't forget that we want boys and girls to play in the Junior Patrol orchestra. Write and tell us what you are doing to help others. We haven't heard much about this lately from some captains. Let us know what you and your club are doing.

Capt. Glenn Thomas, of 213 Sixth street, Dravosburg, writes that she sends four pledges with two new members. The other children have already joined but have lost their pins. She says:

"We are having a hike tomorrow. I have been away for two weeks. I was at my Aunt Annie's 10 days and at my cousin's three days. My club has had only four meetings on account of everybody's vacation. We are having another meeting tomorrow morning. I would like for other captains to write to me."

The best way to start a correspondence is for you to write first, Glenn.

Andy Senich, of 1244 Maple avenue, Monessen, Pa., is a new captain and sends in 13 pledges.

Anna Jacobs, of 1812 Forbes street, writes:

"I am sending in this pledge so that I can become a member of your wonderful club. I am going to start a Junior Patrol in my neighborhood as soon as I can. My big sister promised to help me out. I am a professional dancer. I can sing and dance and am taking accordion lessons. I hope that I can be on your radio programs. Please hurry the pledges."

Betty Haber, of 1518 Fallowfield avenue, is the captain of a new club. She writes:

"I have recently been elected a captain of a brand new club. I have 13 members, 14 counting myself. Sarah Binder was elected first lieutenant, and Claire Labbie second lieutenant. We have named it the Blue Eagle Club. We have our meetings every Tuesday from 4 to 5 o'clock. We have parties once a month. Betty Grubbs is program chairman."

Robert Throckmorton, of Waynesburg road, Washington, Pa., writes:

"I live in the country and I haven't much chance of starting a Junior Patrol. I am in the seventh grade and I read your Mail Box every day. I appreciate it very much. I hope that you will send my membership emblem as soon as you can. And try and see that this gets in the Mail Box, will you?"

Florence Eddy, of Box 132, Manorville, Pa., sends in eight pledges. She writes:

"We have planned a lot of nice things. I think we will like it. We are going to get a clubhouse of our own."

Capt. Betty Brown, of Bedford, Pa., never got a letter we mailed to her. Do you know where she is, fellows?

SIR WALTER RALEIGH DISPATCHING EXPEDITION TO VIRGINIA

A halfbrother of Sir Humphrey Gilbert, Sir Walter (1552-1617) received after the latter's death the patent over extensive regions. He attempted unsuccessfully to plant a lasting colony called "Virginia" in honor of the Virgin Queen. Hostile Indians, adventure-lust of the settlers and delayed relief expeditions made this venture a misfortune.

Raleigh besides being a colonist, was a soldier and philosopher. He was beheaded for high treason on trumped up charges after having been stripped of all preferments. (American History.)

TYPICAL 4-CYLINDER AUTOMOBILE ENGINE

Among the four cycles only the third gives power; the modern automobile engine has at least four cylinders, firing alternately so there occurs one explosion at each stroke. Picture shows each cylinder in a different view so that piston, valves, etc., are visible in view and section respectively. The camshaft (governing the valves by cams) is driven by gears from the crankshaft at half speed, because valves move once during two revolutions of the crankshaft. (Moyer: Gasoline Automobiles.) PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, GEN. JOHNSON AND MRS. JOHNSON

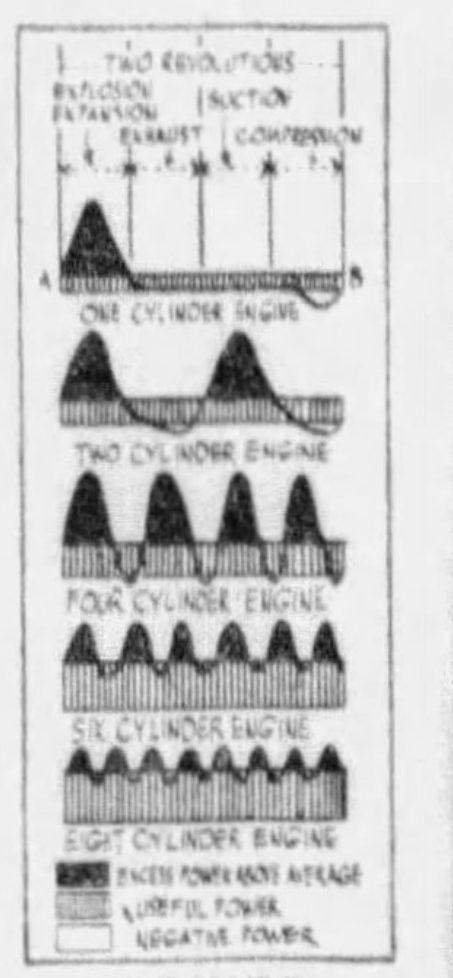
President Roosevelt started his administration March 4, 1933, amidst deepest economic depression. Declaring ordinary methods inadequate, he asked and received from Congress extraordinary powers to spend billions of dollars for public works, loans for farmers, for house owners in distress and to lay down rules for industries to eliminate child labor, sweat-shops, "cut-throat competition" and to provide work, with living wages, for the idle. His efforts to end the depression he called "New Deal." The anti-depression activities are under the National Recovery Administration (NRA) with Gen. Hugh S. Johnson as administrator. Mrs. Johnson is the head of the women's branch. (Problems of Democracy.)



POWER

Explosion shocks become smaller by increasing number and decreasing size of cylinders, providing smoother running. Diagram shows decreasing crest of waves representing shocks. (Moyer: Gasoline Automobiles.)

PHYSIOLOGICAL ACTIVITIES OF SEED PLANTS

Plants take from the soil through the hair roots water, in which salts are dissolved. Osmotic pressure and capillarity of the xylem (ducts formed by cells devoid of protoplasm) elevate it into the leaves. These take carbon dioxide from the air, conduct it to the minerals in the chlorophyll-bearing cells of the leaves, making sugar from them under influence of the radiant energy of the sun (photo-synthesis). The sugar is used partly as fuel, partly converted into cellulose, oils, proteins (protein-synthesis) for food and cell building. Oxygen is set free for respiration and partly liberated. The produced food reaches by diffusion the smallest veinlets, then the larger veins leading to the stem. The phloem (food path) distributes the food in the plant according to the needs. SEMITIC TRADERS, AGENTS OF CIVILIZATION

These were the Arameans, Phoenicians and Hebrews. Their geographical location linked the two great early civilizations, Egypt and Babylonia. They took advantage of this and displayed a genius for trade, soon dominating the commercial world of that day. Exchange of goods and ideas developed an open-mindedness and spread civilization. Their great trading cities were Damascus, Sidon, Tyre. (Pahlow: Man's Great Adventure.) (World History.)

OXYGEN TREE

Oxygen, a colorless, odorless and tasteless gas, is the most useful element, essential to human and animal life.

It can be obtained by heating its compounds (with barium, manganese, potassium, etc.) or commercially from liquid air (letting the nitrogen escape) and by electrolysis of water.

The derivation of the most important oxygen compounds are shown. Name them and complete the picture in the course of your study. (Holmes: Introductory College. Chemistry.)

Bugs Baer

The Bug Explains the Codes

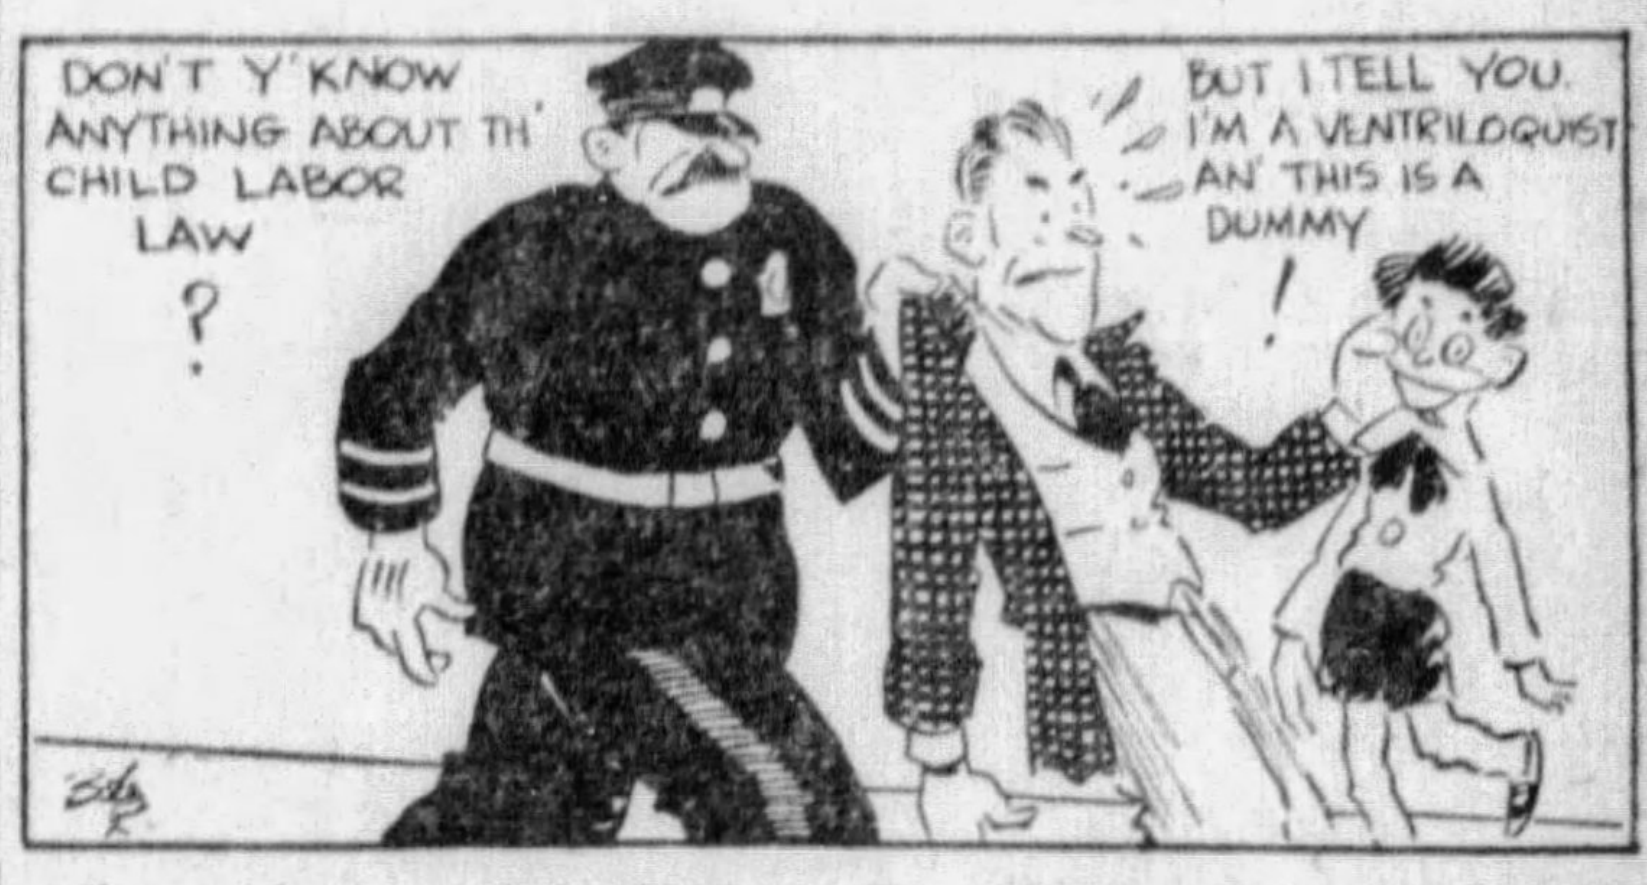
Among the many problems of the NRA last month was the ventriloquist who worked his red-headed dummy 11 shows a day. Like his cuff-links, which were round on week-days and square on Sundays, the world still moves on. This problem will not be settled until the professors get back to college.

A combination soda-jerker and pancake flapper in a lunch wagon complained he was only paid $6 a week and had to wash dishes, run errands and make himself generally youthful. That's what started the Civil War. We will give him his choice of a raise in wages or the congressional medal.

It is a difficult problem to straighten out all the barbed-wire angles of the NRA. We have never figured why well diggers come up at noon with their lunch pails when it is much less effort to eat where they are.

When you drop the kitchen mop for a feather duster you become skilled labor and entitled to the increased emoluments. Nevertheless, we have seen very few oyster openers who have framed their diplomas.

The corner druggist works 18 hours a day wrapping up free advice and warning patrons away from the busted weighing machine. In order to make a living at his profession he must sell toys, books and sandwiches. His store is popular because it contains 10 telephone booths. So he puts in 10 more telephone booths and goes out of business. All Gen. Johnson can do for that man is to let him repair his umbrella and do odd jobs around the car barn.



DON'T Y'KNOW ANYTHING ABOUT TH' CHILD LABOR LAW ?
BUT I TELL YOU I'M A VENTRILOQUIST AN' THIS IS A DUMMY !

With all due regards to the 40-hour week we would rather have the jury stay out 50 or 60 than come back in five minutes with a packed decision and a blue eagle. There are some jobs that take time, labor and brains. You cannot standardize trout fishing.

Everybody is so scared of violating the codes that they are rushing around like the boy looking for a burning deck. Not that we are not heart and soul with the idea. Which depends entirely on co-operation and honesty. We have that. You notice that every time Europe wants to draw up a gentleman's agreement it has to send to America for a couple.

Everything will smooth out gradually. We have been watching cats climb trees for years and we never saw one come down again by easy stages.

Possibly this article doesn't make sense. Don't forget we sat up all last night trying to decipher the codes.

New Industries
The Time Is Ripe for a Campaign for Pittsburgh's Commercial Rehabilitation.

Several of the candidates said during the primary campaign that if elected they would do something to bring new industries to Pittsburgh.

The tumult and the shouting are over, but it is to be hoped that the proposal for the city's industrial rehabilitation will not be forgotten.

The depression killed two organizations that held potentialities for usefulness in this field—the City Development Commission and the Greater Pennsylvania Council.

But national recovery is now well under way, and the time is ripe for a revival of these activities, at least in a modest way,

---

What Pittsburgh needs most for its greater development is the establishment of industries of a more diversified character than those now existent.

A large number of small manufacturing plants, highly varied in their products, is more conducive to steady prosperity than possession of a few big industries.

We have suffered from the mistake of not distributing our eggs among many baskets. We have depended too largely on steel and coal,

---

Steel is notorious for instability. There is a proverb in the industry that it is a prince one year and a pauper the next.

Even before 1929 we had felt the bad effect of leaning too heavily on coal. The loss of markets to southern competitors had impoverished the Pittsburgh operators and thrown tens of thousands of miners in this district out of work as long ago as 1927.

Steel and coal, with glass, electrical equipment, food products and one or two other industrial products will continue to be our mainstay, but we should have other resources that will keep going when these falter. Let us have as many strings as possible for our bow.

In any new campaign to bring additional industries to Pittsburgh we shall be able to benefit by the mistakes that have been made in previous efforts. A fresh start should be made and a course charted that will avoid the errors of the past.

We lost the automobile industry and the airplane industry. Well, that is water over the dam; but there may be profit in study of the things that were wrongly done or wrongly omitted in connection with these matters. And there will be ample consolation for their loss if we can induce numerous small industries of different kinds to come here.

Pittsburgh still is in position to offer advantages to companies seeking locations for mills, warehouses, stores and offices. The factors that made Pittsburgh great continue in force, and can be made to produce a greater and richer city.

We still have the advantage of a central location, midway between New York and Chicago, Detroit and Washington, Boston and St. Louis. With 50,000,000 people within a night's ride of the city, and 70,000.000 within a 500-mile radius, Pittsburgh still can offer peerless facilities as a distributing center.

We still have three navigable rivers, offering opportunities for cheap transportation. We still have three great trunk line railroad systems.

We still have coal mines, offering cheap fuel.

And effective use can be made of these and other advantages in inviting industries to consider Pittsburgh as a location for their plants.

The Capital Blockade
Loans to the Industries Would Hasten the Processes of Recovery.

Unproductive idleness on the part of shrinking capital is delaying the processes of recovery.

Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, of the National Recovery Administration, and President Roosevelt have focussed popular attention on the failure of short term bank loans to expand sufficiently.

But the drying up of the sources of long term capital is equally serious.

The financial center has virtually stopped the issuance of new securities.

As a result, millions of men, normally employed in activities allied to construction, are without employment.

Referring to the capital blockade, Allan M. Pope, investment banker, warned that industry was being starved.

"If this keeps up," he told members of the Financial Advertisers' Association at New York, "great numbers of defaults and bankruptcies are bound to occur.

"When you disrupt the normal functions by which money is borrowed, the public is the one who suffers in the end. The National Recovery Administration is trying to stimulate short term lending. Long term loans are just as essential.

"Today they are impossible for borrowers of conservative businesses, the type with which the investment banker alone deals.

"Such a condition cannot long continue safely."

The investment banker uses the new liabilities set up by the Federal Securities Act as an alibi for inactivity.

Unquestionably the timidity of the investor, in the face of uncertainty in regard to monetary policy and business conditions, is another restraining factor.

But the stagnation sets in motion a vicious cycle.

To break the deadlock, the federal government, as a part of its recovery program, should promptly start to make well secured capital loans of reasonably long maturity through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

For example, advances could properly be made to the railroads for the purchase of steel rails and equipment, thus shortening the period of waiting for this necessary stimulus to general business.

Other loans could be made to industry and to housing projects.

The social effect would be to impart strength to the economic situation at its weakest point, namely, in the capital goods market, where durable products are made.

Such a release of dollars would quickly have its counterpart in relief of human unemployment.

It would quicken the beneficent spiral of recovery.

Such direct advances would put dollars effectively to work, whereas loans by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to banks tend to get lost in the banking system itself, where they lie immobile as excess reserves.

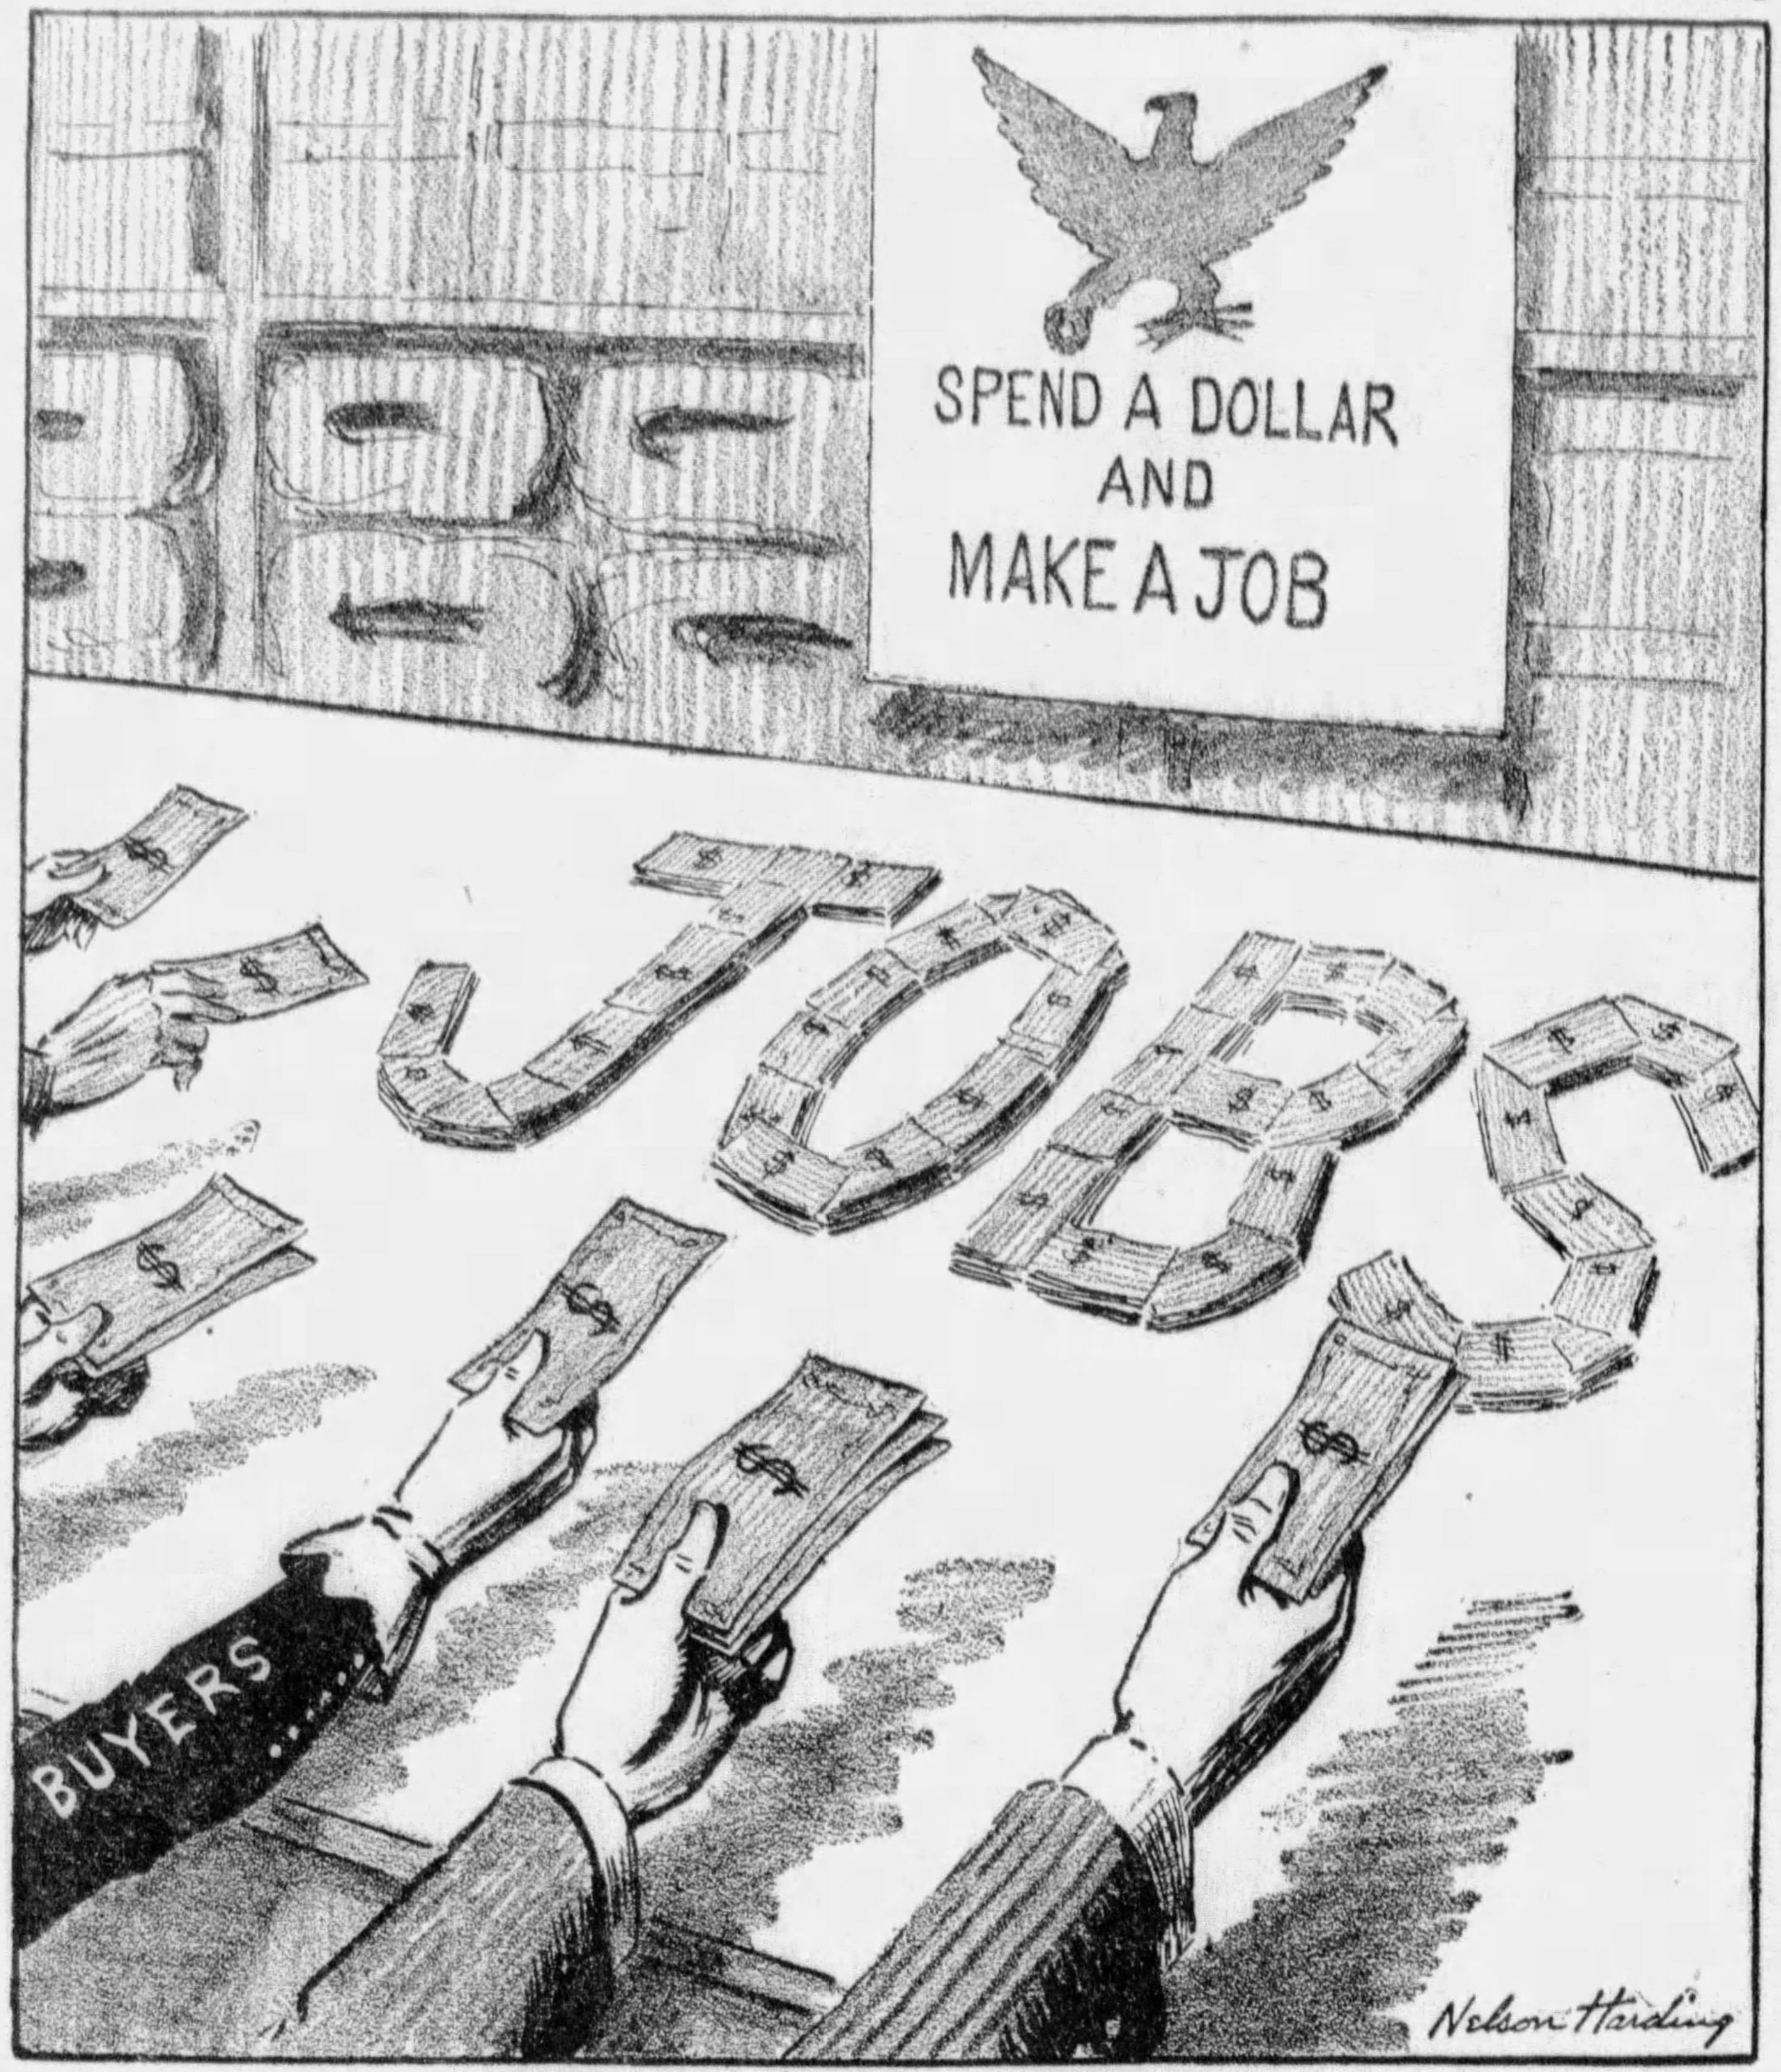
This proposed extension of the R. F. C. activity would actually swell the volume of loans and quicken the velocity with which money and credit circulates,

It would be vastly more effective in promoting prosperity than making pleas to inert private bankers to perform this necessary function.

Business and employment need this leverage promptly.

Say It With Dollars

By Nelson Harding



"Spend a dollar and make a job,"
Is the slogan of today;
And to someone, unemployed,
We restore both work and pay.

As we lay our money down,
Buying wisely, spending well,
We shall find the missing word
"JOBS" is what our dollars spell.

SALEM DAY BY DAY
By O. O. McIntyre

SALEM, Mass., Sept. 22.—This remains a spooky and fascinatingly sombre town. Never has it shaken off the aura of those sixteenth-century days when at Salem Village "possessed persons" were garroted for witchcraft on Gallows Hill. The dank air still seems oozy with the hideous sweat of necromancy.

Little wonder the Salem-born Nathaniel Hawthorne found it fitting locale for his shuddery "The House of Seven Gables." Indeed, all dwellings appear meditative with iron-clamped secrets to keep. This summer the back-fence gossips buzzed over the alleged husband poisoner, Jessie Costello.

We circled the courthouse and jail and visited the Peabody cottage, to which Mrs. Costello returned when freed. Also the witch house, witch jail, and strolled at sundown on Gallows Hill, where 22 chained innocents died because even such learned divines as Cotton Mather believed them bewitched.

Children now romp on Gallows Hill, a playground. A marked contrast to a sudden frenzy that, lightning-like, struck this brittle-dry New England town of such stagnant calm. And gushed from its granite surface one of the darkest, bloodiest epochs in formative days of the nation.

* * *

But there are highly comic reliefs in the stilted metier. Most conspicuous is the placid red-bricked and green-hedged memorial—a beautiful edifice indeed slantwise on a prominent corner —to Lydia E. Pinkham!

Every square has a simple tablet proclaiming the town's nexus with history. I copied at random from a modestly painted wooden sign in the yard of an equaly modest cottage: "Captain Felt lived in this house. He warned the British Captain Leslie that the North Bridge was not a King's Highway, February 26, 1775." What typical New England brevity and how eloquent!

* * *

But we detoured here chiefly to see "The House of the Seven Gables." Hawthorne's story was a favorite of adolescence, although a reading ten years ago found it ramblingly tedious. Yet there was a perk turning down the shabby side street to see the old timbered mansion blackened by the lash of so many fierce gales. Mystery still shudders about its many gables. And wind becomes a banshee wail!

Even the overhanging tinkly bell sounded when we opened the shop door—the same niche where the vinegarish old maid, Hepzibah Pyncheon, conducted her forlorn cent shop in the story. Outside the brooding elm, so often mentioned, spread stark branches. The shop now sells the book and mementos. A 25-cent fee per head is charged to explore the dwelling so fiction-ridden with death and strange noises.

* * *

We saw Hawthorne's favorite seat, his desk when he visited there. The cicerone was a hawk-nosed type whose voice intoned a rasping whine. With conical hat she might pose for an artist's conception of a witch riding a broom. In frigid indifference, she pointed out the corner cupboards, the chair in the exact position when the Judge was found dead in it, ponderous oaken chests, the harpsichord upon which Hepzibah strummed in the mellow parlor, and, of course, the seven gables.

* * *

The secret stairway is the piece de resistance. Only Billy, the Boston, who would tag along, seemed unimpressed. He devoted himself to customary sniffing. Entrance to the stairs is a closet ostensibly for wood, but at the end a slide panel to the secret passage winding about the immense chimney. At the top a door opens by a mysterious lock in the fireplace of the room to be entered. Back of the house a pleasant sea-edged garden, and I confess a feeling of relief reaching it.

* * *

Salem is quite unashamed of its bedeviled era. There are Old Witch laundries, tea rooms, antique shops and so on. The fact is it sprinkles the drab town with tourists. Superstition, too, has come down through the generations. Children knock on wood before crossing streets.

* * *

It's grand, skipping about this way, to awaken out of a fog of sleep and try to remember where you are. But I'm smart. Today I was not half to S before I remembered Salem. But I wish I had thought up grabbing some one's ankle ahead going up those secret stairs. A card if there ever was one!

LISTEN, WORLD
By Elsie Robinson

She's disgusted with her husband.

She's disgusted with her husband because she "doesn't think he's manly." Why's that? Well, you see, he hasn't had work for eight months. Of course—she admits it a bit grudgingly—maybe that isn't his fault. So many men are out of work. But it's the way he acts about it.

Seems to take it for granted that her job will keep them both going until he lands something. Hardly worries at all. Doesn't show any initiative or ambition. Just drifts along—

Oh, yes; he's affectionate enough. But that isn't the point. How can you love and respect a man when he isn't the least bit like you think a man should be? For it isn't only being out of work—loafing around. Its everything else.

She'd always thought men were so brave. But he really isn't brave at all. He gets as much fussed about things as she does herself. And as for being wise and strong, the way a husband ought to be—why, it's a joke! He's a baby; that's what he is. How can a woman go on loving a grown-up baby? Especially a modern woman, who has made her own way?

So—she's disgusted with her husband. And if you think she's the only one, you haven't been doing much listenin-in for the last five years. Everywhere there rises the same indignant chorus:

"So this is what men are like! These fuzzy-minded, weak-kneed, boasting, bleating, conceited, aimless, unreliable creatures—are these the lords of creation to whose judgment we women have bowed since the world began? Are these the sturdy oaks we trusted to protect us from the storms?

"Why, look at 'em! Listen to 'em! They're as helpless as infants; as sentimental as giggly girls; as gossipy as old women. Yet they expect us to look up to them and wait on them, the way our grandmas did on our grandpas. They have their nerve!"

Everywhere women are thinking those thoughts—putting them into words; into action.

And of course you can't quite blame them. They WERE TRAINED to expect Sturdy Oaks.

But of course it was a false and silly training. Nature didn't equip men with any greater wisdom or courage than she equipped women. It takes as much bravery, if not more, to bear a child as it does to face an army. It requires as much intelligence to raise a child properly as it does to earn a living for that child.

And, as for the softer attributes, why shouldn't the average man be as sensitive as the average woman, as flighty, as timid, as lazy and sentimental? The answer is —HE IS! But women are just beginning to find it out.

AS LONG AS MEN CONTROLLED THE FINANCES AND HOGGED THE SPOTLIGHT, IT WAS IMPOSSIBLE FOR THE SEXES TO KNOW THE TRUTH ABOUT EACH OTHER—OR ABOUT THEMSELVES.

BUT NOW THAT WOMEN HAVE "EQUAL RIGHTS," THE FAT IS IN THE FIRE. AND, NATURALLY, FEMALES FEEL THAT THEY HAVE BEEN FLIM-FLAMMED.

But after all, sisters, is it sporting to be so sore? Have we really a right to consider ourselves abused, merely because our mates do not fit the heroic traditions but are, on the contrary, Just Human—sharing the common human stupidity and silliness, laziness and selfishness? It's a hard rap to take, I grant.

BUT FOR HOW MANY MILLIONS OF YEARS HAVE MEN TAKEN THE SAME RAP?

FOR HOW MANY MILLIONS OF YEARS HAVE MEN ENDURED AND SUPPORTED STUPID, SILLY, LAZY, SELFISH MATES?

IF MEN COULD TAKE IT, WHY CAN'T WOMEN?

Cheer for the Men

If any man really believes that the world is going to the Amazons, and that some day Man will be the weaker sex, dominated and tyrannized over by Woman, here are a few consoling thoughts which may help him get his Beauty Sleep.

* * *

It is true that Woman has almost forgotten how to rock the cradle and has learned to run the typewriter, the car, the office and to help run the government, but it will be a long, long time before she will try to rule the world. Because, although she may have cut off her hair, tried wearing pants and forced her way into the sacred smoking-car, she is still a "Rib" at heart, and most of these things are just a "gesture."

BUT, WE'LL NEVER BOSS YOU!
THANKS!

Never, until she has ceased to be "rib"-conscious and has forgotten all she ever knew about men, will Woman tyrannize over Man in little things as he has tyrannized over HER.

* * *

For instance, NO woman will expect a man to find her shoes for her, or hunt for her hat, or to look for the aspirin or the screw-driver or her umbrella or the rest of the morning newspaper.

* * *

And no normal, average woman will trump up conferences or go out to lodge meetings and leave her husband all alone, four or five evenings a week. Because she is perfectly aware that when she returns he won't be watching the clock or crying into his pillow or putting the water-waves in his hair.

FOR MY SAKE — PLEASE GET A NEW HAT!

No woman will raise the roof or go into the silence and act sore, every time her husband wants a new hat or comes home with a lot of frivolous haberdashery. Because, persuading a husband to buy a new hat before the old one has fallen to pieces or dropped off his head, has been the feat of the average woman's life, for years!

And it's the same about his hair! Lots of dominating husbands have never permitted their wives to bob their hair. But, no woman who has had to tell her husband to get a haircut, every time he needed it, will hit the ceiling when he wants to try a new boyish bob.

* * *

No indeedy! Women may hold down big political jobs, run big business offices and take up most of the room in the smoking-car—but they will never bully a man around the house as men have bullied women. I doubt that even a female Mussolini would try to regulate the length of a man's trousers or the height of his collars!

The Human Side of the News
What Will the Racketeers Do After Prohibition Is Ended?—A Federal Secret Service—Story of the Pinkertons

By EDWIN C. HILL

POSTMASTER GENERAL FARLEY, Mr. Jouett Shouse and others who keep an experienced finger on the public pulse tell us that prohibition will be nothing but a blushing memory by Thanksgiving Day, and that the last Thursday of November, 1933, should be a day of thanksgiving indeed. Their predictions heretofore regarding the almost incredible change of sentiment in states that were hard and fast dry states for half a century or more have been so accurate that one is inclined to accept the cheerful prophecy for Thanksgiving.

But as Mr. Will Irwin and other thoughtful observers have queried: after prohibition, what? In other words, what will the criminals and other racketeers do for a living once the opportunities of the dry laws are snatched from under them? Will they be content to turn into lawful, laborious modes of life? The answer is no, almost certainly. Human nature isn't made up that way.

What, then, will the government do? Some persons, including United States Senator Royal S. Copeland, demand a secret police, a kind of Scotland Yard, whose business it will be to hunt down all such as turn to violent methods of crime after prohibition. We may get some such form of special service, though it is very doubtful, but if Congress should decide to create it no better model could be found, perhaps, than that old American institution of crook-hunters and diplomats known as the Pinkertons.

For the Pinks, as they have been called familiarly for half a century and more, remain a national institution — something above and beyond a mere commercial detective agency. They have worked arm and arm with the government in running down the Molly Maguires of Pennsylvania, and their private archives, as this writer knows, could reveal some astonishing secrets.

Akin to Canadian Mounted Police

THE Pinkertons are akin to the Royal Canadian Mounted Police in this: they always get their man, or else get what they want from him. The first Allen Pinkerton escaped from Scotland to Canada in 1842 to avoid the consequences of a political offense. He went to Chicago, formed a detective agency, guarded Abraham Lincoln on Lincoln's trip to Washington for the first inauguration, and then organized the Federal Secret Service. For the 50 years that followed, until the modernization of the official police, the Pinkertons were the stalwart barrier between criminals and their worthwhile prey.

The greatest of the Pinkertons was the late William, a remarkable man, who was the son of Allen, who came over from Scotland. Billy Pinkerton died 10 years ago in California at the age of 77, after 50 years of detective work that beat all hollow the most lurid tales of the romancers. A fearless man was William Pinkerton, and with a memory for faces so uncanny that his name in the criminal world was "The Eye." Whenever the Pinks were called in, the word went round in the underworld: "The Eye is on the job."

There were robbers and gunmen in Billy Pinkerton's time no less formidable, though far less glorified, than the bad men of these times. The robbers and killers of that day were older, maturer men.

To Pinkerton the most amazing and the ablest criminal who ever preyed on society was Adam Worth, a frail fellow of five feet four, and born in Cambridge, Mass. In his lifetime of thievery, Adam Worth stole $3,000,000, owned racing stables and yachts, traveled from one end of the world to the other in the pursuit of loot, and ruled over the criminals of Europe from an apartment in Piccadilly.

A Two Million Dollar Forgery

IT was Adam Worth who stole from a London art gallery the celebrated Gainsborough portrait of the Duchess of Devonshire. He hid it away for 25 years in a trunk in a Boston warehouse. Then, after all that time, he returned it to Billy Pinkerton.

One of the masterpieces of crime was the $2,000,000 forgery perpetrated on the Bank of England. One day in London, where Billy Pinkerton was gazing from the window of a tailor's shop out into Bond street, he saw in the throng the familiar face of George Bidwell, the slickest forger in America. Pinkerton had nothing on his old acquaintance Bidwell at the moment, so he let him go his way.

The detective sailed for New York a few days later. The first news that greeted him when he arrived was that the Old Lady of Threadneedle street had been swindled out of $2,000,000 by forgeries that were the perfection of artistic fraud.

Then and there, Billy Pinkerton knew his man. George Bidwell! With intuition that rarely went wrong, the great detective connected the swindle with the glimpse he had caught of the master forger in Bond street. Pinkerton worked fast. In no time at all he had plucked Bidwell from a steamship in Havana and had retrieved practically all of the Bank of England's two million.

It was the Pinkertons who smashed the Mollie Maguires in Pennsylvania, one of the most thrilling stories of daring in the book of life.

Commemorating a Deplorable Incident

The smug and self-satisfied persons who are trying to promote themselves and advertise a most unfortunate incident by minting a medal to the man who struck Senator Huey Long are actually, though unintentionally, performing a very distinct service to Senator Long, and doing ill service to the rest of the citizenship.

Senator Long may not be an admirable figure in the Senate. This newspaper does not think he is.

He may not be altogether worthy of the high position which membership in that august body confers.

He may indeed be guilty of all the delinquencies of which his opponents accuse him.

But he is a United States Senator.

And when a United States Senator is invited to a charity function and is urged to attend the affair for the sake of charity, and accepts for that commendable reason, and is assaulted by some member of an idle rich Long Island colony who does not approve of the Senator's behavior or of the Senator, the action is as disgraceful as the insult is unpardonable,

Furthermore, the affront cannot be construed as merely an insult to Huey Long, but must be regarded as disrespectful to the Senate of the United States and to the people of the United States whom the Senator as a public official represents.

If the Senator's conduct was unbecoming, as it very possibly was, he could have been requested to leave the club—in fact, he could have been definitely induced to leave. But an assault upon him was inexcusable.

And instead of an apology to erase the memory of the unfortunate occasion, which might have been expected from any body of well behaved and judicious Americans, there is an attempt to commemorate and celebrate the deplorable incident by formal ceremonies connected with the presentation of a medal inscribed to the man who struck United States Senator Huey Long.

The medal, therefore, merely commemorates the dullness and blindness of a class which is obtaining for itself more unpopularity with the wholesome minded public of the United States than Senator Long could possibly achieve—granting the unique capacity of that gentleman for achieving unpopularity, and admitting the sound and sufficient reason for the unpopularity he has secured.

What the medal will really perpetuate in the minds of the public is a vulgar and stupid offense against the canons of courtesy and charity and hospitality.

If the purpose of those responsible for the medal presentation was to achieve for some who are duly and deservedly obscure a little cheap notoriety, that purpose has possibly been accomplished.

If the purpose was to rehabilitate Huey Long to a degree in the esteem of those American citizens who are respectful of governmental institutions, that too has been accomplished.

And if the object of the medal mountebanks was to inspire in the American public a supreme contempt for the conspicuous absence of ordinary brains and breeding on the part of the idle rich, the achievement of that objective has been the most notably successful of all.

No wonder the Congress of the United States is sometimes moved to "soak the rich" when an obtrusive element of the rich, even though not a representative element, so ostentatiously and aggravatingly invites needed chastisement.
